She's On ADC, Living It Up And Laughing

"My being on ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) is perfectly legal, but utterly ridiculous."

That statement from a young Fairplain woman is contained in a letter she sent Rep. Ray Mittan (R-Niles) this week, a copy of which was also sent to this newspaper.

Although it is this newspaper's policy not to print letters to the editor that are unsigned or when people request their name be withheld, it was felt that the points made in both the young woman's letter to Rep. Mittan, and his reply to her, are worthy of print.

The young woman signed the letter in this instance, but requested her name be withheld. It was verified that such a woman does exist and she signed a statement in front of a witness saying she wrote the letter.

"In regards to your April newsletter, it seems that the income taxes paid no longer cover social services expenditures. This fact is not as surprising to me, as an ADC recipient, as it may be to the taxpayers.

"The laws which you helped enact, and the department you assisted in growth, are handing out a good portion of that two billion dollars to women like me. We like it. It's free. We don't have to put up with husbands, the constraints of marriage, or the responsibilities of employment. We're free.

"My being on ADC is perfectly legal, but utterly ridiculous. I was working part time when I went on aid, but the red tape, extra papers, and miscalculated subtractions from monthly checks helped me in my decision to quit.

"I call the state program the Church of Incompetence and the local department the Congregation of Confusion. ADC is, apparently to many a religion. It is an abandonment of the Christian work ethic. It's invitation to become a member is a push for the destruction of the family unit. Aid will always be necessary for some, but to many it is a way of life. I see it. I'm in it.

"It seems that someone would be telling me to support myself and my child. On the contrary, my attempts to secure any assistance for my educational goals from the department have proved fruitless. Since I already have an associates degree and have begun my bachelor's, I do not fit into a vocational training category. Rather than having one worker with whom I might discuss my family's best interests and construct a plan to become self-supporting, I am bounced from person to person, extension to extension, wasting valuable time with no results other than frustration. In the past months I've seen such a waste of paper, personnel time and postage, that I am appalled.

"It really wouldn't take more than a push to change me from a tax-getter to a tax-payer. I have work experience in my field and am not unintelligent. I was a Michigan State Competitive Scholarship recipient, a National Honor Society member, in Who's Who Among America's High School students, and maintain a reasonably high level of academic achievement. I applied for a 1976-77 Federal Basic Education Opportunity grant, and was awarded same, with an eligibility index of 0 (zero), which means that I am eligible for the maximum.

"Well, it looks like I'll spend the next academic year home drawing aid, relaxing, and laughing at the system. No one in the department realizes, or probably cares that I could be off aid, or that my husband would welcome the chance to have me and the child back home with him again. If too many people were off, someone might be out of a good-paying job, I guess they want me to stay on until my daughter's old enough to have a baby. Maybe if I had another now, I could get more money from those nice, generous, tax-paying citizens."

In his letter of reply, Rep. Mittan said:

"Thank you for your letter of April 5; I am at a loss to explain how a copy of my mailing reached someone in St. Joseph township which is not a part of my 44th legislative district.

"You are wholly wrong when you assume that I helped enact laws and assisted the department of social services in its growth.

"I have been fighting excesses in the social services department since I was elected here in August, 1968. From your letter, it is clear you are part of this excess.

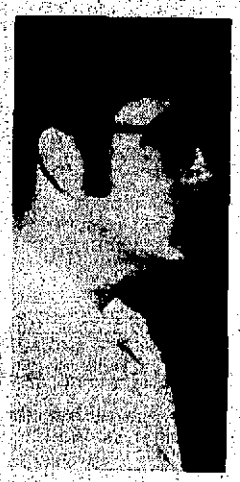

"Your very address and your education points clearly to the fact that you are one of the many people who have made meaningful aid to dependent children an an athema to the public.

"I am forwarding a copy of this letter to The Herald-Palladium as you did and also directing a copy to Wesley Bowerman, director of Berrien county social services. Perhaps he can relieve you of your present plight."

Larceny, Perjury Among Grand Jury Charges

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Four Niles city police officers and one former Niles patrolman were arrested this morning on charges contained in nine indictments returned by the Berrien county citizens' grand jury.

The indictments include charges ranging from perjury, to one count of breaking and entering.

Arrested were Patrolmen Alan M. DeLee, 28; Gary Koller, 25; Michael L. Lewandowski, 33; and William Mason, 38, and former Patrolman Thomas G. Dipert, 28, who resigned the force last summer. All were scheduled to have been arraigned this morning before Fifth District Judge Leo K. Cook.

The charges against each of the five men are:

Lewandowski, of 2203 Burton road, Niles, breaking and entering the caretaker's office at Plym park golf course in Niles; nine charges of perjury to the grand jury; one count of inducing Gilbert Braun, another former Niles police officer, to perjure himself; and two charges of larceny in a building—the alleged theft of a hot water heater from a residence at 1845 Stony trail, Niles, and the alleged theft of two coats from Montgomery Wards in Niles.

The indictments were returned yesterday on true bills and signed by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White. At least 13 members of the 17-member grand jury concurred on the indictments.

Niles Police Chief Raymond Rukman said he suspended the four officers without pay, with the suspension taking effect immediately. He said the suspensions came after a conference with the Niles Board of Public Safety and the suspensions are tentatively for a period of 20 days until the proceedings are reviewed by the board of public safety.

The police chief has the sole power to hire and fire, while the public safety board reviews the chief's actions.

Today's indictments bring to seven the number of people indicted by the county's first citizens' grand jury. Two St. Joseph attorneys, Robert Locke and Thomas McCoy, were indicted last month, Locke on a charge of embezzlement and McCoy on a charge of perjury.

Assistant Berrien Prosecutor Michael Marrs, who heads the grand jury probe, said the investigation into the alleged crimes has been going on for four months, but he had "no comment" on whether the alleged crimes were supposed to have been committed while the officers were on duty.

DeLee has been with the Niles police department since 1972, Koller since '73, Lewandowski since '68, Mason since '69, and Dipert joined in 1970 and resigned in 1975. The department has 25 full-time officers.

A statement released by the prosecutor's office says: "This (the indictments) is in no sense an indictment of either a police agency or law enforcement in general but only of persons who allegedly violated a public trust. Police officers deserve our highest respect; and more credit than we often give them.

"Although police officers have been charged, bear in mind that police officers made

Private School Segregation Issue Goes To High Court

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is urging the Supreme Court to outlaw segregated private schools that for years have allowed white parents to avoid sending their children into integrated public classrooms.

Segregation in private schools violates an 1866 civil rights law, and allowing it to continue could bring about "two school systems — one private and white, the other public and desegregated," the department contends.

Solicitor Gen. Robert H. Bork and department civil rights attorneys outlined that position in a brief submitted to the Supreme Court on Thursday.

The justices have agreed to review the issue in a case involving two black youngsters who were denied admission to two all-white private schools in the Virginia suburbs of Washington, D.C.

The court's ruling, expected later this term, would affect thousands of private schools established mainly in the South in the wake of the court's landmark 1954 decision outlawing segregation in public schools. This case affects parochial schools only if they choose students on the basis of race.

As the enforcement of public school integration spread into the North, some white academies emerged there as well.

Many white parents saw the private school as a refuge beyond the reach of federal civil rights laws.

But a U.S. District Court, then the U.S. Circuit Court in Richmond, Va., took the opposite view in the case now before the nine justices.

In a 4 to 3 decision, the Richmond tribunal ruled that private schools may not turn away prospective students simply because they are black.

Proprietors of Bobbe's Private School in Arlington and the Fairfax-Brewster School Inc. in Fairfax County appealed to the Supreme Court. The suit against the two schools was brought by the parents of two black youngsters, Colin Gonzales and Michael McCrary.

The case marks the first time the justices have agreed to rule on the legality of private school segregation. Some similar cases are pending in lower courts.

Department lawyers said they felt compelled to intervene as a friend of the court because the growth of all-white private schools could retard the integration of public schools.

"If private schools ... may lawfully deny admission to black children on account of race, and thus aid in the creation of two school systems — one private and white, the other public and desegregated — efforts to desegregate public educational systems may be seriously impaired," department attorneys said.

They argued that the 1866 statute is constitutional and applies to private schools.

The law guarantees that "all persons ... shall have the same right in every state and territory to make and enforce contracts, ..." declared the statute cited by the Justice Department. The statute, enacted by a Reconstruction - era Congress, also said all citizens must have the same right "as is enjoyed by white citizens."

Bork contended previous court rulings in other cases make it clear that the statute "prohibits all racial discrimination, private as well as public, interfering with the making and enforcement of contracts."

He said there's no question that a contractual relationship is involved when parents pay a fee to send their child to a private school.

He disputed the school

It's A Party Fight Over State Budget

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Republicans and majority Democrats exchanged accusations that their fiscal positions were "irresponsible" as the Senate began passing appropriations bills far in excess of the governor's recommendations.

Republican lawmakers said Thursday the measures outstripped available revenues, but Democrats charged the funding sought by GOP Gov. William Milliken was inadequate to meet the state's needs.

The sharp, partisan exchange came in a 75-minute debate on the Senate floor which began the sniping over the approval of a $3.3 billion budget for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

It followed approval in the Senate Appropriations Committee of the panel's final budget bill — a school aid measure almost $60 million over the governor's recommendation.

After the rhetoric died down, the chamber passed two spending measures to fund the state's colleges, universities and community colleges.

On a vote of 20-6, the Senate sent to the House a $491 million bill to fund colleges and universities. A total of $462 million was appropriated for the current fiscal year and the governor's recommendation for next year was $475 million.

The Senate also voted 21-5 to approve a $105 million bill for community colleges. That would be up from $89 million in the current year and Milliken's recommendation of $98 million.

Lawmakers on both sides of the aisle agreed the Senate committee's recommendations topped Milliken's proposals by some $160 million or more in total.

"The Democrats are being fatally irresponsible," said Senate Minority Leader Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, earlier in the day. "It looks like they're going to go ahead and pass all those bills knowing the money isn't there."

Davis accused the Democrats of attempting to force Milliken into vetoing numerous budget bills in an attempt to cut

Mrs. Pratt's Account Disputed

The instructor of the Berrien county safety school has disputed a charge by Mrs. Marianna Pratt that he was not present for two class sessions she had been told to attend. Robert Bannan, who teaches the evening classes in a portable classroom behind Benton Harbor high school, said he was 30 minutes late for the Feb. 24 class but arrived half an hour early for the March 2 class. The classes, for individuals assigned by courts or the Secretary of State's office for poor driving records, are scheduled from 7-9 p.m., Bannan said.

Mrs. Pratt, in a story published in The Herald-Palladium on Wednesday, said she ha been assigned to the class by Fifth District Judge Hugh Black but that no instructor was present at the first two sessions she attemped to attend. Bannan said that in phone conversations Mrs. Pratt told him she could not find the classroom on Feb. 24 and March 2. He said she attended the class for the first time on Tuesday evening this week.

Political Rules For Soap Powders Labels

How important is it for a housewife to know that Proctor & Gamble make Joy, Ivory and Thrill, any one of which she may buy to wash the dishes?

Or what does it add to her store of information on how to improve the furniture's appearance to realize that the Johnson Wax Company makes Favor, Pledge, and Klean and Shine?

Or what is the relief from a headache if a pill swallower is informed that the Sterling Drug Company makes Cope, Midol, Vanquish and Bayer aspirin?

Sen. James Abourzek of South Dakota and five other liberal Democratic colleagues, including Phil Hart, believe it absolutely crucial such information be imparted indelibly to the customer.

The six are demanding the Federal Trade Commission issue a regulation requiring the manufacturer's name of countless household products be displayed prominently on their containers and labels.

Abourzek gives two reasons for the denominating.

One is the marketplace concept of competition among suppliers.

It is vital to maintaining the free marketplace, he explained at a press conference, for the customer to know which items on a store shelf are made by the same company and which are not.

"It is absolutely unfair," he said, "when one corporation is advertising two of its own products as if they were legitimatey competing products."

It also greatly bothers the Senators that advertising may be the only distinction between the offerings in a given product line.

If we follow their rationalizing correctly, it might make all the difference in the world if the housewife is aware that Johnson makes Pledge while next to it on the shelf P&G is putting out Top Job.

Undoubtedly the senators' wives would have to substantiate what their husbands contend, but we would bet most housewives on a shopping expedition will pick up whatever furniture cleaner carries the lower price tag or which her experience indicates is best for her tables, chairs and chiffoniers.

He feels people should know that the Coca Cola Company markets Minute Maid orange juice, that the Gallo Brothers put out Madria Madria Sangria, and that the International Telephone and Telegraph Company bakes Wonder Bread.

"This type of knowledge is healthy for the marketplace, I believe," he informed the reporters, "because consumers can reward a socially responsible company for its positive contributions or avoid the products of a corporation they feel is not acting in the public interest."

Using Abourzek's known ultra liberal measuring stick, we suppose they are naughty people for the following reasons.

ITT engineered a political coup in Chile, a few years to oust a radical government in favor of a conservative coalition.

The FTC prone as it is to take off on fanciful flights at the least provocation scarcely needs Abourek's wind pumped into its balloon.

It is surprising the senator did not propose that Board Chairman John Platts be required to state on the Whirlpool and Kenmore labels whether he is a Republican, a Democrat, or an Independent.

George Burns Doubles Ante

Not Even Southern States Liked The Slave Trade

"Blush ye pretended votaries for freedom! ye trifling patriots! who are making a vain parade of being advocates for the liberties of mankind, who are ...trampling on the sacred natural rights and privileges of Africans; for while you are remonstrating...for a restoration of your charter rights, you at the same time are continuing this...practice of enslaving your fellow creatures."

Thus did an anonymous English pamphleteer lambast the rebellious white American colonists on the eve of the American Revolution. While the Declaration of Independence proclaimed that "all men are created equal," slavery had existed in the colonies since a boatload of chained Africans landed in Jamestown, Va., in 1619. Although it is impossible to determine the exact number of slaves in the American colonies 200 years ago, historians estimate the number at around 500,000 — out of a total colonial population of nearly 2,500,000.

Abolitionist sentiment existed in the colonies, but it did not reach significant proportions until the latter part of the 18th century. The anti-slavery movement was strongest in the northern states, where efforts were made to eliminate the African slave trade. But the protesting colonials were unable to influence the British to move against the slave trade maintained by the Royal African Company.

One of the earliest measures adopted by the rebellious Continental Congress was a resolution calling for an end to the importation of slaves. The measure was approved 200 years ago, on April 9, 1776, but it did not acquire the force of law until 1808, when Congress enacted similar legislation. In the interim, all the states — including the southern ones — passed laws banning or severely restraining slave traffic. But many ships continued the illegal importation of slaves from Africa, and found markets in the West Indies and the Deep South — especially after the invention of the cotton gin in 1793.

Nelson Road Drainage System Called An 'Unjust Imposition'

Editor

As a working American citizen I am growing a little tired of seeing more than one third of my salary being wasted by logrolling politicians who strive for personal gain rather than statesmanship. I am weary of reading about welfare fraud and the misuse of food stamps. I am disquited by support given to minority groups which seem to rule the country instead of the majority in the true republic. Minority groups to the politicians means a voting block. I am more than concerned over a jurisprudence system which protects the guilty instead of the innocent; I am perturbed over busing systems and an educational system which is conferring degrees on students who can hardly put two sentences together orally — let alone read or write.

I could care less about the sex life of a centipede or some other ridiculous college grant on which our politicians are pouring out thousands upon thousands of dollars. I have an inversion toward the run of the mill politicians who continue to overburden the middle class. But more at hand, I am implacable over the unjust imposition of a huge assessment by the St. Joseph Township Commission germane to the installation of the so-called Nelson Road Drainage System.

When a condition arises on my property which requires remedial work then I pay for it. I don't like the Township Commission arbitrarily setting a drainage boundary and then thrusting payment for the drainage line on some — not even all — residents of Nelson Road many of which gain nothing from the drain. I don't like being assessed $700 to $1,000 to pay for the drainage of a few basements and thirty acres of land to be developed by the Peoples Savings Assn. of Benton Harbor.

Let the people who have wet basements pay for their own drainage. Or if they signed the petition, let them pay the cost. As far as the swamp is concerned, let the Peoples Savings Bank improve their own land. They certainly wouldn't consider improving mine.

Upon reading about the drainage boundary and the approximate assessment recently, I was prompted to visit the Township Hall and discuss the project with Mr. Benson. Much of the information I received was rather ambiguous. I was told the county officials were the ones who attended and coordinated the project and yet the township officials are levying the assessments. I was told I could not be given an exact amount of the assessment. That must have been a pleasant contract insured against any losses by the contractor.

With this in mind I would advise township residents to reread the recent article relative to the estimated cost of the new township complex by Mr. Yurkus. I was told by Mr. Benson that he didn't know how the drainage boundary was determined. Someone must have poured a cup of water on the ground and watched to see which way it flowed since there was evidently no test drilling to determine underground water tables and no mapping of the earth's stratificatin.

If this drainage system is only going to drain off surface water then the wet basements shall remain wet, and in the end the drained thirty acres is the only improvement. If the drain is designed to carry off underground water then it is absurd for anyone to visually survey the area and affix a definite boundary. I was also told that several meetings were scheduled and at no time did anyone register any opposition.

I propose that no one really knew what was going on. I think our duly elected officials were quite remiss by not releasing information pertinent to the assessment boundary which is what it is rather than a drainage boundary and to the amount of the assessment. I know that I knew nothing of it until recently. If people had been well informed in all facets, then there would have been opposition. Also, I knew of no petition.

Three times in the past five years — two times in less than two years Nelson Road has been destroyed and resurfaced at taxpayers expense. I wonder if this is a shining paradigm of the best planning program that is to be offered by the township government. Furthermore, each time the road is torn up, the stage is set for a dust bowl and for the residents to have their homes, cars and other

Sunny weather and a big crowd provided an auspicious launching for a new $35,000 Pier school at cornerstone laying ceremonies in the Hagar district (No. 5) Sunday. Co-operation for civic welfare was the theme of a program that featured county school officials, pastors and school board members, past and present. Participating in ceremonies were John Hindman, George Culverhouse, Beryl Dominy, William Atwood, Byron Ashbrook, Edward Visintainer, the Rev. Ellis Marshburn, the Rev. Fr. Thomas Fitzgerald, the Rev. One of the most interesting departments of the new "Y.W." is the kitchen, and also one of the most necessary. It is located on the ground floor, just off of the cafeteria and showers. From this dumb waiters run to the top and second floors with food for gym banquets and club suppers. The kitchen and entire paraphernalia is the most modern to be found in the country. There is a huge refrigerator where an electric refrigerating system operates. The kitchen also has an electric dish washing machine, an electric potato peeler, three huge Garland gas ranges, with 24-pie capacity ovens, maple top work tables, steam tables with neat nickel trimmings, nickel display shelving, salad serving plates, silver coffee urns, tea equipment, etc. Adjoining the kitchen is a big dressing room for the use of employes, which also serves as a lavatory. Leading from the kitchen is the stairway to the vegetable cellar.

Will The Grin Become A Leer?

WASHINGTON — NEA — In the future, as God give Andy Warhol the right to see it, "everyone will be famous for 15 minutes." And in this regard Jimmy Carter may, to a degree, be an early illustration.

Unknown outside Georgia a year ago, only moderately recognizable as recently as February, the Democratic presidential candidate has become an instant notable, his I.D. factor having grown some 30 points in the last six weeks, alone, and so already there are the inevitable suggestions that he is in danger of becoming tiresome.

His smile, which was early on the scene as warmly inviting, is now drawn by cartoonists as suspicious as the Cheshire Cat's. His pronouncments of love and Christian fellowship have been denounced by Gerald Ford's agents as (hump). (fundamentalists.)

As for the personal contact he stresses in his wish to "get to know American's" political observers note of late that if body language is to be believed, Carter's habit of crossing his arms during conversations is protectionist, a signal that he is not interested in close relationships.

The risk here for J. Carter may be serious. If a warm smile can become a leering grin in two months, a rising star can become a super-nova before November. Public over-exposure can be fatal. Carter's supporters dismissed the possibility, believing that "Jimmy is publicized because that's what people want." But this optimism misses the point. The public is fickle and so is the press. Today's fascination may be, may be tomorrow's bore. Whatever happened to Wilbur Mills?

Beyond this it may be true that candidate Carter is in fact the victim of a rather nasty process over which he has no control. The media not only have a vested interest in the creation of celebrities, but in their eventual fall. Ups and downs make good copy. The further a man falls the better the copy. And why? H. L. Mencken said it: No journalist goes broke underestimating public taste.

The process is forever the same, particularly with presidents and near-presidents. There is first a long period of what Eugene McCarthy calls "the personalization" of the men. Aggrandizemant, really. The public was enthralled two years ago to learn that President Ford cooks his own breakfast. As for Jimmy Carter, the publicity photos show him in overalls on his peanut farm. Neither muffins nor goobers have the slightest thing to do with running America, but the public wants to know everything.

After the celebraties personalsite has been laid bare (Ford once considered a hair transplant, Carter talks with God for relaxation), family members are next. Betty Ford's views on extra-marital relationships are eagerly sought. Daughter Susan becomes a spokesman for America's youth. Jimmy Carter has a shapely sister who is a faith healer which makes her a sexy fundamentalist and by dogs if that is not news the industry is in trouble.

Curiously, the process of personalization knows no depth. The public's right to know is responsible for miles of trivia about the most trivial of president or candidate hangers-on. Ford's staff photographer is promoted as a balding bon vivant. A Whitehouse dog keeper has written a book which the publisher says marks a milestone of sorts. Even Jack Kennedy's lesbo ladies have been popularized. One wonders what the taker of the presidential garbage is like.

At length, of course, when we all know all there is to know, reaction takes over. No longer a mystery, Henry Kissinger now wears an ax between the shoulders. As for Ford, many people have learned more than they ever wanted to, which, even in kindness, isn't much. All those who aren't at least a little sick of the duo, hook your horn.

Which brings us back to Jimmy Carter. Smart, dedicated, tireless, pleasant, but already just a bit, well, too much? Wait until we find out more of his sister, or his wife, or his kids, or his nanny who always knew he'd be a great man. Whom the God's of the media would destroy, no doubt, they must first make worth the destruction.

The Tension Is Mounting

NEW YORK CITY (KFS) — Jimmy Carter and Henry Jackson stood in the glare of two television klieg lights, a few yards apart on the hotel's red and gold carpet, smiling and talking animatedly.

But not to each other. They were physically very near but politically very far apart.

The two men are hostile now. The needling is no longer polite nor gentle. The Democratic presidential contest is down to virtually this pair and they are already thinking of their crucial head-on collision in the Pennsylvania primary.

The tension was mounting. Jackson had spend the day before the meeting clarifying an imprecise remark that had initially given reporters the impression he favored sending U.S Marines to Lebanon, which turned out not to be the case. Moments after the session, the first question asked Carter at a press conference involved his use as governor of free corporate airplanes. He said he saw nothing wrong with it, since he was using them to promote state business.

They are an interesting contrast, these two survivors of the early primaries. Carter is the brash young lieutenant and Jackson the aging general. The distinctions between them are becoming clearer.

Carter thinks that Patrick Moynihan "made some mistakes" as our ambassador to the United Nations; Jackson likes Moynihan so much he has practically promised he can be Secretary of State. Carter said he wanted to make revenue-sharing "permanent"; Jackson ridiculed that by observing Congress would never pass it.

They are very competitive. Neither lets a charge by the other get by without an answer. "I won't need any on-the-job training," Jackson tells a cheering crowd in Brooklyn. "I know how to run a government;" Carter tells a respectful breakfast audience the next morning.

"Carter says he's not going to help New York City," Jackson says with exaggeration. Carter replies that he's simply not for cities any more than he's for all other aspets of government and wants a "tight partnership at all levels of government."

Jackson emphasizes the philosophy of government. Carter emphasizes managerial skills. Jackson says he knows a better direction. Carter says he knows a more efficient way.

Jackson is being endorsed by Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso, a very good plum. Carter was endorsed by Pittsburgh Mayor Peter Flaherty, a very useful catch for the Pennsylvania primary.

There's more, but it's still early in the season and you get the idea. In spite of the early confusion, the primary process has tossed up as Democratic frontrunners two very able and different men. They offer a real choice.

In fact, a Democratic ticket which featured them as running mates would be a very strong offering — if they can be persuaded to speak to each other again.

Political Rules For Soap Powders Labels

How important is it for a housewife to know that Proctor & Gamble make Joy, Ivory and Thrill, any one of which she may buy to wash the dishes?

Or what does it add to her store of information on how to improve the furniture's appearance to realize that the Johnson Wax Company makes Favor, Pledge, and Klean and Shine?

Or what is the relief from a headache if a pill swallower is informed that the Sterling Drug Company makes Cope, Midol, Vanquish and Bayer aspirin?

Sen. James Abourzek of South Dakota and five other liberal Democratic colleagues, including Phil Hart, believe it absolutely crucial such information be imparted indelibly to the customer.

The six are demanding the Federal Trade Commission issue a regulation requiring the manufacturer's name of countless household products be displayed prominently on their containers and labels.

Abourzek gives two reasons for the denominating.

One is the marketplace concept of competition among suppliers.

It is vital to maintaining the free marketplace, he explained at a press conference, for the customer to know which items on a store shelf are made by the same company and which are not.

"It is absolutely unfair," he said, "when one corporation is advertising two of its own products as if they were legitimatey competing products."

He feels people should know that the Coca Cola Company markets Minute Maid orange juice, that the Gallo Brothers put out Madria Madria Sangria, and that the International Telephone and Telegraph Company bakes Wonder Bread.

"This type of knowledge is healthy for the marketplace, I believe," he informed the reporters, "because consumers can reward a socially responsible company for its positive contributions or avoid the products of a corporation they feel is not acting in the public interest."

At length, of course, when we all know all there is to know, reaction takes over. No longer a mystery. Henry Kissinger now wears an ax between the shoulders. As for Ford, many people have learned more than they ever wanted to, which, even in kindness, isn't much. All those who aren't at least a little sick of the duo, honk your horn.

Which brings us back to Jimmy Carter. Ernest, dedicated, tireless, pleasant, but already just a bit, well, too much? Wait until we find out more of his sister, or his wife, or his kids, or his nanny who always knew he'd be a great man. Whom the God's of the media would destroy, no doubt, they must first make worth the destruction.

The Tension Is Mounting

NEW YORK CITY (KFS) — Jimmy Carter and Henry Jackson stood in the glare of two television klieg lights, a few yards apart on the hotel's red and gold carpet, smiling and talking animatedly.

But not to each other. They were physically very near but politically very far apart.

The two men are hostile now. The needling is no longer polite nor gentle. The Democratic presidential contest is down to virtually this pair and they are already thinking of their crucial head-on collision in the Pennsylvania primary.

The tension was mounting. Jackson had spend the day before the meeting clarifying an imprecise remark that had initially given reporters the impression he favored sending U.S Marines to Lebanon, which turned out not to be the case. Moments after the session, the first question asked Carter at a press conference involved his use as governor of free corporate airplanes. He said he saw nothing wrong with it, since he was using them to promote state business.

They are an interesting contrast, these two survivors of the early primaries. Carter is the brash young lieutenant and Jackson the aging general. The distinctions between them are becoming clearer.

Carter thinks that Patrick Moynihan "made some mistakes" as our ambassador to the United Nations; Jackson likes Moynihan so much he has practically promised he can be Secretary of State. Carter said he wanted to make revenue-sharing "permanent"; Jackson ridiculed that by observing Congress would never pass it.

They are very competitive. Neither lets a charge by the other get by without an answer. "I won't need any on-the-job training," Jackson tells a cheering crowd in Brooklyn. "I know how to run a government," Carter tells a respectful breakfast audience the next morning.

"Carter says he's not going to help New York City," Jackson says with exaggeration. Carter replies that he's simply not for cities any more than he's for all other aspets of government and wants a "tight partnership at all levels of government."

Jackson emphasizes the philosophy of government. Carter emphasizes managerial skills. Jackson says he knows a better direction. Carter says he knows a more efficient way.

Jackson is being endorsed by Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso, a very good plum. Carter was endorsed by Pittsburgh Mayor Peter Flaherty, a very useful catch for the Pennsylvania primary.

There's more, but it's still early in the season and you get the idea. In spite of the early confusion, the primary process has tossed up as Democratic frontrunners two very able and different men. They offer a real choice.

In fact, a Democratic ticket which featured them as running mates would be a very strong offering — if they can be persuaded to speak to each other again.

Ross Field Gets Pat On The Back From Defender

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

The Twin City airport board Thursday got a surprise testimonial for Ross field operation. It followed criticism earlier this week from William Schumacher who announced withdrawal of a proposal to establish an aircraft service center and restaurant at the airport.

Eugene Cramer, manager of Aero Agro-Chem, a flight training and crop dusting service, and a former fixed base operator at Ross field, told the board that airport personnel are doing a good job and he added: "Regarding the right to sell fuel without competitive bids—If it is not illegal it would certainly be unethical."

Airport board chaman, John Banyon, said: "Gene Cramer's statement is significant and adequately appropriate."

Schumacher, of Schumacher Construction and Real Estate, Benton Harbor, proposed in January to build a restaurnt and develop a fixed base aircraft service operation costing $250,000.

On March 25 Ronald S. Mamany, airport manager, wrote to Schumacher that the board wanted competitive bids if a fuel concession was granted.

Schumacher replied that his group was withdrawing its plans and he criticized Ross field fuel prices and service. Schumacher's reply was reported in The Herald-Palladium Wednesday.

Cramer had called Banyon and asked for permission to address the board meeting yesterday but did not indicate what he was going to talk about.

Cramer's full statement is as follows: "As a former FBO (fixed base operator, I would like to say a few kind words to the members of the board in regard to the statement referring to Ross field and the discussion regarding the right to sell fuel without competitive bids—if it's not illegal, it certainly would be unethical.

"The gas service that I have received has been outstanding and the cooperation of everyone connected with the operation of the airport—including the FAA control tower—has been outstanding.

"I have had experience with uncontrolled fields in other places where near misses are common or if it is not common are frequent enough to cause concern.

"Here at Ross field this has not been a problem whatsoever. The cooperation between the control tower personnel and the pilots has been exceptional.

"The new manager has been more than helpful."

In another matter, the board approved a 15 by 16-foot addition to the Heath Co. hangar expected to cost $4,000.

Complaint, Arrests Four Minutes Apart

Three Benton township women were arrested yesterday afternoon about four minutes after police had received a report of about $100 worth of clothes being taken from a Stevensville store.

Stevensville Patrolman Martin Watson said he received the report of clothing stolen from the Clothes Horse at 2:15 p.m., and that at 2:19 p.m., a car and its three women passengers were stopped near the Glenford road and Red Arrow highway intersection.

Watson said clothing matching that taken from the Stevensville store was recovered.

He said the Berrien county prosecutor's office has authorized warrants on charges of larceny in a building against Jacqueline Rene Wade, 17, 2443 Crawford drive; Gwendolyn Ann Reed, 18, 124 Concord road; and Phyllis Reed, 24, 1946 East Britain, all of Benton township.

They were lodged in county jail pending arraignment in Berrien Fifth District court today.

The Stevensville patrolman said he was in the Village Square — where the Clothes Horse is located — when he received the radio report of the theft.

He went to the store, got a description of the women and the car they allegedly used, and broadcast it throughout the area, he said.

Moments later, he said, Berrien Metro Crime officers in an unmarked cruiser reported seeing a car matching the description at the Glenford-Red Arrow intersection. Watson said he was summoned to the area by the Metro officers and took the women into custody.

Lake Shore Drive Will Be Closed

Lake Shore drive, from Cleveland avenue south to Hilltop road, St. Joseph, will be closed to through traffic for three and a half months starting Thursday, April 15, while the deck is being replaced on the bridge over the Chesapeake & Ohio tracks.

Ernie Malkewitz, project engineer for the State Highway department, also said starting Monday, April 12, traffic will be bottled up at the intersection of Cleveland and Hilltop while the intersection is being widened to three lanes. The widening should take two days. Traffic will be permitted during the work, but movement will be restricted.

The widening is in preparation of Cleveland and Hilltop as a detour route while Lake Shore drive is closed.

Dismissal Asked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley is asking that a $200,000 suit brought against him by the Michigan Chiropractic Association be dismissed. In a motion filed Thursday in Ingham County Circuit Court, Kelley denied he has singled out chiropractors for adverse treatment.

Benton Harbor police said they are seeking a man described as a "sharp dresser"

One Ticket Follows Another

WATERVLIET — A 69-year-old woman ticketed last Saturday after her car crashed into a house here was given another ticket this week, this time for reckless driving in connection with a Dec. 13 accident. Watervliet police said the additional ticket was given to Minerva Catherine Tilly, of the Paw Paw lake mobile trailer park, Watervliet. Officers said she was ticketed for reckless driving in connection with a reported hit and run accident Dec. 13 in which a parked car at Watervliet Community hospital was damaged. Last Saturday she was ticketed for failure to control her vehicle after it crashed into a house belonging to Mrs. Eleanor Justin at 422 North Main street. She told police her gas pedal stuck as she was leaving a parking spot. Police said a bystander at the Saturday accident, Mrs. Francis Salinas, a nurse at Watervliet hospital, reported the car was similar to the one which damaged her car last December in the hit and run accident.

CITY CUTBACK PROTESTED

BH Firemen Say Loss Is 14 Men

The Benton Harbor firefighters association has called on Benton Harbor citizens to examine the facts and possible results of an announced layoff of 11 firemen.

In a statement by Thomas Fogarty, president of Local 685, International Association of Firefighters, the firemen charge that taxpayers may be "misled, duped or sold into false security." The statement also asks citizens to question city officials about the proposed layoffs.

City Manager James Peeples Jr. announced last week that 14 police patrolmen and 11 firemen with low seniority will be dropped because of layoffs forced by budget cuts.

In his statement, Fogarty charges that the city administration wants to cut the fire department manpower from 36 to 22 — a reduction of 14 men.

The men of the Benton Harbor Fire Department are Firefighters.

Firefighting is an organized team operation and the fire company is the team unit. The number of men needed to carry out the essential operations are understood in the fire service but unfortunately, not by you, the public and by many of the elected and hired officials of Benton Harbor.

Take the fire trucks of Benton Harbor. The taxpayers own three pumpers and one aerial truck. The three pumpers are rated at 1,000 gallon pumpers which can deliver 1,000 gallons per minute of water on a fire if a full crew is provided to lay lines and place and man nozzles at points where the streams will be effective. One man can drive the pumper to a fire where it may merely add color to the scene and increase the traffic congestion but the desirable minimum strength on duty ready to ride with a pumper is five (5) men including the officer, and a four (4) man crew (including the officer) is the irreducible minimum for any pumper.

Even though the firefighters may be men of above average strength and endurance there is a limitation as to what a given number can do in a given time, particularly under conditions of fire. Thus far we have discussed only the engine or pumper companies charged with getting water on the fire. This is only half the battle. As any experienced firefighter is well aware and as any fair study of work at fires will show, there are numerous other jobs which must be done without delay. This includes search and rescue to save endangered persons, prompt ventilation to make entry of the building possible, forcible entry to all parts of the structure where needed, prompt placement of ladders for rescue and access, use of axes and plaster hooks to uncover concealed fires. These duties plus others are usually classed as "Truck Service" (ladder truck).

Experienced fire officials are agreed that for efficient results ladder or truck companies require even more manpower than engine companies. This is particularly true where ladders including the power-operated aerial ladder must be employed. There never was and never will be an efficient one-man aerial ladder.

The manpower needed to meet these minimum standards for Benton Harbor would require fifteen (15) men per shift, or forty-five (45) firefighters.

Citizens of Benton Harbor, your fire department has been doing an outstanding job with only three (3) men per fire truck. This is below the very minimum recommended by the National Fire Prevention Association. So, does the Benton Harbor Fire Department have too many Firefighters, as the City Manager stated?

Citizens of Benton Harbor check your fire department and see how it measures up to these minimum standards. Count the number of Firefighters riding on apparatus to fires. Anything less than the three (3) men per fire truck is cause for serious public concern. Perhaps the City Manager of Benton Harbor will be bold enough to dress a few store window mannequins as firefighters and announce that these represent the essential positions not covered which may cause the people of Benton Harbor to lose their lives and homes.

Now the fire department of Benton Harbor wants to "Count The Men". When the Benton Harbor Fire Department was at full manpower we had thirty-six (36) men. These men were to man two stations and four fire trucks. The administrators of this City have elected to cut the manpower of the fire department to twenty-two (22) men. This does not include one (1) firefighter with 23 years of service who can no longer fight fires due to a heart condition. Does this count up to the four

Rezoning Asked For Physicians' Offices

The Benton township planning commission last night sent to committee a request for rezoning to allow the construction of a professional building at 1355 East Napier avenue.

The request was made by Phillip Nadeau, of Nadeau Real Estate Company of Coloma, who told this newspaper that he was making the request on behalf of Leonard Smith Construction Co. of St. Joseph.

Nadeau and none of the other principals were present last night at the planning commission meeting to present details of the building. The written application said the building is to be for physicians' offices and retail stores.

The request is to rezone one acre of land between Downing and Sorter avenues from residential to commercial. Owners of the property are listed as Mr. and Mrs. Dean Dansfield of Muskegon.

In other business, the planning commission:

FLOWERS OR VEGETABLES?

Suburban Farming No Joke

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

More women are making a choice in their backyards between the prize-winning delphinium bed and a vegetable garden.

Suburban farming was once considered a joke with gentlemen farmers confessing that it cost a dollar to grow a green pepper or a potato, but last year a lot of people had the experience of finding a pepper could cost almost that much in stores in some areas. And potato prices skyrocketed.

Starting seeds, building a recreation area and conditioning home grounds have become major interests as the economy sends people back to the soil. Some are roof gardening and others grow whatever they can grow in sunny windows. There are dividends for outdoor workers — a day of toil can whittle the waistline and hips as you bend, twist and yank those weeds. Why pay a gymnasium fee when you can save money harvesting carrots and peas as you shed ounces for free?

— Plan the vegetable garden for maximum yield, not only for summer enjoyment but for long term economy by freezing and canning. Plant only as much as you can farm. Rotating a small plot may be far more rewarding than planting a big garden that can become a burden. Too much to handle can be discouraging.

— Grow the vegetables and fruits your family enjoys. Corn stalks take a garden out of horizontal conformity, but if only raccoons eat the corn, this is not the year to worry about the aesthetics. Beans, tomatoes, squash, lettuce, carrots and greens usually provide good yields, a nice assortment of vitamins and minerals. Tomatoes can be a lively challenge. Even sunny apartment windows can be good places to grow tomatoes and lettuce.

— A backyard garden close to the house is a better arrangement than one a good distance away because of the availability of water in case of drought. There may be some difficulty in getting the help needed to weed or to bring water to the far-off garden if it is needed. On chilly, rainy, muddy and very hot days, family helpers keep out of sight unless there is a firm schedule. They will want to munch on the production, but they don't want to do the work.

Some years ago a gardener found an easy way to get family and friends into the gardening act. He prepared a terrace under a shade tree not far from the family garden. Guests would leave their chaise lounge or chair to second-guess the garden and they would never fail to pull some weeds. He had counted on the fact that "most people are busybodies," he said.

Vegetables serve a more useful purpose perhaps than, say, a big flower plot. But a border of flowers and herbs could serve two purposes — provide flowers (if you like marigolds) and discourage bugs. The claim has often been made that marigolds planted next to corn and tomatoes may discourage Japanese beetles. Some people use them to discourage aphids in a rose bed as well as bean beetles.

Even the early colonists used herbs to discourage bugs — tansy, a bitter tasting but aromatic herb, was even used indoors. Thyme is supposed to foil cabbage worms and some people sprinkle salt into the leaves. (One horticulturist uses Kosher salt as soon as he sees the first cutworm.) Garlic in a garden has the reputation of being a mouse chaser. Rosemary and a whole list of herbs are said to protect against insects because the insects don't want to be near them.

In addition to using herbs to drive insects off, herbs can be delicious used fresh in salads, soups and whatever. They may also be dried for use throughout the winter.

There are a lot of aspects of vegetable gardening that will stymie new gardeners in the beginning, but a great many books on the subject have been written in recent years. These may be found at libraries and in book stores.

In-Sets Dance Saturday Event

In-Sets Social club will hold its annual spring dance, "Let's Do It Again," Saturday, April 10, from 9:30 p.m. to 2 a.m.

The dance will be held at the Bachelor 14 club, Benton Harbor. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Officers of the club in charge of the dance are Elmer Rhodes, coordinator; Mrs. Darlene Hawkins, co-coordinator; Mrs. Elam (Irene) Thompson, secretary, and Johnny Baker Jr., treasurer.

To Hold Office In The ISA

Vicki Karns of St. Joseph, a junior at Anderson college, Anderson, Ind., has been elected vice president of private schools by the Indiana Student association.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Karns of St. Joseph, she is completing her term as student body president at Anderson. She was only the third woman in the 58-year history of the college to hold the office of student body president.

Operating since April of 1975, the Indiana Student association was established "to represent, advocate, and further the interests and welfare of Indiana students." ISA provides for member schools a travel network, lobbying committee and a lecture bureau.

Throughout the present school year, Miss Karns has worked as a regional director and as a member of the board of directors of the ISA of which Anderson college is a member. Her responsibilities in this post are to serve as a communication link between Indiana colleges and universities and ISA.

Miss Karns' new responsibilities will begin in late April. As vice president, she will keep all private schools informed of all ISA operations and encourage students of these Indiana colleges to voice their needs and interests.

Benefiting most from ISA's established travel network, AC's student government made available to students, from as far away as California, reduced rates on nation-wide flights at the holidays. Also, the travel program provided a Florida vacation package to students for the spring break.

The ISA also gives students the opportunity to participate in SLIP (Student Legislative Involvement Program). Through this channel, Indiana students have the chance to air their opinions and desires concerning legislation which directly relates to them.

As outgoing student body president at Anderson college, Miss Karns hopes to see AC's Student Board of Representatives take on the legislative structure and ideals of ISA when dealing with campus issues.

Since Indiana Student association operates and functions on the initiative of students, Miss Karns believes the desire of students is to be heard by their legislators and administrative bodies of their respective schools.

Miss Karns is majoring in speech education at Anderson college, where she is active in Alpha Psi Omega, dramatics fraternity and the college choir.

Flowers Emphasize Spring

Regardless of the vernal equinox, spring arrives when the first crocus or daffodil peeks out of the earth, says the Society of American Florists.

The beauty of flowers and plants contributes immensely to the joy of the Easter and Passover seasons. It is a time to enjoy the soft spring days, the warm sun and the perky blooms of the season. Deck your garden, your house, yourself with the colorful flowers and plants available.

Star of the season is of course the Easter Lily. A potted lily will give pleasure for many weeks, but don't overlook the possibility of using lilies as cut flowers. The creamy white of the blooms and the dark, glossy leaves will compliment any room.

Lilies can be used in tall, sweeping arrangements, in a centerpiece, even in a low bowl for the coffee table. Be sure to take the container you wish to use to the florist with you, so that he can create a piece that is exactly what you want.

What would spring be without the daffodils and narcissus nodding in the breeze? Nothing. These flowers, while they are lovely in the garden, also do well when brought indoors. Hyacinths, planted either indoors or out, provide the exclamation point of spring. Their cone-shaped stalks which just seem to say "We're Here!" coupled with their lovely pastel colors and sweet scent epitomize the season.

For brighter accents, turn to tulips. Reds, bright gold, purple — almost any color in the spectrum — tulips can blend or contrast with any decor. Iris or flags are a little more difficult to work with, since their colors are limited to lavender, yellow and white, but they are well worth the effort. Don't make the mistake of leaving all of your spring flowers in the garden — bring some into the house and enjoy them 'round the clock, in every room.

A basket filled with a mixed spring bouquet for a centerpiece will last a week or more if the stems are placed in a well-watered foam block. Put a small foil pie pan under the block to avoid waterspots on the table. If you have children, or if perhaps you just feel like a touch of whimsy, add small artificial birds or bees to the arrangement.

Try the iris on the entry hall table or on the hearth, any place where height will be an asset. Use with forsythia to contrast the straight and flowing lines of the stems.

By all means, don't forget to add spring to the kitchen. A bright flowering plant will add a cheery spot on the window sill or table. Ask your florist for help in selecting the variety of plant that will do best in the light you have available.

Above all, remember that spring brings the flowers, and flowers put the spring in the season!

Dieters Need Breakfast

Studies in weight loss clinics show that dieters have a more steady weight loss when they eat a nutritionally adequate breakfast daily. Without breakfast, the would-be dieter is hungry later in the morning and usually begins to nibble, and winds up consuming more total calories during the day than when starting with a good morning meal.

According to leading nutritionists, an adequate breakfast should supply one-fourth to one-third of the day's nutritional needs. A serving of meat for breakfast supplies much of the high quality protein, B vitamins and other nutrients needed by dieters while holding down the total calorie count.

A dieter's breakfast also should include a serving of fruit or juice, toast, a small pat of butter or margarine and skimmed milk, tea or black coffee.

MRS. KENT (DIANE) BAKER
Garden Club President
Staff Photo

Mrs. Kent (Diane) Baker, 250 Higman Park, Benton Harbor, has been elected president of Four Seasons Garden club.

A member of the Twin City Area Garden Council, the club helps in the support of the council's project of beautifying Old Courthouse Square and preservation of the Bald Cypress. Last year the club was responsible for publicity of the garden council's flower show, "Two Hundred Years: Heritage and Horizon."

Some of the club's planned activities for the coming year include programs on wildflowers, herb gardening, basket weaving, natural cosmetics, and decorating with houseplants and propagating houseplants.

Also planned for the year are the Garden Council luncheon, a husbands' potluck, a family walk at Sarett Nature Center, a tasting luncheon and a Christmas brunch.

Mrs. Baker is also active in Civic Benefit, Twin City Panhellenic, and Monday Musical club. Her hobbies, in addition to gardening, include sewing and crafts. She and her husband have two sons, Chris, 7, and Scott, 2.

Other new officers are Mrs. Robert (Judy) Smith, vice president; Mrs. Fred (Carolyn) Ahrens, secretary, and Mrs. Darl (Marcia) Williams, treasurer.

Standing committees include Mrs. Lynn (June) Rayle, Mrs. Bruce (Leslie) Aronson, Mrs. Anton (Sandy) Poole, and Mrs. David (Karen) Wheeler, membership; Mrs. J.C. (Nancy) Anderson, hospitality, and Mrs. Baker, chairman, Mrs. F.C. (Jan) Fleisher, Mrs. Dick (Jean) Helmrich, and Mrs. James (Jo) Tiscornia, nominating.

Also, Mrs. Bob (Joan) Judd, sunshine; Mrs. Bob (Judy) Smith, chairman, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Helmrich, Mrs. Stanley (Carolyn) Osweiler, and Mrs. Williams, program; Mrs. Osweiler, ecology; Mrs. Ray (Kay) Jiral, yearbook, and Mrs. Larry (Judy) Link, publicity, historian.

Others serving on standing committees are Mrs. William (Dea) Carle, librarian; Mrs. David (Roberta) Nelson, Twin Cities Area Garden Council representative, and Mrs. Poole and Mrs. Tiscornia, Shoreham project.

FLOWERS OR VEGETABLES?

Suburban Farming No Joke

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

More women are making a choice in their backyards between the prize-winning delphinium bed and a vegetable garden.

Suburban farming was once considered a joke with gentlemen farmers confessing that it cost a dollar to grow a green pepper or a potato, but last year a lot of people had the experience of finding a pepper could cost almost that much in stores in some areas. And potato prices skyrocketed.

Starting seeds, building a recreation area and conditioning home grounds have become major interests as the economy sends people back to the soil. Some are roof gardening and others grow whatever they can grow in sunny windows. There are dividends for outdoor workers — a day of toil can whittle the waistline and hips as you bend, twist and yank those weeds. Why pay a gymnasium fee when you can save money harvesting carrots and peas as you shed ounces for free?

— Plan the vegetable garden for maximum yield, not only for summer enjoyment but for long term economy by freezing and canning. Plant only as much as you can farm. Rotating a small plot may be far more rewarding than planting a big garden that can become a burden. Too much to handle can be discouraging.

— Grow the vegetables and fruits your family enjoys. Corn stalks take a garden out of horizontal conformity, but if only raccoons eat the corn, this is not the year to worry about the aesthetics. Beans, tomatoes, squash, lettuce, carrots and greens usually provide good yields, a nice assortment of vitamins and minerals. Tomatoes can be a lively challenge. Even sunny apartment windows can be good places to grow tomatoes and lettuce.

— A backyard garden close to the house is a better arrangement than one a good distance away because of the availability of water in case of drought. There may be some difficulty in getting the help needed to weed or to bring water to the far-off garden if it is needed. On chilly, rainy, muddy and very hot days, family helpers keep out of sight unless there is a firm schedule. They will want to munch on the production, but they don't want to do the work.

Some years ago a gardener found an easy way to get family and friends into the gardening act. He prepared a terrace under a shade tree not far from the family garden. Guests would leave their chaise lounge or chair to second-guess the garden and they would never fail to pull some weeds. He had counted on the fact that "most people are busybodies," he said.

Vegetables serve a more useful purpose perhaps than, say, a big flower plot. But a border of flowers and herbs could serve two purposes — provide flowers (if you like marigolds) and discourage bugs. The claim has often been made that marigolds planted next to corn and tomatoes may discourage Japanese beetles. Some people use them to discourage aphids in a rose bed as well as bean beetles.

Even the early colonists used herbs to discourage bugs — tansy, a bitter tasting but aromatic herb, was even used indoors. Thyme is supposed to foil cabbage worms and some people sprinkle salt into leaves. (One horticulturist u Kosher salt as soon as he s the first cutworm.) Garlic i garden has the reputation being a mouse chas Rosemary and a whole list herbs are said to protect agai insects because the insects d want to be near them.

In addition to using herbs drive insects off, herbs can delicious used fresh in sala soups and whatever. They n also be dried for use through the winter.

There are a lot of aspects vegetable gardening that stymie new gardeners in beginning, but a great ma books on the subject have b written in recent years. Th may be found at libraries an book stores.

Plan Home Tour

Sunday Event

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Four homes will be featured in a tour of homes sponsored by the Andrews University Campus and Community Women's club, Sunday, April 11, at 7 p.m.

Homes to be toured are those of Mr. and Mrs. Audie Van Niekerk, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Brantley, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jarrard and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Glass.

The tour is open to non-club members with a $1 admission charge. The group will meet in the faculty lounge in the Campus Center on the AU campus.

Proceeds will go to the Andrews University Elementary Worthy Student Fund, and to the 1838 Berrien county courthouse in Berrien Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Audie Van Niekert have decorated their home with traditional furnishings, vivid color schemes, and a number of original oil paintings. Their guest room is decorated with designer sheets which have been used on the walls, window and bed.

The tri-level home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Brantley features their musical interests, as well as art objects collected from Africa and around the world.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jarrard features contemporary furniture and many plants. The Jarrards designed and built a corner plant cloister that is the focal point of the living room.

An antique French chandelier hangs in the dining area over an antique table and chairs in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Glass. The home is decorated with traditional furnishings and art work, and reflects the owners' interests in photography and art.

Mrs. Glenn (Margaret) Poole is chairman of the tour.

VITAL TO LIFE

Although vitamins do not furnish energy or become part of body tissues, they are vital to life because of the essential role they play in so many processes of the body.

Alpha Beta Epsilon Spring Convention

KALAMAZOO — The 32nd annual spring convention of Alpha Beta Epsilon, Western Michigan university's alumnae sorority, will be held Saturday, April 10, at WMU's Student Center.

Members of Alpha and Rho chapters of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph will attend.

Delegates from Alpha chapter will be Mrs. Howard (Alice) Collins and Mrs. Frederick (Helen) Beal. Others from the chapter attending will be Mrs. Don (Wilma) Bowers, chapter president; Mrs. Esther Frappier, Inter-Chapter Council president; Mrs. Larry (Laura) Lang, member of the state board; and Miss Ruth Johnson and Mrs. Thelma Ziegert, luncheon committee.

Mrs. Lawrence (Patricia) Snyder will be a delegate for Rho chapter. Chapter president is Miss Patricia Carey.

John T. Bernhard, Western Michigan university president, will be guest speaker.

Movie Monday

Part two of "Siberia: The Endless Horizon" will be shown Monday, April 12, at 12:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Benton Harbor public library.

The film is a study of the people of Siberia and their acclimation to the bitterly cold environment.

The public is invited and anyone wishing to bring a lunch may do so.

Books added to the library collection are "Dubal," Robin Moore; "The Superdoctors," Roger Rapaport; "My Lord John," Georgette Heyer; "Searching for Caleb," Anne Tyler; "Basketball," Arnold Auerbach; "The Boys from Brazil," Ira Levin; "The Director," Ovid Demaris, and "Deep Water, Ancient Ships," Willard Bascom.

Easter Island Mystery

Easter Island, located in the Pacific 2,400 miles west of Chile, was discovered on Easter Sunday, 1722, by Admiral Roggeveen of Holland.

But Easter religious services have been held there only since 1868, researchers say, when the islanders were converted to Christianity.

Originally called Rapanui, Easter Island is famous for its gigantic stone statues — some 66 feet high and weighing 50 tons — whose origin has never been explained.

Do Lutherans believe theirs is the only true Church?

Lutherans believe there is only one true church, the church of Jesus Christ. They believe that in it God includes all who trust in Jesus Christ as God and Savior.

The Lutheran Church confesses (acknowledges) Jesus Christ as Lord and the gospel as the revelation of God's sovereign will and saving grace in Jesus Christ. The church accepts the ancient creeds of Christendom – the Apostles', Nicene, Athanasian – as authentic declarations of Christian faith. The church believes the Unaltered Augsburg Confession and Luther's Small Catechism to be true witnesses to the gospel. These statements are not partisan documents but statements of belief for all.

The Lutheran Church is ecumenical; it recognizes the world-wide community of Christians whose faith is in one Lord and Savior.

Today around the world Lutherans number millions of people of every race and language on every continent and island.

Largest of all Protestant churches with over seventy million adherents, the Lutheran Church continues to proclaim to all persons that Christ is the Way, the Truth and the Life.

Would you like to know more of this confessional and ecumenical church? A cordial welcome will be yours.

WHAT'S A 'DASH?'

Easter Island Mystery

Easter Island, located in the Pacific 2,400 miles west of Chile, was discovered on Easter Sunday, 1722, by Admiral Roggeveen of Holland.

But Easter religious services have been held there only since 1868, researchers say, when the islanders were converted to Christianity.

Originally called Rapanui, Easter Island is famous for its gigantic stone statues — some 66 feet high and weighing 50 tons — whose origin has never been explained.

Movie Monday

Part two of "Siberia: The Endless Horizon" will be shown Monday, April 12, at 12:15 p.m. in the auditorium of Benton Harbor public library.

The film is a study of the people of Siberia and their acclimation to the bitterly cold environment.

The public is invited and anyone wishing to bring a lunch may do so.

Books added to the library collection are "Dubai," Robin Moore; "The Superdoctors," Roger Rapaport; "My Lord John," Georgette Heyer; "Searching for Caleb," Anne Tyler; "Basketball," Arnold Auerbach; "The Boys from Brazil," Ira Levin; "The Director," Ovid Demaris, and "Deep Water, Ancient Ships," Willard Bascom.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Paternity Makes Difference

Dear Ann Landers: Please answer this question. Several people need to know.

There are six children in the family. Three were fathered by Mr. A (first husband) and three by Mr. B (second husband). Their mother insists they are all full brothers and sisters — regardless of the paternity. She says if they have the same mother that makes them 100 per cent blood relatives. Is she right? — Betting No

Dear Betting: She's wrong. Children who have different fathers (or mothers) are half-brothers or sisters.

See Attorney

Dear Ann: I am not crazy, nor am I drunk. This letter is for real. I'm desperate for advice.

Three weeks ago, I was driving on a side street and a seven-year-old child on a bike appeared out of nowhere from between parked cars. I hit him. He was dead before the ambulance arrived.

The boy's mother came running out of a house two doors down from where the accident occurred. She became hysterical, lunged at me, and struck me in the face with her fists. It took two men to hold her off.

I felt so terrible about the death of that child, I did not press charges for assault and battery although I could easily have done so. There were several witnesses.

I am heartsick about the accident but I feel no guilt since everyone on the scene said it was not my fault.

Now, wherever I go, this mad woman seems to show up. She screams at me, "Murderer, you killed my son!" and everyone stares. I had to run out of stores and the postoffice, just yesterday, to get away from her.

This afternoon the brakes on my car were tampered with and I was forced to run into a field to come to a halt. I reported this to the police and they told me I have no proof and can do nothing about it.

I am terrified of this crazy woman. Please tell me what to do, Ann. Money is no problem. — A Nervous Wreck

Dear Friend: You need more than Ann Landers. I urge you to see an attorney at once. Your legal rights are being abused and there are measures you can (and should) take for your own protection. Get going.

Big Job

Dear Ann: I absolutely loved your reply to "Love To Know" and her criticism of your phrase, "to DO the dishes," since she WASHED hers.

How can she get by with just WASHING? When do the dishes get scraped, rinsed, washed, dried AND put away? That's the routine our mother taught us and we have done it that way ever since.

Just WASHING isn't enough. Besides all the steps I listed, there's the picking them up from the table, stacking, etc. To everyone who has ever done them, that's a lot of DOING! I'd hate to live in a house where the dishes just get washed. — M.M. Of Pompano Beach

Dear Pom: Thanks for being in my corner. We're in the majority, dear. Most women who wrote are on our side.

New Light Bulb Interests Him

My husband is absolutely intrigued by the development of a new light bulb that uses 70 per cent less electricity and lasts up to ten years.

Ever since the night we followed a beam of light in the sky (thinking it was the opening of a new shopping center) and discovered it was our house, he has decried the amount of wasted energy.

"Maybe we should buy one for our boy graduate this year."

"Are you serious? Buy a light bulb for a child for graduation? What kind of a present is that!"

"Why don't you tell him?"

"I did. The other night I said, 'Have you no concern at all about saving energy?'

"'I have,' he said defiantly. 'My own! I'll turn them off during the long commercial.'"

"Maybe you harp too much on it," I suggested.

"I don't harp enough. We're the only family in the block that heats its house by light bulbs. And that has in open windows during the winter."

"Oh, c'mon."

"We have the only refrigerator light in the country that runs hot." I tell you, these kids do not know how to turn off a light."

"They know," I nodded.

"No they don't! I was showing home movies one night and yelled, 'Will someone get the lights?' Your son said, 'What's the matter? Don't we have enough already?' I said, 'You don't understand, I want you to turn them off.' He just sat there and stared at me. Then he said, 'Is this some kind of a joke — like sending someone after a lefthanded screwdriver?' 'It's no joke,' I said. 'Those little switches on the wall have two catchy phrases on them — on and off.' I'll bet he played with those little things for the better part of ten minutes."

As we were talking, our son entered the room. The television set was on. The two table lamps were burning. He walked over and turned on the porch light and two others. "Gosh! It was so dark in here I thought everyone was in bed."

Dr. Lester Coleman

I was just discharged from a hospital that is supposed to be one of the best in the city. Besides the exhorbitant cost of the stay, the food was tasteless, and always arrived cold. The nursing care was pretty good, but they were inconsiderate about waking me at 6 a.m. just to take my temperature. Can't these conditions be improved?
Mr. K.B., Ohio

Dear Mr. B.:

Hospital administrators and physicians constantly hear complaints such as yours.

I am certain that these complaints are due to the fact that so few patients and their families have any real awareness of the complexities of running a hospital.

The fundamental purpose of all such institutions is to return the patient to maximum health at maximum speed. Yet nowhere in your letter did you even mention the fact that you have recovered from illness or surgery.

Your total concentration was on the lack of gourmet quality in the food and your disappointment in the "hotel facilities" of the hospital.

There was no notation of the team effort of doctors, nurses, paramedics, and laboratory technicians who were busy trying to accumulate scientific evidence for a diagnosis and planned treatment of your condition.

The anxiety and emotional distress of patients and their families are completely understandable. Yet, when they are preoccupied with unimportant details they sometimes make thoughtless and unreasonable demands on hospital personnel.

Irritability and impatience with nurses when they are doing their prescribed duties on schedule deprives the patient of the comfort and emotional support which comes from a pleasant relationship with them.

Hospital personnel are a dedicated group whose energies are coordinated to provide the maximum care and safety for each patient.

For every member of the team who comes into direct contact with the patient there are ten other unsung heroes working behind the scenes. Safety engineers, dieticians, laboratory technicians and telephone operators are only a few of the many unnoticed contributors to the comfort and the welfare of all patients.

The administration of a hospital is an enormously complicated affair. Patients, by their understanding of these complexities, should reduce their unreasonable demands and help the hospital attain its prime objective: good health.

Somewhat akin to, but nothing related to the principle of restricted choice is the principle of the play of the second highest. There are some players who treat a 10 spot as somewhat of a sacred cow; others treat it the same as a low-spot card and fulsecard with it indiscriminately.

East was a smart-aleck young player. He watched his partner cash three clubs and shift to a heart.

He won the heart with dummy's king and played dummy's king of spades. East could see the only chance of defeating the contract was for West to win a trick with the queen of trumps, if West held that card. So East decided to try to help his partner; he dropped the 10 of trumps. He followed on the next lead with the deuce.

The old timer looked at him and asked, "You wouldn't try to fool an old man?" After that comment, he played his ace of trumps, dropped West's queen and had a top score.

Ask the Jacobys

A Carolina reader was declarer at three notrump. At the end of the hand she held a 14th card and wanted to know if she was entitled to score a trick with it.

The answer is a decided "No". Furthermore, the hand was an automatic misdeal.

Films And Story Hours

NILES — Two films will be shown Monday, April 12, from noon until 1 p.m. at the Niles Community library free of charge.

"Shot Heard 'Round the World," a part of the Johnny Tremain Series, tells the story of how the Sons of Liberty supplied information to Paul Revere concerning the British, so he could alert the Minutemen to take arms.

"African Lion and His Realm" illustrates the life of the lion and the animals with which he shares the African plains.

Preschool story hours at the library will feature the stories, "A Home for Hopper" and "Be Nice to Spiders," and the film, "The Tale of Peter Rabbit."

The story hours will be held Tuesday, April 13, at 9 and 10:15 a.m., Wednesday, April 14, at 10:15 a.m., and Thursday, April 15, at 6:30 p.m.

Put Brush In Bag

So you begin cleaning up and then discover that you're out of turpentine! There's nothing you can use to clean that brush!

Here's a temporary tip to help you save the brush. Place it in a clean plastic bag and seal it well. This enables the brush to stay moist until the next day.

ENHANCE SAUSAGE

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Paternity Makes Difference

Dear Ann Landers: Please answer this question. Several people need to know.

There are six children in the family. Three were fathered by Mr. A (first husband) and three by Mr. B (second husband). Their mother insists they are all full brothers and sisters — regardless of the paternity. She says if they have the same mother that makes them 100 per cent blood relatives. Is she right? — Betting No

Dear Betting: She's wrong. Children who have different fathers (or mothers) are half-brothers or sisters.

See Attorney

Dear Ann: I am not crazy, nor am I drunk. This letter is for real. I'm desperate for advice.

Three weeks ago, I was driving on a side street and a seven-year-old child on a bike appeared out of nowhere from between parked cars. I hit him. He was dead before the ambulance arrived.

The boy's mother came running out of a house two doors down from where the accident occurred. She became hysterical, lunged at me, and struck me in the face with her fists. It took two men to hold her off.

I felt so terrible about the death of that child, I did not press charges for assault and battery although I could easily have done so. There were several witnesses.

I am heartsick about the accident but I feel no guilt since everyone on the scene said it was not my fault.

Now, wherever I go, this mad woman seems to show up. She screams at me, "Murderer, you killed my son!" and everyone stares. I had to run out of stores and the postoffice, just yesterday, to get away from her.

This afternoon the brakes on my car were tampered with and I was forced to run into a field to come to a halt. I reported this to the police and they told me I have no proof and can do nothing about it.

I am terrified of this crazy woman. Please tell me what to do, Ann. Money is no problem. — A Nervous Wreck

Dear Friend: You need more than Ann Landers. I urge you to see an attorney at once. Your legal rights are being abused and there are measures you can (and should) take for your own protection. Get going.

Big Job

Dear Ann: I absolutely loved your reply to "Love To Know" and her criticism of your phrase, "to DO the dishes," since she WASHED hers.

How can she get by with just WASHING? When do the dishes get scraped, rinsed, washed, dried AND put away? That's the routine our mother taught us and we have done it that way ever since.

Just WASHING isn't enough. Besides all the steps I listed, there's the picking them up from the table, stacking, etc. To everyone who has ever done them, that's a lot of DOING! I'd hate to live in a house where the dishes just get washed. — M.M. Of Pompano Beach

Dear Pom: Thanks for being in my corner. We're in the majority, dear. Most women who wrote are on our side.

New Light Bulb Interests Him

My husband is absolutely intrigued by the development of a new light bulb that uses 70 per cent less electricity and lasts up to ten years.

Ever since the night we followed a beam of light in the sky (thinking it was the opening of a new shopping center) and discovered it was our house, he has decried the amount of wasted energy.

"Maybe we should buy one for our boy graduate this year."

"Are you serious? Buy a light bulb for a child for graduation? What kind of a present is that!"

"Why don't you tell him?"

"I did. The other night I said, 'Have you no concern at all about saving energy?'

"'I have,' he said defiantly. 'My own! I'll turn them off during the long commercial.'"

"Maybe you harp too much on it," I suggested.

"I don't harp enough. We're the only family in the block that heats its house by light bulbs. And that has to open windows during the winter."

"Oh. c'mon."

"We have the only, erator light in the c that runs hot." I tell these kids do not know turn off a light."

"They know," I nodded "No they don't! I was sh home movies one nigh yelled, 'Will someone g lights?' Your son said, 'V the matter? Don't we enough already?' I said, don't understand, I want turn them off.' He just sat and stared at me. Then h 'Is this some kind of a j like sending someone a lefthanded screwdriver? no joke,' I said. 'Those switches on the wall hav catchy phrases on them and off.' I'll bet he playe those little things for the part of ten minutes."

As we were talking, ot entered the room. The tele set was on. The two table were burning. He walke and turned on the porch and two others. "Gosh! so dark in here I th everyone was in bed."

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a knack today for turning things that you take a hand in into something gainful for yourself and others involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) For entertainment this evening select a different place where you'll have an opportunity to meet new people. A surprise may be in store.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Lady Luck may take a hand in a situation today that affects you and your family. The results could give all something to smile about.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Welcome news may be coming your way today from two sources. Keep communications open to those whose help you need.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Conditions that have an influence on your material well-being appear very favorable for you today. Look for the unusual.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a good chance today that your ideas will be just a trifle better than those of your contemporaries, but don't let them know it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your instincts as to how to better yourself financially are likely to come into play today just at the time you'll need them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your warm, outgoing and winning ways may gain a new friend today, one who could prove very worthwhile to know.

SAGGITARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's not just your style or the way you do things that others will find admirable today. It's your sincere motives that impress them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Projects that are large in scope or of an unusual nature are the types of things you'll perform best today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you put your mind to it today, you might be able to come up with something advantageous to you businesswise. Think profit.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Intimate relationships should be quite lucky for you today. Look out for the other guy. He's sure to look out for you in return.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Somewhat akin to, but nothing related to the principle of restricted choice is the principle of the play of the second highest. There are some players who treat a 10 spot as somewhat of a sacred cow; others treat it the same as a low-spot card and falsecard with it indiscriminately.

East was a smart-aleck young player. He watched his partner cash three clubs and shift to a heart.

He won the heart with dummy's king and played dummy's king of spades. East could see the only chance of defeating the contract was for West to win a trick with the queen of trumps, if West held that card. So East decided to try to help his partner; he dropped the 10 of trumps. He followed on the next lead with the deuce.

The old timer looked at him and asked, "You wouldn't try to fool an old man?" After that comment he played his ace of trumps, dropped West's queen and had a top score.

Ask the Jacobys

A Carolina reader was declarer at three notrump. At the end of the hand she held a 14th card and wanted to know if she was entitled to score a trick with it.

The answer is a decided "No". Furthermore, the hand was an automatic misdeal.

Films And Story Hours

NILES — Two films will be shown Monday, April 12, from noon until 1 p.m. at the Niles Community library free of charge.

"Shot Heard 'Round the World," a part of the Johnny Tremain Series, tells the story of how the Sons of Liberty supplied information to Paul Revere concerning the British, so he could alert the Minutemen to take arms.

"African Lion and His Realm" illustrates the life of the lion and the animals with which he shares the African plains.

Preschool story hours at the library will feature the stories, "A Home for Hopper" and "Be Nice to Spiders," and the film, "The Tale of Peter Rabbit."

The story hours will be held Tuesday, April 13, at 9 and 10:15 a.m., Wednesday, April 14, at 10:15 a.m., and Thursday, April 15, at 6:30 p.m.

Put Brush In Bag

You've been painting all day — you're exhausted — and you decide you just can't lift another brushful of paint.

So you begin cleaning up and then discover that you're out of turpentine! There's nothing you can use to clean that brush!

Here's a temporary tip to help you save the brush. Place it in a clean plastic bag and seal it well. This enables the brush to stay moist until the next day.

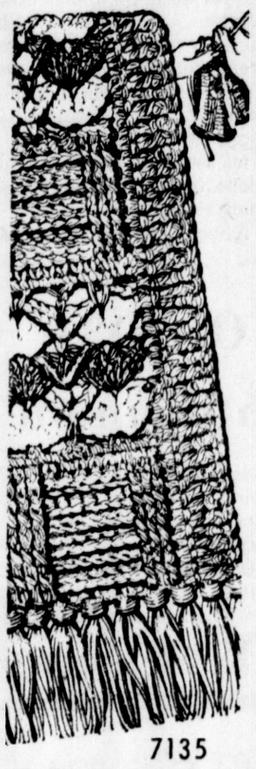

ENHANCE SAUSAGE

Dr. Lester Coleman

I was just discharged from a hospital that is supposed to be one of the best in the city. Besides the exhorbitant cost of the stay, the food was tasteless, and always arrived cold. The nursing care was pretty good, but they were inconsiderate about waking me at 6 a.m. just to take my temperature. Can't these conditions be improved?

Mr. R.B., Ohio

Dear Mr. B.:

Hospital administrators and physicians constantly hear complaints such as yours.

I am certain that these complaints are due to the fact that so few patients and their families have any real awareness of the complexities of running a hospital.

The fundamental purpose of all such institutions is to return the patient to maximum health at maximum speed. Yet nowhere in your letter did you even mention the fact that you have recovered from illness or surgery.

Your total concentration was on the lack of gourmet quality in the food and your disappointment in the "hotel facilities" of the hospital.

There was no notation of the team effort of doctors, nurses, paramedics, and laboratory technicians who were busy trying to accumulate scientific evidence for a diagnosis and planned treatment of your condition.

The anxiety and emo distress of patients and families are completely u tandable. Yet, when th preoccupied with unimp details they sometimes thoughtless and unreas demands on hospital pers

Senate Panel Accepts New School Funding Formula

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A new approach to funding Michigan's schools, providing more money for pupils in the lowest grades, has won approval in a Senate committee.

The Senate Appropriations Committee reported the almost $1.48 billion measure to the full chamber Thursday after backing down from its approval of another bill.

The discarded measure would have extended the current "equal yield" approach another year. Guarantees of state money for each pupil for each mill of local taxes levied would have been increased.

But instead, Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, persuaded the committee to adopt his "weighted" approach to school funding. The appropriations panel had earlier rejected the bill.

Key lawmakers said it was uncertain whether Faxon's bill would make it through the House after expected passage in the Senate next week. The funding approach could be drastically altered again before the bill reaches Gov. William Milliken's desk.

The bill is more than $50 million above the level Milliken recommended, and is considerably higher than last year's appropriation of $1.38 billion.

"It is designed to put more money into early elementary education so you won't have so much remedial education later," said Sen. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee on school aid.

The bill is aimed at giving children a firm start in education by providing the most money per pupil for grades 1-3.

Reverse Discrimination Okayed 'In Some Cases'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Preferential treatment for racial minorities — so-called "reverse discrimination" — is constitutional in certain circumstances, New York's highest court says.

But the Court of Appeals said Thursday it does not necessarily approve of the practice because it feels preferential policies can sometimes be more harmful than helpful to minority group members.

The court, unanimously upholding a lower court decision, ruled against a graduate student from Brooklyn who charged that Downstate Medical Center had rejected his application for admission while accepting those of less qualified minority students.

In a similar situation two years ago, the U.S. Supreme Court by a 5 to 4 vote declined to rule whether the University of Washington Law School violated the Constitution when it turned down a white applicant, Marco DeFunis Jr., while admitting less qualified and disadvantaged minority students.

The high court's majority said there no longer was a live controversy because DeFunis, who had subsequently been admitted to the law school under a lower court ruling, would have graduated shortly after its decision no matter what its ruling.

The plaintiff in the New York case, Martin C. Alevy, said rejection of his application amounted to a denial of his equal protection rights under the state and federal constitutions. The Court of Appeals disagreed.

The court, in a carefully worded, 15-page opinion by Judge Domenick Gabrielli, said reverse discrimination is acceptable only when the gains derived from the preferential policy outweigh its possible detrimental effects and when its goals cannot be achieved by a less "objectionable" approach, such as giving special consideration to students from financially or educationally deprived backgrounds, rather than on the basis of race.

Gabrielli said in reaching that conclusion the court did not intend to limit the discretion of college administrators in determining whom they will admit. But he said that the court's decision that "benign discrimination" is permissible should not be taken as tacit approval of such practices.

Reverse Discrimination Okayed 'In Some Cases'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Preferential treatment for racial minorities — so-called "reverse discrimination" — is constitutional in certain circumstances, New York's highest court says.

But the Court of Appeals said Thursday it does not necessarily approve of the practice because it feels preferential policies can sometimes be more harmful than helpful to minority group members.

The court, unanimously upholding a lower court decision, ruled against a graduate student from Brooklyn who charged that Downstate Medical Center had rejected his application for admission while accepting those of less qualified minority students.

In a similar situation two years ago, the U.S. Supreme Court by a 5 to 4 vote declined to rule whether the University of Washington Law School violated the Constitution when it turned down a white applicant, Marco DeFunis Jr., while admitting less qualified and disadvantaged minority students.

The high court's majority said there no longer was a live controversy because DeFunis, who had subsequently been admitted to the law school under a lower court ruling, would have graduated shortly after its decision no matter what its ruling.

The plaintiff in the New York case, Martin C. Alevy, said rejection of his application amounted to a denial of his equal protection rights under the state and federal constitutions. The Court of Appeals disagreed.

The court, in a carefully worded, 15-page opinion by Judge Domenick Gabrielli, said reverse discrimination is acceptable only when the gains derived from the preferential policy outweigh its possible detrimental effects and when its goals cannot be achieved by a less "objectionable" approach, such as giving special consideration to students from financially or educationally deprived backgrounds, rather than on the basis of race.

Gabrielli said in reaching that conclusion the court did not intend to limit the discretion of college administrators in determining whom they will admit. But he said that the court's decision that "benign discrimination" is permissible should not be taken as tacit approval of such practices.

Senate Panel Accepts New School Funding Formula

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A new approach to funding Michigan's schools, providing more money for pupils in the lowest grades, has won approval in a Senate committee.

The Senate Appropriations Committee reported the almost $1.48 billion measure to the full chamber Thursday after backing down from its approval of another bill.

The discarded measure would have extended the current "equal yield" approach another year. Guarantees of state money for each pupil for each mill of local taxes levied would have been increased.

But instead, Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, persuaded the committee to adopt his "weighted" approach to school funding. The appropriations panel had earlier rejected the bill.

Key lawmakers said it was uncertain whether Faxon's bill would make it through the House after expected passage in the Senate next week. The funding approach could be drastically altered again before the bill reaches Gov. William Milliken's desk.

The bill is more than $50 million above the level Milliken recommended, and is considerably higher than last year's appropriation of $1.38 billion.

"It is designed to put more money into early elementary education so you won't have so much remedial education later," said Sen. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee on school aid.

The bill is aimed at giving children a firm start in education by providing the most money per pupil for grades 1-3.

PBB Taint Effects Told In Washington

By JOHN STUWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Animal feed contaminated with a toxic chemical has driven farmers into bankruptcy and poisoned their children, a group of Michigan cattlemen told a Senate health subcommittee Thursday.

Because of inadequate state and federal action, the farmers testified, they could legally sell for human consumption the cows that are dying in their barns.

Louis Trombley, a third-generation farmer who runs a dairy operation near Hersey, Mich., displayed the picture of a sick cow with an open lesion. He said the cow could be sold under rules established by the Food and Drug Administration.

"I could put it on your dinner table legally," he told Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., "but I couldn't morally."

In some of the poisoned dairy cows that pass federal inspection, Trombley said, "The milk runs out brown like jelly and stinks so bad you can't stand it."

The problem began in 1973 when Michigan Chemical Co. of St. Louis, Mich., inadvertently added the fire retardant chemical "firemaster" rather than the animal feed additive "nutrimaster" to about 320 tons of feed, said FDA Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt.

The fire retardant chemical contained polybrominated biphenyl, or PBB, which turned out to be extremely poisonous, he said.

After livestock began dying, some of the contaminated feed was diluted with good feed to make it less potent and no one knows how much bad feed was eventually sold, Schmidt told the panel. Law enforcement action is being considered, but Schmidt did not say against whom.

More than 500 Michigan farms have been quarantined, Schmidt said, and more than $900 million in lawsuits have been filed. The feed mix-up has led to the destruction of up to 25,000 cows, nearly 4,000 hogs, 1.5 million chickens and more than 5 million eggs.

The FDA lowered acceptable limits on PBBs to 0.3 parts per million in milk and meat fat, and to 1.05 parts per million in animal feed and whole eggs. The farmers said those limits were not low enough to protect the public health, however, and that some of their cows were dying at 0.2 parts per million.

Gerry Woltjer of Coopersville said that "555 cows died in front of our eyes."

"I milked a cow that was dying, lying on her side," he said. "That milk came back at .74 parts per million. I could have sold it (the cow) to the slaughter house. Some have been."

Dr. David Sulvatl, who operates a farm near Stanwood and practices medicine in Big Rapids, said 90 per cent of the 80 patients he has examined have PBB in their blood. Virtually all apparently got the chemical from eating their own farm products, the doctor testified.

Douglas Green of Chase said, "I have no more cattle on my farm. I'm afraid we're in for very, very bad trouble."

FDA Commissioner Schmidt said that about 8,000 Michigan farm families consumed meat and dairy products contaminated with PBB, but public health officials are unsure of the consequences.

"This is a most unfortunate incident, obviously," Schmidt said.

Meanwhile, a contract was announced between the Center for Disease Control and the State of Michigan for a $336,964 study, of which $58,000 is in matching state funds.

The 15-month study is to determine the long-term impact of PBB on the health of Michigan residents. Included in the study will be 4,000 persons who have been most heavily exposed to the PBB contamination. A previous study looked at short-term effects of PBB contamination.

Senate Okays $105 Million For Community Colleges

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A $105 million appropriation to fund community colleges was among the first 1976-77 budget measures approved by the Senate Thursday.

Included in the bill sent to the House was an appropriation of $1.5 million for Lake Michigan college in Benton Harbor and $1.6 million for Southwestern Michigan college in Dowagiac.

Southwestern officials said the appropriation is about what they had planned on for their budget.

Budget planners for Lake Michigan college could not be reached for comment. The state appropriated $1,449,000 for the school for the 1975-76 year.

The community college funding measure, passed 21-5, is some $7 million over Gov. William Milliken's proposal and up $18 million from this year.

The chamber also voted 20-8 Thursday to send to the House a $491 million funding measure for colleges and universities. The bill was some $16 million more than Gov. William Milliken recommended and $28 million above this year's expenditure.

The college and university bill for the first time would impose a "rationale" on how higher education is funded in Michigan, supporters say. Previously, colleges have been given money based largely on what they received the year before.

The bill approved Thursday would fund universities under a formula based on programs and needs, requiring similar funding for equal programs at different colleges.

The new funding approach consists of a foundation of statewide performance expectations, added cost factors from differing programs, and special grants for unique programs. It would be phased in over a three-year period.

The bill includes some $4.5 million in new funds to Michigan medical schools, including mental health programs.

Michigan colleges would receive the following funding:

Central Michigan, $21.7 million; Eastern Michigan, $25.5 million; Ferris State, $15.3 million; Grand Valley State, $9.7 million; Lake Superior State, $4.1 million; Michigan State, $81.9 million; MSU Agricultural Experiment Station; $7.9 million; MSU Cooperative Extension, $7.2 million.

Michigan Tech, $14.9 million; Northern Michigan, $14.6 million; Oakland, $14.2 million; Saginaw Valley, $4.6 million; University of Michigan, $110.7 million; U-M Dearborn, $7 million; U-M Flint, $6.1 million; Wayne State, $73 million; Western Michigan, $34.9 million.

Alpena, $1.5 million; Bay de Noc, $1.1 million; C.S. Mott, $6.9 million; Delta, $4.9 million; Glen Oaks, $653,700; Gogebic, $1.1 million; Grand Rapids, $4.7 million; Henry Ford, $6.5 million; Highland Park, $2.6 million; Jackson, $4.4 million.

Kalamazoo, $2.8 million; Kellogg, $2.6 million; Kirtland, $1.2 million; Lansing, $9.7 million; Macomb, $12.1 million; Mid Michigan, $1.2 million; Monroe, $1.1 million; Montcalm, $871,300; Muskegon, $3.8 million; North Central, $887,800.

Northwestern, $2.3 million; Oakland, $7.8 million; St. Clair, $2.6 million; Schoolcraft, $4.2 million; Washtenaw, $3.2 million; Wayne, $10.2 million; West Shore, $727,700.

Ex-Treasurer Wants Job Back

CASSOPOLIS — Mrs. M. Thelma Huston, Cass county treasurer from 1965 through 1968, has announced her candidacy for election to that post again.

Mrs. Huston, 60, a Democrat, is the first person to announce candidacy for the post now held by Republican Sharon Fricke, 35.

Mrs. Huston has been active in the Cass county Democratic party, and after her election as treasurer in 1964, became the first Cass county treasurer to invest county funds in interest-drawing bank accounts.

She was an unsuccessful candidate in 1966 for the Democratic party nomination for the 42nd state legislative seat eventually won by Republican DeForrest Strang of Sturgis.

Mrs. Huston was defeated in 1968 in her bid for re-election to the county post by Mrs. Helen Burch, a Republican who held the post until her death in March 1975. Mrs. Fricke was appointed to the post that same month.

After 1968, Mrs. Huston worked as a collection manager for a South Bend furniture firm until 1974.

Mrs. Huston and her husband Harold live at 1300 Barron Lake road, in Cass county's Howard township.

South Haven Gets Hospital Approval

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven Community hospital has been re-accredited through 1977 by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), according to Administrator Wayne C. Eagleson.

The accreditation is the result of an on-site survey made by field representatives of JACH, according to Eagleson.

Accreditation for a two-year period is the maximum granted and, according to Eagleson, "reflects South Haven Community Hospital's efforts to attain the standards recommended by the JCAH."

The South Haven hospital is one of approximately 4,800, general hospitals throughout the U.S. to have earned accreditation. There are approximately 7,500 hospitals in the country.

WORKER KILLED

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Delmas Cunningham, 44, construction worker, was killed Thursday when a seven-foot-deep drainage ditch in which he was working caved in, police said.

Ex-Treasurer Wants Job Back

CASSOPOLIS — Mrs. M. Thelma Huston, Cass county treasurer from 1965 through 1968, has announced her candidacy for election to that post again.

Mrs. Huston, 60, a Democrat, is the first person to announce candidacy for the post now held by Republican Sharon Fricke, 35.

Mrs. Huston has been active in the Cass county Democratic party, and after her election as treasurer in 1965, became the first Cass county treasurer to invest county funds in interest-drawing bank accounts.

She was an unsuccessful candidate in 1966 for the Democratic party nomination for the 42nd state legislative seat eventually won by Republican DeForrest Strang of Sturgis.

Mrs. Huston was defeated in 1968 in her bid for re-election to the county post by Mrs. Helen Burch, a Republican who held the post until her death in March 1975. Mrs. Fricke was appointed to the post that same month.

After 1968, Mrs. Huston worked as a collection manager for a South Bend furniture firm until 1974.

Mrs. Huston and her husband Harold live at 1300 Barron Lake road, in Cass county's Howard township.

Pigeon River Objector Speaks Up

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A second member of the Michigan Natural Resources Commission has come out against oil and gas drilling in northern Lower Michigan's Pigeon River Country.

Announcing his position Thursday, Carl T. Johnson of Cadillac joined Chairman Harry Whitely in opposition to drilling in the 90,000-acre forest northeast of Gaylord.

Environmentalists oppose drilling in the forest, which is home to bears, bobcats, eagles and the state's remnant elk herd.

Johnson, presenting his informal proposal to the commission, said he will formalize it if the state ethics commission clears him of a possible conflict of interest in being involved in the Pigeon River controversy.

Johnson is a former member of the Michigan Farm Bureau, which favors expanded drilling in the southern third of Pigeon River Country. The ethics board has postponed a decision until April 30.

While blocking drilling in the forest, the state should help oil companies explore for alternate drilling sites, Johnson said. The companies also should be allowed to renew leases on the land at least until the year 2000, with the lease price to be negotiated with the state, he added.

State agencies should cooperate with oil companies "to get the oil flowing" in lands to the east and west of Pigeon River Country, Johnson said.

Johnson claimed oil and gas production outside Pigeon River can be "tripled and quadrupled."

"By the time (Pigeon River Country) energy supplies are really needed, it is probable that new techniques will have been developed to remove it without damage to" the environment, Johnson said.

Letters received by the commission are running "1,000-to-1" against allowing Pigeon River drilling, Johnson claimed.

Johnson said he opposes as "idealistic and not feasible" a recommendation of the Michigan Environmental Review Board to allow oil and gas drilling in the southern third of the forest. Such drilling also has won recommendation of the Natural Resources Department.

Letting the oil industry probe the lower reaches of the forest would give oil men "a foot in the door...with the remainder of the Pigeon River Country to be opened later at industry's convenience," he said.

The oil industry has shut down more than 100 wells in areas surrounding the forest, Johnson said.

The Natural Resources Commission "should not only question the reason for this, but urge industry to put a greater share of its know-how into opening and developing new oil and gas resources which lie outside the Pigeon River Country," he said.

Drug Ring Figure Poses As Poor Man, Police Say

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A key figure in a multi-million dollar drug ring has been masquerading for two years as a poor man on state welfare, police said Wednesday.

David Hernandez, 27, of Saginaw, was bound over for trial next month in Saginaw County Circuit Court on charges of sale and possession of heroin.

He was the second member of his family arrested in recent months in what U.S. and Mexican authorities described as a huge drug operation between the two countries.

His father, Francisco Hernandez, was arrested in Reynosa, Mexico, last November and charged with selling 4.4 pounds of heroin to an undercover agent. Hernandez is still in a Mexican jail.

The police crackdown on his son came in March after 14 months of undercover work by a Saginaw police officer who infiltrated the city's drug underworld, the department reported.

Patrolman Donald Lasky, the undercover man, testified at Hernandez' preliminary hearing in district court that he met four times with David Hernandez on March 2 to set up a buy.

Saginaw County authorities said records seized at the David Hernandez home indicated he had done more than $2 million worth of business in heroin traffic the first two months of this year. They said drugs had been sent to Lansing, Muskegon, Detroit and Grand Rapids.

They added that a search of Hernandez' home disclosed welfare receipts for the past two years. They said he was separated from his wife and two children.

Reagan As Vice President?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is saying that, if nominated for election, it is conceivable he might pick Ronald Reagan as his runningmate. Some interpret this as meaning, "only if necessary," Ford has expressed no particular enthusiasm for a Ford-Reagan ticket, and some of his close associates say they can think of only two circumstances that might bring it about: —If the former California governor mounts such a formidable challenge that Ford would feel compelled to make a deal with Reagan forces in order to get the Republican presidential nomination for himself. —If the Ford-Reagan rivalry becomes so divisive that Republican harmony only could be restored by offering the challenger a place on the November ballot.

Ford's Defense Spending Request Is Riding High

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate begins debate on spending priorities for fiscal 1977 by taking up a Democrat-backed bill that gives President Ford virtually everything he asked for defense but rejects his plea for cutbacks in domestic programs.

The bill, calling for a spending target of $412.6 billion, recommends rejection of Ford's planned increase in Social Security taxes, but envisions a somewhat smaller reduction in income taxes than the President has proposed.

The Democrats, who control Congress, say their proposed budget would promote economic recovery more rapidly than would Ford's package, and that it would not renew inflation.

The proposal is "the best compromise that the Budget Committee can put before the Senate," said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the panel. He said the spending target is higher than Ford's, chiefly because the committee "decided to maintain programs in employment, health, education and social services at or near current" levels.

The $412.6-billion target would mean a deficit in fiscal 1977 of $60.2 billion, compared with the $44.6-billion deficit envisioned with Ford's spending ceiling of $398.2 billion.

Even as Muskie made his opening remarks on the budget resolution Thursday, Senate liberals and conservatives were drawing battle lines over defense spending.

The resolution proposed $100.9 billion in defense spending during the year, only $200 million less than Ford recommended.

Conservatives appeared pleasantly surprised that the Budget Committee had voted so much for defense. But, led by Sen. James L. Buckley, C-R-N.Y., the conservatives zeroed in on an amendment by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., that would cut $3.5 billion from defense and spread it between job-creation and veterans' benefit programs.

Buckley said the conservative coalition will be able to defeat Cranston's amendment. The New Yorker said several liberals who a year ago were voting to cut the defense budget now fear further cuts would worsen the U.S. military posture compared with the Soviet Union.

The Budget Committee, in its report to the Senate, appeared to agree.

Democrats, Ford Rip Jimmy Carter

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jimmy Carter apologized, Morris Udall attacked, Henry Jackson sought labor votes and Fred Harris withdrew.

And while the major candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination spent a busy Thursday campaigning for Pennsylvania's May 27 primary, noncandidate Hubert H. Humphrey basked in the warm glow of support.

On the Republican side, President Ford criticized Carter for evading the issues, then prepared to head for Texas and appearances today in Dallas, El Paso and San Antonio. Ford is after delegates to be picked in the May 1 Texas primary.

His Republican challenger, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, visited Texas earlier this week and said he would return Wednesday.

Carter, the former Georgia governor, touched off a flurry of discussion Thursday when he apologized for remarks he made in South Bend, Ind., on ethnic neighborhoods.

Carter had told reporters Tuesday, "I'm not trying to say I want to maintain with any kind of government interference the ethnic purity of neighborhoods. What I say is the government ought not to take as a major purpose the infusion of alien groups into a neighborhood, simply to establish that intrusion."

At a Philadelphia news conference Thursday, he called his use of the phrase "ethnic purity" "a very serious mistake." And later at Allentown, Pa., he told a gathering, "What I should have said was neighborhoods with ethnic character and ethnic heritage. What I meant was that people with the same ethnic background have chosen to live together."

But fellow Democrats seeking the party's presidential nomination, particularly Udall, seized the opportunity to attack Carter.

"There is no place in this land for thinly veiled hints of the politics of racial division," said the Arizona congressman.

The three Democratic candidates were in Pennsylvania to win support of the 134 delegates who will be chosen in the primary. Their campaigns took them out of the state today.

Humphrey, the Minnesota senator, said again he wouldn't run in the primaries but would accept the nomination of a deadlocked convention. He got a rousing reception in Pittsburgh at the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO convention. And Gov. Milton Shapp — himself once a presidential candidate — said Humphrey is in a "strong position" to win the nomination.

Udall, who spoke to reporters in Philadelphia before leaving for Washington, said Carter's Indiana statement might have been an attempt to woo supporters of Alabama Gov. George Wallace. Wallace is on the Pennsylvania ballot but has done little campaigning.

Jackson, the senator from Washington, said Carter is "going to be explaining that for a long time."

In Washington, meanwhile, Harris, the former senator from Oklahoma, announced he is no longer campaigning. "I am still a candidate for president," he told a news conference. "But our national effort in the primaries ends." Harris has won only 13 of the 903 national convention delegates chosen to date.

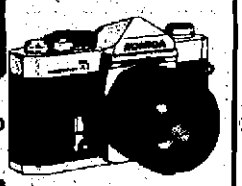

President Ford, in a interview with the Gannett Newspapers, assailed Carter for evading the issues. "He is just not specific enough, not definite enough for the public to know where he stands," Ford said.

And later at Allentown, Pa., he told a gathering, "What I should have said was neighborhoods with ethnic character and ethnic heritage. What I meant was that people with the same ethnic background have chosen to live together."

But fellow Democrats seeking the party's presidential nomination, particularly Udall, seized the opportunity to attack Carter.

"There is no place in this land for thinly veiled hints of the politics of racial division," said the Arizona congressman.

The three Democratic candidates were in Pennsylvania to win support of the 134 delegates who will be chosen in the primary. Their campaigns took them out of the state today.

Humphrey, the Minnesota senator, said again he wouldn't run in the primaries but would accept the nomination of a deadlocked convention. He got a rousing reception in Pittsburgh at the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO convention. And Gov. Milton Shapp — himself once a presidential candidate — said Humphrey is in a "strong position" to win the nomination.

Udall, who spoke to reporters in Philadelphia before leaving for Washington, said Carter's Indiana statement might have been an attempt to woo supporters of Alabama Gov. George Wallace. Wallace is on the Pennsylvania ballot but has done little campaigning.

Jackson, the senator from Washington, said Carter is "going to be explaining that for a long time."

In Washington, meanwhile, Harris, the former senator from Oklahoma, announced he is no longer campaigning. "I am still a candidate for president," he told a news conference. "But our national effort in the primaries ends."

Harris has won only 13 of the 903 national convention delegates chosen to date.

President Ford, in a interview with the Gannett Newspapers, assailed Carter for evading the issues. "He is just not specific enough, not definite enough for the public to know where he stands," Ford said.

'The Truly Needy' Would Receive More

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fundamentally different food-stamp program for poor Americans would emerge gradually over a year's time if a Senatepassed measure ever becomes law.

The dollar cost to the 90 per cent of Americans who do not participate probably would not change significantly.

Their taxes and those of about 35 per cent of the present food-stamp beneficiaries pay for a program now costing about $5.75 billion.

The Senate sent the legislation to the House Thursday evening. The final vote was 52 to 22 after about 20 senators had left for the day.

Twelve Republicans joined 40 Democrats in favor of the bill, while three Democrats, 18 Republicans and one independent voted against it.

A White House spokesman said the measure's principles are compatible with President Ford's thinking: take foodstamp benefits from middle-income families and give more to "the truly needy."

But the spokesman said the Senate bill gives too many benefits to those who remain, so the over-all spending level is unacceptable. And Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said in Fairfield, Conn., that he would urge Ford to veto the measure. Butz said the bill did not cut as much money from the program as he anticipated.

Ford is trying to bring down the program to the $4.6-billion level. He has ordered administrative revisions into effect by June 1, bypassing Congress.

Analysis of budget estimates advanced by both sides during Senate debate indicated that the measure would produce a food-stamp budget near $6 billion.

Without changes, the program has been projected to cost $6.33 billion in the year beginning Oct. 1.

"Benefits for the needy will definitely be improved," said Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, DGa. "Benefits for the greedy will be, hopefully, removed."

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., commented, "I think this is properly directed reform. It will slow the growth in spending and weed some of the people out" — about 1.4 million of the 19 million now benefitting each month.

"Benefits for all those below the poverty line will go up, but I don't think anyone quarrels with that," said Dole. He is the ranking GOP member of the committee.

In the House, the Senate bill will join four other proposed sweeping measures before the Agriculture Committee, including one from Ford.

Lottery Buff Big Winner

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Frank Hooper's habit of buying hundreds of lottery tickets each week paid off Thursday when he won the top prize in the state lottery's weekly superdrawing.

He buys hundreds of tickets each week because he says he has little else to do. The prize was the second for Hooper in two weeks, as last week he won $3,000 and got the chance to take part in this week's drawing is the 'comeback winner."

He said he'll use the winnings to buy a single-story house so his wife doesn't have to climb stairs any more.

Other winners: James Miller of Waterloo, Ind., $25,000; Lucille Beffey, Sterling Heights, $15,000; Thomas Jones, St. Clair Shores, $12,500, and the Terrific Ten Lottery Club, employes of Consumers Power Co. in East Detroit, $10,000.

Forestry Chief Says 'Bo' Got No Favors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the U.S. Forest Service says his agency did not give preferential treatment to Howard H. Callaway during the former Army secretary's campaign to expand his Colorado ski resort on government land.

But testimony Thursday before a Senate subcommittee indicated other high level government officials took an active interest in seeing to it that Callaway, who recently resigned as President Ford's campaign manager, won approval for his resort expansion.

A Senate investigator said the interest of other federal officials appears to have been shared by even Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz.

Butz has denied any involvement in the Callaway ski resort matter.

Forest Service chief John McGuire denied in testimony Thursday that his agency was swayed in any way because of contacts with Callaway.

Callaway was expected to testify before the Senate interior subcommittee on environment and land resources today or Saturday.

The subcommittee was to hear from other Forest Service officials today, as well as from officials of the Agriculture Department, the service's parent agency. The panel is probing Callaway's tactics in trying to persuade the Forest Service to approve expansion of his Crested Butte, Colo., resort into a nearby federally owned mountain.

McGuire said Callaway had nothing to do with the Forest Service decision tentatively approving the expansion. That decision overruled an earlier recommendation by lower-level Forest Service officials who suggested that the proposed expansion be blocked.

McGuire said he was aware of Callaway's contacts with Forest Service and Agriculture Department officials in the matter, including a July 3 meeting in Callaway's Pentagon office. But he said he did not see anything wrong with this.

"I did not look at it as an improper contact," McGuire testified. However, he said he did feel "it was unusual for a secretary of the Army" to be making such requests.

Owen Malone, the subcommittee's chief investigator, said the July 3 meeting was just one of many contacts either Callaway or his brother-in-law, Ralph Walton, had with top officials of both agencies.

Walton is president of the Crested Butte Development Corp. and a part-owner of the resort. Callaway holds a controlling 66 per cent interest in the development firm.

Malone said Callaway's intervention had an impact on Washington-level officials of both the Forest Service and the Agriculture Department, prompting a barrage of memos, letters and other communications.

He cited a July memo to Butz from then-Agriculture Undersecretary J. Phillip Campbell recommending that Butz "push" the Forest Service to draft an environmental statement that would, in effect, approve the proposed Crested Butte expansion.

Gill Net Days Are Numbered

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About 30 Michigan fishermen could be out of a job today, if, as expected, a state order bans fishing with small-mesh gill nets.

The state Natural Resources Commission is expected to approve a permanent ban on small-mesh gill net fishing, the only technique used by about 30 commercial fisherman to harvest a quickly depleting stock of chubs.

"They recognize just as well as we do that the chubs are gone," said John Scott, Great Lakes fisheries expert with the Department of Natural Resources. "Most of them will leave the fishery."

HEART OF THE FRUIT BELT

NEWS OF THE FARM, ORCHARD AND DAIRY

Covering The Greatest Diversified Fruit Producing Area In America

LOCAL-STATE NATIONAL

DISTRICT HORT AGENT: Theodore "Mike" Thomas, 36, a native of Berrien county, will return to area as new southwestern Michigan district horticultural and marketing agent, starting April 19. He will operate out of Van Buren county extension office, Paw Paw. Thomas, county extension agent in Leelanau county since 1969, last year won Achievement award of National Association of County Agricultural Agents for outstanding work in Leelanau.

Peach Pruning Show Set

Various methods of pruning peach trees will be demonstrated at a meeting for southwestern Michigan growers Saturday at Barden Brothers Orchards, located just off the Pullman road exit of I-196, about six miles north of South Haven. The session will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the packing house.

Following a short information session at the packing house, the group will move to theorchards. There trees pruned to different systems in prior years will be shown, and various "experts" then will prune other trees and explain their method.

Additionally, a discussion of soil fumigation before planting new peach trees will be conducted by Dr. George Bird, Michigan State university nematologist.

USDA Fills New Cherry Board Terms

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced the appointment of members and alternates to new terms on the Cherry Administrative Board.

The board, consisting of 12 members, administers the federal marketing order for tart cherries grown in Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland.

The grower members named to new three-year terms are as follows:

District 4 (west central Michigan), James W. Dittner, Ludington, and Alternate Rodney Bull, Bailey.

The handler, or processor, appointments are:

District 2 (Pennsylvania), Deal L. Carey, Peach Glen, Pa., and W. Vanderhoff, Biglerville, Pa.

Carryover representatives on the board for District 5 in southwestern Michigan are: (growers) Paul Wicks, Dowagiac, and Alternate Stephen Shafer, Bangor; (processors) Hugh Bengtsson, Silver Mill Frozen Foods, Hart; and Alternate Fred Foster, Michigan Fruit Canners.

THIS YEAR'S TURKEYS

At the start of this year, turkey growers in 20 major producing states intended to grow 8% more birds than in 1975, according to SRS's Crop Reporting Board. That would lift production in those states alone to 127 million turkeys.

Big Horse-Plowing Show Slated

For the benefit of people who "never knew how this country was put together," and for the fun of it, a Galien farmer is going to hold a horse-plowing show this month.

Watching horses do the work now done by machines might seem dull, but people, especially youngsters, "just get a kick out of it. Yeah they do," says Albert Payne. His farm, just north of the Indiana State line on Cleveland avenue, is the site for the April 10 and 11 event. The farm is about 3½ miles south of Galien.

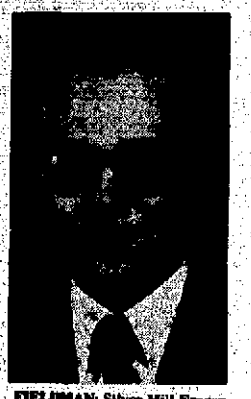

"GIT UP!" Albert Payne and his nine-horse team show how it used to be done as he plows at his farm. Behind him is a 12-horse team hitched to a disc. Payne's Galien farm will be the site tomorrow and Sunday for a horse-plowing show. He and other farmers will use horses to recreate a little farm history.

On both afternoons farmers will bring rigs and horses to the farm and plow. Last year there were about 15 farmers plowing, and around 2,500 people watching, Payne said.

"People who see men coaxing horses to plow learn how hard farming used to be. They never knew how this county was put together. They think it was easy. It wasn't easy," the 57-year-old dairy farmer reports.

Admission to the farm is free, but people can make donations. Lunch will be prepared by the Galien Lions club.

When asked if he holds the show just to get his fields plowed, Payne laughed. "I'll go over the field again with a tractor. Some of the boys don't do so good."

FIELDMAN: Silver Mill Frozen Foods has announced appointment of Ray Marske as fieldman for its Eau Claire plant. He was plant manager for Jeno's at Sodus for past year, and previously was fieldman and in production for United Foods at same plant. He managed Berrien Springs Co-op from 1962-64, and was fruit and grain farmer from 1943-62.

Hormone To Sychronize Heat In Cows On The Way

Prostaglandins will become commercially available to beef and dairy operators about a year from now, and it could mean a dramatic increase in the genetic improvement of cattle through expanded, economical use of artificial insemination, according to Dr. Harold D. Hafs, Michigan State University dairy scientist.

"For cows having normal reproductive cycles, prostaglandin offers a method for synchronization of estrus (or heat) for entire herds WITHOUT heat detection by the cattleman," said Hafs.

Hafs spoke at a recent conference held by the Upjohn company to provide background information on the new product PROSTIN F2 ALPHA — currently approved only for estrous synchronization in mares.

Estrus detection is the principal bottleneck to the use of artificial insemination (AI) in modern cow herds because of its high cost, its time consuming nature, and, in some cases, its difficulty, Hafs maintained.

As a result, less than five percent of U.S. beef cows are artificially inseminated, and only about half of the dairy cows. "All in spite of such proof in dairy cows as a production increase since 1940 of 2.5 tons more milk per cow per year — largely due to genetic improvement through AI," said Hafs.

Prostaglandins can solve this situation due to their remarkable ability to synchronize estrus. "After a group of normally cycling cows receive prostaglandin treatment they will all ovulate after about 80 hours.

This means that with proper procedures, heat detection can be eliminated and calving rates will be normal for AI situations," Hafs noted.

"We tested this notion in 36 commercial herds of heifers and suckled cows," he said.

"All treated cattle were given two injections of prostaglandin 10 to 12 days apart. Half the cattle were inseminated twice — at 70 and 88 hours after the second injection — and the others were inseminated once at 80 hours.

"Calving rates of the treated animals were the same as those of untreated heifers and suckled cows which were bred using heat detection and normal AI procedures," Hafs said.

The reason two injections of prostaglandin are needed is because the natural compound will synchronize estrus only if it is given during the two-thirds of the 21-day reproductive cycle when progesterone is the dominant hormone present — from day 5 to day 18. By giving a second injection of the compound 10 to 12 days later, those cattle not affected by the first treatment will be receptive. All the animals will then come into heat at approximately the same time (63 hours later) and will ovulate after an additional 26 hours.

New Oat Variety

Korwood, a new oat variety developed and released by Michigan State university, is available to farmers for the first time this year.

Korwood is a medium white seeded oat with an excellent yield record and a high test weight. It has a short plant and is resistant to lodging. It is similar to Rodney in appearance but has a more open head and more seeds per head.

Macklnaw and Mariner, released one and two years ago, respectively are other certified white oat types that perform well, according to MSU Crop Specialist L.O. Copeland.

Promotion Tax Is Proposed For State Soybeans

LANSING — A public hearing will be conducted by the Michigan Department of Agriculture on Monday, April 12, on a proposal to establish a promotion and development marketing program for Michigan soybeans. The hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the agriculture department's hearing room on the fifth floor of the Lewis Cass building here. The hearing is called by Agriculture Department Director B. Dale Ball based upon a petition signed by over 300 Michigan soybean producers. Aim of the proposal is to improve the economic position of Michigan soybean growers by the use of advertising and promotion, projects to expand soybean markets, research, marketing information, and the assessment of producers for funds to conduct these measures. Interested persons and organizations may present their views on the proposal either orally or in writing, according to Ball.

EARLY FARMERS Great On 'Bees'

There was little time for leisure activities when American agriculture was in its infancy. But farm families did gather for various special occasions to combine cooperative work with being neighborly.

Over a year, no less than a dozen or more different types of "frolics" or "bees" might be held. Here are a few of them:

Log-Rolling — Teams of men armed with log hooks pulled large trees into piles for burning after a farmer cleared a new field.

Stump-Pulling Frolic — Usually followed a log-rolling to remove stumps from a new field.

Husking Bee — Usually the most popular of such gatherings, two captains selected competing teams to see who could hust the most corn. "They set-in husking with all of their might.

Butchering Bee — Neighbors gathered on a farm at four in the morning to find huge log fires burning and the livestock already butchered. On a late November day, the meat was cut up, sausage made, lard rendered, scrapple made, the hams and bacons smoked.

Apple-Paring Bee — Held in the kitchen, apples were pared, cored, cut into thin discs, strung on linen thread and hung from the rafters to dry.

Apple Butter Bee — Young couples of courting age usually took part, stirring the large kettle of butter with a long wood paddle.

Spinning Bees — The farm wife pitted her skill and endurance against the neighboring women to see who could spin the most skeins from sunup to sunset.

NEWS OF THE FARM, ORCHARD AND DAIRY

LOCAL-STATI NATIONAL

DISTRICT HORT AGENT: Theodore "Mike" Thomas, 36, a native of Berrien county, will return to area as new southwestern Michigan district horticultural and marketing agent, starting April 19. He will operate out of Van Buren county extension office, Paw Paw. Thomas, county extension agent in Leelanau county since 1969, last year won Achievement award of National Association of County Agricultural Agents for outstanding work in Leelanau.

Peach Pruning Show Set

Various methods of pruning peach trees will be demonstrated at a meeting for southwestern Michigan growers Saturday at Barden Brothers Orchards, located just off the Pullman road exit of I-196, about six miles north of South Haven. The session will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the packing house.

Following a short information session at the packing house, the group will move to theorchards. There trees pruned to different systems in prior years will be shown, and various "experts" then will prune other trees and explain their method.

Additionally, a discussion of soil fumigation before planting new peach trees will be conducted by Dr. George Bird, Michigan State university nematologist.

Big Horse-Plowing Show Slate

For the benefit of people who "never knew how this country was put together," and for the fun of it, a Galien farmer is going to hold a horse-plowing show this month.

Watching horses do the work now done by machines might seem dull, but people, especially youngsters, "just get a kick out of it. Yeah they do," says Albert Payne. His farm, just north of the Indiana State line on Cleveland avenue, is the site for the April 10 and 11 event. The farm is about 2½ miles south of Galien.

"GIT UP!" Albert Payne and his nine-horse team show how it used to be done as he plows at his farm. Behind him is a 12-horse team hitched to a disc. Payne's Galien farm will be the site tomorrow and Sunday for a horse-plowing show. He and other farmers will use horses to recreate a little farm history.

On both afternoons will bring rigs and hors farm and plow. Last y were about 15 farmers and around 2,500 watching, Payne said.

USDA Fills New Cherry Board Terms

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced the appointment of members and alternates to new terms on the Cherry Administrative Board.

The board, consisting of 12 members, administers the federal marketing order for tart cherries grown in Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland.

The grower members named to new three-year terms are as follows:

The handler, or processor, appointments are:

Carryover representatives on the board for District 5 in southwestern Michigan are: (growers) Paul Wicks, Dowagiac, and Alternate Stephen Shafer, Bangor; (processors) Hugh Bengtsson, Silver Mill Frozen Foods, Hart, and Alternate Fred Foster, Michigan Fruit Canners.

THIS YEAR'S TURKEYS

At the start of this year, turkey growers in 20 major producing states intended to grow 6% more birds than in 1975, according to SRS's Crop Reporting Board. That would lift production in these states alone to 127 million turkeys.

Hormone To Sychronize Heat In Cows On The Way

Prostaglandins will become commercially available to beef and dairy operators about a year from now, and it could mean a dramatic increase in the genetic improvement of cattle through expanded, economical use of artificial insemination, according to Dr. Harold D. Hafs, Michigan State University dairy scientist.

"For cows having normal reproductive cycles, prostaglandin offers a method for syncronization of estrus (or heat) for entire herds WITHOUT heat detection by the cattleman," said Hafs.

Hafs spoke at a recent conference held by the Upjohn company to provide background information on the new product PROSTIN F2 ALPHA — currently approved only for estrous syncronization in mares.

Estrus detection is the principal bottleneck to the use of artificial insemination (AI) in modern cow herds because of its high cost, its time consuming nature, and, in some cases, its difficulty, Hafs maintained.

As a result, less than five percent of U.S. beef cows are artifically inseminated, and only about half of the dairy cows. "All in spite of such proof in dairy cows as a production increase since 1940 of 2.5 tons more milk per cow per year — largely due to genetic improvement through AI," said Hafs.

Prostaglandins can solve this situation due to their remarkable ability to syncronize estrus. "After a group of normally cycling cows receive prostaglandin treatment they will all ovulate after about 90 hours.

This means that with proper procedures, heat detection can be eliminated and calving rates will be normal for AI situations," Hafs noted.

"We tested this notion in 36 commercial herds of heifers and suckled cows," he said.

"All treated cattle were given two injections of prostaglandin 10 to 12 days apart. Half the cattle were inseminated twice — at 70 and 88 hours after the second injection — and the others were inseminated once at 80 hours.

"Calving rates of the treated animals were the same as those of untreated heifers and suckled cows which were bred using heat detection and normal AI procedures," Hafs said.

The reason two injections of prostaglandin are needed is because the natural compound will syncronize estrus only if it is given during the two-thirds of the 21-day reproductive cycle when progesterone is the dominant hormone present — from day 5 to day 18. By giving a second injection of the compound 10 to 12 days later, those cattle not affected by the first treatment will be receptive. All the animals will then come into heat at approximatey the same time (63 hours later) and will ovulate after an additional 26 hours.

New Oat Variety

Korwood, a new oat variety developed and released by Michigan State university, is available to farmers for the first time this year.

Korwood is a medium white seeded oat with an excellent yield record and a high test weight. It has a short plant and is resistant to lodging. It is similar to Rodney in appearance but has a more open head and more seeds per head.

Mackinaw and Mariner, released one and two years ago, respectively are other certified white oat types that perform well, according to MSU Crop Specialist L.O. Copeland.

Promotion Tax Is Proposed For State Soybeans

LANSING — A public hearing will be conducted by the Michigan Department of Agriculture on Monday, April 12, on a proposal to establish a promotion and development marketing program for Michigan soybeans. The hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the agriculture department's hearing room on the fifth floor of the Lewis Cass building here. The hearing is called by Agriculture Department Director B. Dale Ball based upon a petition signed by over 300 Michigan soybean producers Aim of the proposal is to improve the economic position of Michigan soybean growers by the use of advertising and promotion, projects to expand soybean markets, research, marketing information, and the assessment of producers for funds to conduct these measures. Interested persons and organizations may present their views on the proposal either orally or in writing, according to Ball.

EARLY FARMERS

Great On 'Bees'

There was little time for leisure activities when American agriculture was in its infancy. But farm families did gather for various special occasions to combine cooperative work with being neighborly.

Over a year, no less than a dozen or more different types of "frolics" or "bees" might be held. Here are a few of them:

Log-Rollng — Teams of men armed with log hooks pulled large trees into piles for burning after a farmer cleared a new field.

Stump-Pulling Frolic — Usually followed a log-rolling to remove stumps from a new field.

Husking Bee — Usually the most popular of such gatherings, two captains selected competing teams to see who could hust the most corn. "They set in husking with all of their might.

Butchering Bee — Neighbors gathered on a farm at four in the morning to find huge log fires burning and the livestock already butchered. On a late November day, the meat was cut up, sausage made, lard rendered, scrapple made, the hams and bacons smoked.

Apple-Paring Bee — Held in the kitchen, apples were pared, cored, cut into thin discs, strung on linen thread and hung from the rafters to dry.

Apple Butter Bee — Young couples of courting age usually took part, stirring the large kettle of butter with a long wood paddle.

Spinning Bees — The farm wife pitted her skill and endurance against the neighboring women to see who could spin the most skeins from sunup to sunset.

The school proprietors also argued that outlawing segregated private schools would violate their constitutional right to privacy and freedom from government intervention.

Bork argued that the schools are private "only in the sense that they receive no government aid." Private schools serve a public function, draw their students from the general public and use public advertising to attract students, he said.

To outlaw segregation in private schools will not "affect the curricula ... or the education philosophies or practices of individual teachers or of the schools," he added.

The department asked the justices to affirm the circuit court decision, which awarded money damages to the two Virginia children. Bobbe's school was ordered to pay $1,000 to McCrary and $500 to Gonzales. Fairfax-Brewster was ordered to pay $2,000 to Gonzales.

Other families cannot collect damages in this case because the trial court refused to certify it as a class action suit.

Nursing Home Open House

SOUTH HAVEN — A public open house at the new 63-bed Countryside nursing home, 120 Baseline road, will be held Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. The $500,000 facility was constructed on a nine-acre tract near Baseline road and North Shore drive in the city of South Haven by the Schaffer and Bartelson Construction company of Otsego.

The basic care facility has 31 semi-private rooms, according to Administrator Lowell Church. There will be 24-hour nursing care, Church said that patient applications are now being accepted. He expects the first patients to begin arriving next week.

Court Rules Junk Yard Must Go

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns yesterday ruled a New Buffalo township man violated township ordinances by maintaining a junk yard on his property and ordered that the junk be removed within one year.

Byrns' ruling came at the end of a one-day nonjury trial in which the township claimed Frank Versaw violated the township's debris and litter ordinance and the residential ordinance.

Versaw has the junk yard and open storage area on Hoder road near US-12. Byrns gave Versaw one year in which to clean up the junk and debris and noted if he doesn't the township is authorized to clean up the junk yard at the expense of Versaw.

Opposing counsel in the trial were Township Atty. Tat Parish and St. Joseph Atty. Richard Globensky, representing Versaw.

Railroad Grass Fires Are Quelled

Benton township firemen extinguished several scattered grass fires Thursday along an approximately three-mile stretch of railroad tracks on Riverside road near Eaman road.

The blazes were reported about 3:40 p.m. and firemen said diesel locomotives using the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad tracks may have been responsible. No damage to any buildings was reported.

In a fire early today, township firemen said the front seat of a 1970 Buick owned by Maudie Thompson, 132 Quincy drive, was destroyed. Cause of the 3 a.m. fire was undetermined. Firemen said the car was parked next to the owner's home.

Benton Pair Hurt In Crashes

A motorcyclist and a woman passenger in a car were injured Thursday in two traffic accidents reported to Benton township police and Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Edith Bahr, 65, route 4, box 668, North Euclid avenue, Benton township, was treated for a broken rib and cuts and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Henry Andrew Bahr, 66, Berrien deputies said.

Their car and one driven by Donald Eugene Swikoski, 27, of 4780 Roosevelt road, Stevensville, collided about 2:20 p.m. at the intersection of Hollywood and Hinchman roads, Baroda. Swikoski was unhurt and Bahr was ticketed for disregarding a stop sign, deputies reported.

In the motorcycle accident, Lendell Lee Robinson, 31, of 1698 Pipestone road, Benton township, was treated for abrasions and released from Mercy hospital.

Robinson told township police his cycle hit a patch of gravel on Pipestone road north of the I-94 interchange and he skidded into a ditch. Police said no ticket was issued in the 7:20 p.m. accident.

the investigations which resulted in the indictments.

"The thorough work of investigation was conducted by the Berrien county sheriff's department under the direction of Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell and the Michigan state police headed by Lt. Richard Schave.

Police Say Crash Ends Boy's Flight

A 16-year-old Fairplain boy was issued three traffic citations late Thursday after an approximately 15-mile high-speed chase that ended when his car smashed into a utility pole in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph township police said.

Township Officer Larry Eichelberger said the car was pursued at speeds up to 85 miles an hour during the chase that wound through St. Joseph and Benton townships and Benton Harbor.

He said it began about 11:25 p.m. near Western avenue and Learning lane when he attempted to stop a car for speeding. The chase ended at the intersection of Emory and Union streets about 11:35 p.m. The boy was unhurt in the crash, police said.

Township police said the boy was ticketed for fleeing police. Benton Harbor police cited the youth for driving with no operator's license and careless driving.

Chemical Leak Forces Town To Evacuate

CONVERSE, Ind. (AP) — All 1,200 residents of this northern Indiana town were evacuated from their homes today when a toxic chemical leak was discovered at an agricultural distributorship, state police said.

There were no reports of injuries, but state police said the chemical — anhydrous ammonia — had built up a cloud layer over the town, reducing visibility. The chemical burns the skin and is also flammable, police said.

The residents were being sheltered in nearby Oak Hill High School, authorities said.

Police said the leak came from a 21,000-gallon storage tank owned by Top Yield Farm Management Service. A trooper said a valve stuck open as the tank was being worked on about 6:30 a.m.

CRASH VICTIMS RESCUED: Two of five members of an Owosso family remained hospitalized Thursday after their plane nosedived into icy, chest-deep waters of a pond at Michigan State university. Allan Booth, 41, was piloting the plane on a return flight from Coldwater to Owosso Wednesday night when he ran out of gas and was forced to land in a field near campus. He refueled and took off down a road, but the plane lost power suddenly and nosed into the pond. Campus officer Donald Weesies carries Allan Booth Jr. to safety in the foreground. Allan Jr. and his mother, Frances, remained in a Lansing hospital Thursday with cuts an bruises. Booth and his two daughters, Sandy, 14, and Roberta, 13, were treated and released. (AP Wirephoto)

Budget Battle

spending to the level of estimated revenues. He urged his GOP colleagues to vote against any budget bill which exceeded Milliken's recommendation.

Davis and Sen. Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, ranking Republican on the appropriations committee, said the governor firmly reiterated his determination not to approve any tax increases.

Zollar said he had never seen budget bills so far above the governor's recommendation. "It's the first time I've voted no on every appropriations bill in committee," he said.

Democrats responded by blasting Milliken for his budget recommendations.

"The governor is totally irresponsible by issuing such a low budget," said appropriations Chairman Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw. "This is the needs of the citizens of the state of Michigan."

Majority Floor Leader Daniel Cooper, D-Oak Park, rejected Milliken's budget proposals by saying he has an "abysmal, an abhorrent" record in fiscal planning. He called the governor "a terrible leader."

Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, said the legislature had the obligation to fund the legitimate needs of the state. He said Milliken is "slicing political baloney" with his budget.

Sen. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, said the governor is "living in grand isolation" from the needs of the people.

But Democrats had little answer for Republicans who challenged them to approve a tax increase to pay for their spending levels. Although many say they would support such a bill, they do not have the votes to pass it — especially in the House, which seeks re-election this year.

"If you've got something better, let's see it," demanded Sen. Donald Bishop, R-Rochester. "The governor has finessed you out of your britches."

No 'Seafarer' Vote

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Upper Peninsula residents won't have the chance to vote on whether they want Project Seafarer located in their area in the May 18 presidential primary election. Two bills to permit a referendum to be held in the U.P. on the controversial underground communications network have been delayed in the state Senate. Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Detroit, said Thursday the secretary of state's office said it is too late to include the question on the May 18 ballot.

However, the boards of commissioners of at least four U.P. counties have put the issue on their May 18 election ballots. Residents in Dickinson, Iron, Ontonagon and Gogebic counties will be able to vote on Seafarer's proposed location.

Racing Bill Advances

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Racing of quarter horses would be legal at parimutuel tracks in Michigan under legislation on its way to Gov. William Milliken. The House Thursday gave final legislative approval to the bill, 86-10 with immediate effect. The measure was sponsored by Rep. Paul Porter, D-Quincy. Currently quarter horse racing is permitted only at county fairs. Racing dates would have to be obtained through the Michigan Racing Commission and would be allocated after the thoroughbred and harness racing calendars are set.

Elderly Protest In Lansing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About 500 nursing home workers and elderly and infirm persons crowded into the state House chambers Thursday to protest an 11 per cent slash in state medicaid expenditures. The gathering, marked by angry speeches, followed by only three days a state Capitol protest by dozens of ambulance drivers over the medicaid cutbacks. The drivers, who sounded their sirens in a shrill show of unison, vowed they would refuse to carry nonemergency patients if the cutbacks were allowed to stand. "It is the elderly who cannot get work because they can't afford to buy glasses that legislators should worry about. That is a human problem," one speaker cried Thursday. The 11 per cent medicaid cut was part of a $123.7 million statewide spending slash enacted to avoid deficit spending, which is unconstitutional.

Two Firms Under Orders

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has ordered Muffler Man Shops of Daytona Beach, Fla., to stop offering its franchises for sale in Michigan and has ordered a Pennsylvania firm to stop offering common stock in the state. Hugh Makens, head of the Corporation and Securities Bureau in the state commerce department, said Thursday Muffler Man failed to supply information on alleged violations of the Michigan Franchise Investment Law. The bureau also ordered Elkins, Morris, Stroud & Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., to stop offering common stock because the firm allegedly violated the state securities law. Makens said the firm was not registered in Michigan as a broker-dealer when it offered and sold common stock to Michigan investors in 1974.

Boothby: I'm 'Looking'

Berrien Springs attorney Lee Boothby has confirmed that he is considering seeking the Republican nomination for U.S. Congressman from the Fourth district.

Reached for comment last night, Boothby said he was "taking a good look" at running for the GOP nomination, but added he has not made a definite decision to seek the post.

The seat is currently held by Rep. Edward Hutchinson (R-St. Joseph), who has announced he will not seek re-election. David Stockman of St. Joseph is the only announced Republican candidate.

Boothby said he has set no deadline on deciding whether to enter the race. He said the decision would be made "in the near future."

Also confirming reports he has traveled to some parts of the district to gauge support for his possible candidacy, Boothby said he has been "quite encouraged by the results."

He said he has been meeting with Republican party officials across the district for the last two weeks as his law practice permits.

He and his wife, Carole, have two teenage daughters and live on Lake Chapin road in northern Buchanan township.

TV Film May Have Sparked Vandalism

TRENTON, Mich. (AP) — Police in this Detroit suburb say a 15-year-old youth they arrested Thursday has admitted leading a group of vandals in a $6,000 damage spree that may have been sparked by a television film about convicted murderer Charles Manson.

Lt. Donald Gadille said the arrest followed an anonymous tip. The damage at Sibley Elementary School included 111 broken windows and smashed office machines and vending equipment.

A tape recording was found among the debris, with a message promising further vandalism unless more attention was paid to the nation's youth.

The message also mentioned the film "Helter Skelter," shown last week on national television. The film was about Charles Manson and his "family." Manson and some of his followers are serving jail terms for the grisly 1969 murders of actress Sharon Tate and several others.

Gadille, however, said the boy told him the vandalism was spontaneous and had nothing to do with the film.

Gadille said more arrests are expected. Charges against the youth, whose identity was not released, were to be determined after a meeting with juvenile authorities, Gadille said.

Police said store officials reported that a man tried to return the $170 saw Thursday afternoon, but had no sales receipt. He reportedly told a clerk his dog chewed up the receipt after his wife purchased the saw Tuesday.

Store officials said the man was told to come back in an hour while they checked the price. No record of a sale was found, officials said, but a saw on display was reported stolen earlier in the week. The man did not return, police reports said.

A Benton Harbor man was reported in "serious" condition today with a stab wound in his stomach and city police arrested the man's wife on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Police identified the man as Charles Brown, 32, of 225 West May street, who was hospitalized at Mercy hospital. Booked at the Berrien county jail was Gennie Vernell Brown, 25, also of 225 West May.

Police said the incident occurred at a home in the 1100 block of Monroe street about 11 p.m. Thursday. A jackknife with a three-inch blade was confiscated, police reported. The stabbing resulted from an apparent argument, police reported.

A Benton township man told Benton Harbor police Thursday he was cut on the arm by a man while the two were talking in a parking lot at the intersection of Territorial road and Fair avenue.

Foster told police he and the man talked for a few minutes about 7 p.m. then the man pulled a knife and cut him. There was no indication what prompted the assault, according to police reports.

A six by seven foot plate glass window was reported broken Thursday morning at Fred's Fine Foods, 284 Broadway street, Benton Harbor police reported. No entry to the building was gained, police said, and value of the window was not reported.

Horace Tabor, division manager of Hilfield Electric company, 427 North Hull avenue, told Benton Harbor police Thursday he found charred remains of an emergency flare between doors at the company office.

Police said the apparent arson attempt was thwarted because both the outside and inside doors were metal and the flare burned itself out.

(4) men that the citizens of Benton Harbor were led to believe were being Laid-Off? Are the taxpayers of Benton Harbor being misled, duped, or sold into false security? By two (2) men quitting, and the City re-assigning eight (8) CETA employees, the City Manager would hope to only take credit for laying-off four (4) firefighters. But your Fire Department will end up with twenty-two (22) men total when there was thirty-six (36) at full compliment. This counts fourteen (14) men any way you try.

The following are some questions that every concerned citizen of Benton Harbor should ask him or herself and the City leaders:

Is it fair to the public when they do not receive the degree of protection to which they are entitled and have reason to expect?

Is it fair to ask the remaining firefighters to do the work of two (2) men with the high risk of their daily occupation?

Is it fair for the City to reduce manpower so none can be assigned to the South Side Station on Empire Ave.?

Is it fair to ask men trained as a team to work with less men then required?

Is it fair to require the citizens of Benton Harbor to pay higher insurance rates because of less protection?

Is it fair for the City Manager to state we have too many firefighters when this City has twice the amount of fires of any City its same size, nationwide?

Is it fair for the Taxpayers of Benton Harbor to pay for training Firefighters and lose them to other Cities?

High Court Gets Segregation Case

proprietors' arguments that Congress meant the statute to apply only to purely commercial transactions.

The school proprietors also argued that outlawing segregated private schools would violate their constitutional right to privacy and freedom from government intervention.

Bork argued that the schools are private "only in the sense that they receive no government aid." Private schools serve a public function, draw their students from the general public and use public advertising to attract students, he said.

To outlaw segregation in private schools will not "affect the curricula ... or the education philosophies or practices of individual teachers or of the schools," he added.

The department asked the justices to affirm the circuit court decision, which awarded money damages to the two Virginia children. Bobbe's school was ordered to pay $1,000 to McCrary and $500 to Gonzales. Fairfax-Brewster was ordered to pay $2,000 to Gonzales.

Other families cannot collect damages in this case because the trial court refused to certify it as a class action suit.

Nursing Home Open House

SOUTH HAVEN — A public open house at the new 63-bed Countryside nursing home, 120 Baseline road, will be held Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. The $500,000 facility was constructed on a nine-acre tract near Baseline road and North Shore drive in the city of South Haven by the Schaffer and Bartelson Construction company of Otsego.

The basic care facility has 31 semi-private rooms, according to Administrator Lowell Church. There will be 24-hour nursing care. Church said that patient applications are now being accepted. He expects the first patients to begin arriving next week.

Railroad Grass Fires Are Quelled

Benton township firemen extinguished several scattered grass fires Thursday along an approximately three-mile stretch of railroad tracks on Riverside road near Eaman road.

The blazes were reported about 3:40 p.m. and firemen said diesel locomotives using the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad tracks may have been responsible. No damage to any buildings was reported.

In a fire early today, township firemen said the front seat of a 1970 Buick owned by Maudie Thompson, 132 Quincy drive, was destroyed. Cause of the 3 a.m. fire was undetermined. Firemen said the car was parked next to the owner's home.

Benton Pair Hurt In Crashes

A motorcyclist and a woman passenger in a car were injured Thursday in two traffic accidents reported to Benton township police and Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Edith Bahr, 65, route 4, box 668, North Euclid avenue, Benton township, was treated for a broken rib and cuts and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Henry Andrew Bahr, 68, Berrien deputies said.

Their car and one driven by Donald Eugene Swikoski, 27, of 4760 Roosevelt road, Stevensville, collided about 2:20 p.m. at the intersection of Hollywood and Hinchman roads, Baroda. Swikoski was unhurt and Bahr was ticketed for disregarding a stop sign, deputies reported.

In the motorcycle accident, Lendell Lee Robinson, 31, of 1698 Pipestone road, Benton township, was treated for abrasions and released from Mercy hospital.

Robinson told township police his cycle hit a patch of gravel on Pipestone road north of the I-94 interchange and he skidded into a ditch. Police said no ticket was issued in the 7:20 p.m. accident.

Court Rules Junk Yard Must Go

Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns yesterday ruled a New Buffalo township man violated township ordinances by maintaining a junk yard on his property and ordered that the junk be removed within one year.

Byrns' ruling came at the end of a one-day nonjury trial in which the township claimed Frank Versaw violated the township's debris and litter ordinance and the residential ordinance.

Versaw has the junk yard and open storage area on Hoder road near US-12. Byrns gave Versaw one year in which to clean up the junk and debris and noted if he doesn't the township is authorized to clean up the junk yard at the expense of Versaw.

Opposing counsel in the trial were Township Atty. Tat Parish and St. Joseph Atty. Richard Globensky, representing Versaw.

Police Say Crash Ends Boy's Flight

A 16-year-old Fairplain boy was issued three traffic citations late Thursday after an approximately 15-mile high-speed chase that ended when his car smashed into a utility pole in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph township police said.

Township Officer Larry Eichelberger said the car was pursued at speeds up to 85 miles an hour during the chase that wound through St. Joseph and Benton townships and Benton Harbor.

He said it began about 11:25 p.m. near Western avenue and Learning lane when he attempted to stop a car for speeding. The chase ended at the intersection of Emery and Union streets about 11:35 p.m. The boy was unhurt in the crash, police said.

Township police said the boy was ticketed for fleeing police. Benton Harbor police cited the youth for driving with no operator's license and careless driving.

Chemical Leak Forces Town To Evacuate

CONVERSE, Ind. (AP) — All 1,200 residents of this northern Indiana town were evacuated from their homes today when a toxic chemical leak was discovered at an agricultural distributorship, state police said.

There were no reports of injuries, but state police said the chemical — anhydrous ammonia — had built up a cloud layer over the town, reducing visibility. The chemical burns the skin and is also flammable, police said.

The residents were being sheltered in nearby Oak Hill High School, authorities said.

Police said the leak came from a 21,000-gallon storage tank owned by Top Yield Farm Management Service. A trooper said a valve stuck open as the tank was being worked on about 6:30 a.m.

Budget Battle

spending to the level of estimated revenues. He urged his GOP colleagues to vote against any budget bill which exceeded Milliken's recommendation.

Davis and Sen. Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, ranking Republican on the appropriations committee, said the governor firmly reiterated his determination not to approve any tax increases.

Zollar said he had never seen budget bills so far above the governor's recommendation. "It's the first time I've voted no on every appropriations bill in committee," he said.

Democrats responded by blasting Milliken for his budget recommendations.

"The governor is totally irresponsible by issuing such a low budget," said appropriations Chairman Jerome Hart, D-Saginaw. "This is the needs of the citizens of the state of Michigan."

Majority Floor Leader Daniel Cooper, D-Oak Park, rejected Milliken's budget proposals by saying he has an "abysmal, an abhorrent" record in fiscal planning. He called the governor "a terrible leader."

Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, said the legislature had the obligation to fund the legitimate needs of the state. He said Milliken is "slicing political baloney" with his budget.

Sen. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, said the governor is "living in grand isolation" from the needs of the people.

But Democrats had little answer for Republicans who challenged them to approve a tax increase to pay for their spending levels. Although many say they would support such a bill, they do not have the votes to pass it — especially in the House, which seeks re-election this year.

"If you've got something better, let's see it," demanded Sen. Donald Bishop, R-Rochester. "The governor has finessed you out of your britches."

No 'Seafarer' Vote

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Upper Peninsula residents won't have the chance to vote on whether they want Project Seafarer located in their area in the May 18 presidential primary election. Two bills to permit a referendum to be held in the U.P. on the controversial underground communications network have been delayed in the state Senate. Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn, said Thursday the secretary of state's office said it is too late to include the question on the May 18 ballot.

However, the boards of commissioners of at least four U.P. counties have put the issue on their May 18 election ballots. Residents in Dickinson, Iron, Ontonagon and Gogebic counties will be able to vote on Seafarer's proposed location.

Racing Bill Advances

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Racing of quarter horses would be legal at parimutuel tracks in Michigan under legislation on its way to Gov. William Milliken. The House Thursday gave final legislative approval to the bill, 95-10 with immediate effect. The measure was sponsored by Rep. Paul Porter, D-Quincy. Currently quarter horse racing is permitted only at county fairs. Racing dates would have to be obtained through the Michigan Racing Commission and would be allocated after the thoroughbred and harness racing calendars are set.

Elderly Protest In Lansing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About 500 nursing home workers and elderly and infirm persons crowded into the state House chambers Thursday to protest an 11 per cent slash in state medicaid expenditures. The gathering, marked by angry speeches, followed by only three days a state Capitol protest by dozens of ambulance drivers over the medicaid cutbacks. The drivers, who sounded their sirens in a shrill show of unison, vowed they would refuse to carry nonemergency patients if the cutbacks were allowed to stand. "It is the elderly who cannot get work because they can't afford to buy glasses that legislators should worry about. That is a human problem," one speaker cried Thursday. The 11 per cent medicaid cut was part of a $123.7 million statewide spending slash enacted to avoid deficit spending, which is unconstitutional.

Two Firms Under Orders

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has ordered Muffler Man Shops of Daytona Beach, Fla., to stop offering its franchises for sale in Michigan and has ordered a Pennsylvania firm to stop offering common stock in the state. Hugh Makens, head of the Corporation and Securities Bureau in the state commerce department, said Thursday Muffler Man failed to supply information on alleged violations of the Michigan Franchise Investment Law. The bureau also ordered Elkins, Morris, Stroud & Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., to stop offering common stock because the firm allegedly violated the state securities law. Makens said the firm was not registered in Michigan as a broker-dealer when it offered and sold common stock to Michigan investors in 1974.

Boothby: I'm 'Looking'

Berrien Springs attorney Lee Boothby has confirmed that he is considering seeking the Republican nomination for U.S. Congressman from the Fourth district.

Reached for comment last night, Boothby said he was "taking a good look" at running for the GOP nomination, but added he has not made a definite decision to seek the post.

'Simple' Music Is Making Florida Record Troupe Rich

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) — "The Miami Sound." The term appears frequently in the music lexicon these days. And while the originators can't define it precisely, their simple, throbbing style dominates the airwaves and disco dance floors.

"We make good dance records, good rhythm and blues, funky records," says Steve Alaimo, a 1960s singer who traded his guitar for a studio control console and the title of executive producer of T.K. Productions. "And they like them in the discos."

But people are not just dancing to T.K.'s Miami Sound, they're buying it.

Last year, the bustling song factory in this Miami suburb posted gross sales of about $10 million, partly on such hits as "That's the Way I Like It" and "Get Down Tonight" by K.C. and the Sunshine Band. It was a sharp rise over 1973 sales of about $5 million.

Those hits also earned gold records for sales of more than one million copies each and helped to make T.K. one of the nation's liottest producers of rhythm and blues. Two of the music industry's three trade Bibles, Billboard and Cashbox magazines, give T.K. still more recognition in current special issues on the studio.

"What makes us different?" Alaimo asked. "Just different people. And whatever these different people are thinking, people out there are thinking, too."

"A lot of music today is slick," he said. "We're just real simple, and maybe people want that now."

The impresario behind T.K. — named for an obscure singer who once worked at the studio — is Bronx-born Henry Stone, a white who boasts of a life-long love for black music. A grayhaired, goateed man, Stone spends most of his time wandering through the sprawling warehouse, overseeing his production, distribution and music-publishing firms.

"It's not a difficult thing," he said of his firm's brand of music. "It's just a feel. We have a pulsating rhythm and it cuts through."

Stone, 52, worked in the music industry in California before moving to Miami in 1946 and setting up a major record distributorship, Tone Distributors, which now handles the T.K. hits.

But even as he distributed records, Stone was trying to make them. It was Stone who first recorded Ray Charles and James Brown, two singers who ultimately had to move elsewhere to become music landmarks, and the Allman Brothers, a rock group that was once the T.K. house band.

Stone's junior partner in the enterprise is Alaimo, who now handles the creative end of T.K.

"I'll sum up the record business in one word," Alaimo said. "Songs. If I have a terrible song, I won't have a hit. If I have a good song, along with a good artist and a good feel, then I'm going to have a hit record, or at least a chance."

The T.K. troupe of writers, producers and house musicians works in a new $200,000 studio replete with a 16-track recorder and editing machine. The studio, only eight months old, replaced a tiny attic facility in which most of T.K.'s hits were made.

If the setting changed as T.K. prospered, the method has not.

"We use a lot of electric piano, a lot of guitar and we don't flood it with a lot of voices or strings or horns," Alaimo said. "We just make a basic track of rhythm — bass, drums, piano and guitar. If the rhythm isn't there, we don't have a record."

Alaimo or another producer then sits at the control board — a console covered with more than 800 buttons, knobs and volume indicators — and "mixes" the song, playing back the vocals and various instruments, adjusting the volume and tone on each.

The ship must then negotiate the charts, the top 100 songs listed each week in Billboard, Cashbox and Record World. Chart success is the measure of having a hit; it also determines how profitable a song is.

"That's our bread and butter," said Smiley. "That's the first thing I do. My main concern is solidifying our rhythm and blues sales and play."

Once a T.K. song climbs high enough on the charts from its airplay on black stations, it often crosses over to white-oriented Top 40 stations. Those stations program only the most successful songs, a T.K. spokeswoman says, because they prefer a safe, marketable collection of rhythm and blues, pop and country.

Stone said he is now expanding into gospel and jazz, two other music forms with a lineage from black America. T.K. has one album but now in each area, and Stone said both are selling well.

Despite his success, Stone eschewed any thought of competition with other studios around the country, such as Motown — long a major force in the rhythm and blues field.

"I don't look at anybody as competition," he said. "The music business is not like selling shoes. Musically, there's no competition; it's all creativity."

And he said he still adheres to what he views as the secret of T.K.'s success: hard work. Stone said he and his coworkers at the T.K. song factory still are working hard to turn out hit songs.

"It's one thing to attain success," Stone said. "It's another to keep on being successful."

Van Buren Posse Queen Applications Available

PAW PAW — Applications are now being taken from young women between the ages of 18 and 25 interested in competing in the 1976 Van Buren sheriff's posse queen contest, according to Carl Davis, posse secretary. The contest will be held Saturday, May 8, at the Van Buren county youth fairgrounds horse arena.

Contestants must be single and be a resident of the county. They are not required to own a horse, but the winner will be expected to ride on horseback in all parades which the posse participates in, Davis said.

A get-together party for all contestants will be held at the American National bank in Lawrence, Saturday, April 24, at 8 p.m. Applications are available at all county high schools and from posse members, according to Davis. The reigning queen, Kris Sill of Lawrence will crown her successor at the fair.

Berrien's Bicentennial 'Ambassadors' Are Named

EAST LANSING — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blaisdell of Stevensville and Mr. and Mrs. Merl Everhart of Benton Harbor, have been named "Salute '76" ambassadors for Berrien county.

A 4-H Bicentennial celebration, Salute '76 will take place June 26 at Michigan State University. The event will feature action exhibits, stage shows, demonstrations, a heritage market, auction sales, chuck wagon barbecue, an entertainment show, and several other types of Bicentennial activities.

As Salute '76 ambassadors, they will coordinate and promote local participation in the event. They attended an orientation session at MSU and are now helping local 4-H clubs prepare heritage market booths, demonstrations and exhibits.

It is expected that more than 50,000 people will attend the festivities which are aimed at involving families and the general public in a wholesome and educational 4-H birthday party for America.

The event is jointly sponsored by the Michigan 4-H Foundation and the MSU Cooperative Extension Service.

'Simple' Music Is Making Florida Record Troupe Rich

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) — "The Miami Sound." The term appears frequently in the music lexicon these days. And while the originators can't define it precisely, their simple, throbbing style dominates the airwaves and disco dance floors.

"We make good dance records, good rhythm and blues, funky records," says Steve Alaimo, a 1960s singer who traded his guitar for a studio control console and the title of executive producer of T.K. Productions. "And they like them in the discos."

But people are not just dancing to T.K.'s Miami Sound, they're buying it.

Last year, the bustling song factory in this Miami suburb posted gross sales of about $10 million, partly on such hits as "That's the Way I Like It" and "Get Down Tonight" by K.C. and the Sunshine Band. It was a sharp rise over 1973 sales of about $5 million.

Those hits also earned gold records for sales of more than one million copies each and helped to make T.K. one of the nation's hottest producers of rhythm and blues. Two of the music industry's three trade Bibles, Billboard and Cashbox magazines, give T.K. still more recognition in current special issues on the studio.

"What makes us different?" Alaimo asked. "Just different people. And whatever these different people are thinking, people out there are thinking, too."

"A lot of music today is slick," he said. "We're just real simple, and maybe people want that now."

The impresario behind T.K. — named for an obscure singer who once worked at the studio — is Bronx-born Henry Stoné, a white who boasts of a life-long love for black music. A grayhaired, goateed man, Stone spends most of his time wandering through the sprawling warehouse, overseeing his production, distribution and music-publishing firms.

"It's not a difficult thing," he said of his firm's brand of music. "It's just a feel. We have a pulsating rhythm, and it cuts through."

Stone, 52, worked in the music industry in California before moving to Miami in 1946 and setting up a major record distributorship, Tone Distributors, which now handles the T.K. hits.

But even as he distributed records, Stone was trying to make them. It was Stone who first recorded Ray Charles and James Brown, two singers who ultimately had to move elsewhere to become music landmarks, and the Allman Brothers, a rock group that was once the T.K. house band.

Stone's junior partner in the enterprise is Alaimo, who now handles the creative end of T.K.

"I'll sum up the record business in one word," Alaimo said. "Songs. If I have a terrible song, I won't have a hit. If I have a good song, along with a good artist and a good feel, then I'm going to have a hit record, or at least a chance."

The T.K. troupe of writers, producers and house musicians works in a new $200,000 studio replete with a 16-track recorder and editing machine. The studio, only eight months old, replaced a tiny attic facility in which most of T.K.'s hits were made.

If the setting changed as T.K. prospered, the method has not.

"We use a lot of electric piano, a lot of guitar and we don't flood it with a lot of voices or strings or horns," Alaimo said. "We just make a basic track of rhythm — bass, drums, piano and guitar. If the rhythm isn't there, we don't have a record."

Alaimo or another producer then sits at the control board — a console covered with more than 800 buttons, knobs and volume indicators — and "mixes" the song, playing back the vocals and various instruments, adjusting the volume and tone on each.

The ship must then negotiate the charts, the top 100 songs listed each week in Billboard, Cashbox and Record World. Chart success is the measure of having a hit; it also determines how profitable a song is.

T.K.'s route up the charts is based on black-oriented, rhythm and blues stations.

"That's our bread and butter," said Smiley. "That's the first thing I do. My main concern is solidifying our rhythm and blues sales and play."

Once a T.K. song climbs high enough on the charts from its airplay on black stations, it often crosses over to white-oriented Top 40 stations. Those stations program only the most successful songs, a T.K. spokeswoman says, because they prefer a safe, marketable collection of rhythm and blues, pop and country.

Stone said he is now expanding into gospel and jazz, two other music forms with a lineage from black America. T.K. has one album out now in each area, and Stone said both are selling well.

Despite his success, Stone eschewed any thought of competition with other studios around the country, such as Motown — long a major force in the rhythm and blues field.

Two Stores In Coloma's Future Mall Ready To Open

COLOMA — The first building of a proposed multi - million - dollar shopping mall just east of here will open its doors to two new businesses this month.

Opening Saturday in the first phase of developer James Hipskind's "Country Square" shopping mall is Barchett's Athletic Goods, Inc.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shuck of Benton Harbor will the open Furniture Show-Case store Tuesday, April 20, featuring a full line of home furnishings. Shuck said it is his first business of his own; but he has been associated with the furniture business for 20 years.

Both stores are located in two of the three units available in Country Square's first commercial building. A restaurant is being planned for the third unit, according to Tim Hipskind, son of the developer.

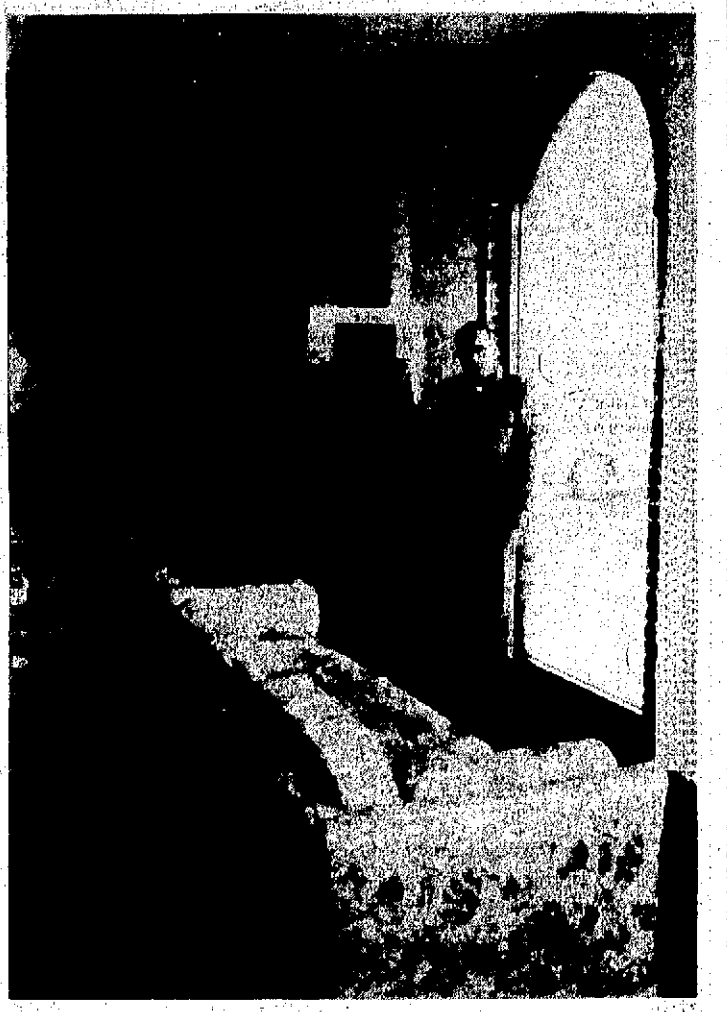

Eventually, more buildings of similar design will be added to the shopping center, according to Hipskind. The second building's foundation, adjacent to the first building has already been laid. Hipskind said eventually there will be space for between 40 and 60 stores. He said more buildings will be erected as they are leased.

The shopping center site is located south of Red Arrow highway, just outside the eastern Coloma city limits. Eventually the center will be an enclosed climatized mall, with a second floor center area to be used for professional offices. The entire mall is to be 810 by 190 feet and have parking for an estimated 1,100 cars.

The first building, containing space for three businesses, was estimated to cost $100,000, according to Hipskind.

SATURDAY OPENING: Barchett's Athletic Goods, Inc., will open its doors for business Saturday in first building of Country Square shopping mall, Coloma. Brothers Jerry, left, and Ron, are co-owners of sporting goods shop which offers a full line of equipment and clothing. Barchetts also own sporting goods store in Village Square, Stevensville.

FURNITURE SHOW-CASE: Roy Shuck of Benton Harbor plans to open Furniture Show-Case store in new building of Country Square shopping mall, Coloma, on Tuesday, April 20. Store will feature complete line of home furnishings. Shuck, who has been associated with furniture business for 20 years, said this is first business of his own.

March 27 Crash Claims Life

PAW PAW — A 15-year-old Paw Paw girl injured in a March 27 auto crash which resulted in the death of one person then, died at 2 p.m. yesterday in Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo.

STEPHANIE MAKOWSKI
Dies from Injuries

A hospital spokesman said the girl, Stephanie Makowski, succumbed to head injuries received in the crash. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Makowski, Red Arrow highway, Paw Paw, and a sophomore at the high school here.

Eight other people were injured in the same smashup. Two remain hospitalized.

State police from Paw Paw said the crash occurred when a car Stephanie was riding in was turned toward the Makowski driveway off Red Arrow highway in front of an oncoming car east of Paw Paw.

The driver of the oncoming car, Loren E. Miller, 22, Mattawan, was killed in the crash.

Mrs. Margaret Millard, 48, East St. Joseph street, Paw Paw, driver of the car Stephanie was in, was bringing a group of Van Buren county Folk Dancers home from a performance in Kalamazoo When the crash occurred. Stephanie was a member of the group.

Mrs. Millard is the wife of Dr. David Millard, a Van Buren county deputy, medical examiner who was called to the scene of the crash.

7 Auto Deaths In Van Buren County In 1976

Mrs. Millard and another passenger, Mark Field, 19, Lawrence, remained hospitalized as a result of the smashup and were reported in good condition today at Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo.

The six other passenges injured in the crash were all released after treatment.

Stephanie's death boosted the county's death toll for the year so far to seven.

The Van Buren prosecutor's office said the accident remains under investigation. No charges have been filed.

Stephanie was born Oct. 8, 1960, in Coudersport, Pa.

She was a member of the Folk dancers; senior Girl Scouts of Paw Paw; secretary of the sophomore class and a member of Paw Paw high school band.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Makowski; two brothers, Stephen and Michael, and two sisters, Michele and Melissa, all at home; and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall of Jacksonville, Fla.

A funeral mass will be celebrated at 11 a.m. Monday in St. Mary's Catholic church, Paw Paw. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. Sunday in St. Mary's Catholic church.

Memorials may be made to Van Buren County Folk Dancers or to the nephrology unit of Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo.

A private family service will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the funeral home.

Friends may call from 2 until 4 and 7 until 9 p.m., Saturday and Sunday at the Zolp funeral home, Paw Paw.

Meeting Scrubbed Again

SOUTH HAVEN — The lack of a quorum caused the second straight postponement of a meeting of the South Haven Board of Public Utilities last night. The March 25 meeting was also cancelled by a lack of a quorum. The meeting has been rescheduled for next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in city hall, according to City Manager Albert Pierce.

$300,000 Price Tag On Officials' Junket

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

An estimated 700 to 800 Michigan school officials and family members headed for San Francisco today for a national educational convention trip that will cost Michigan taxpayers $300,000.

Chartered planes were to leave from Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Detroit, with many other delegates flying commercial planes to the convention, which runs from Saturday through Tuesday.

Varl Wilkinson, deputy executive director of the Michigan School Boards Association, said more than half the 700 to 800 persons will be school board officials, with the rest spouses and children.

"We have told the school districts that board members must pay all costs for their spouses and children," he said. "These bills would not be considered a legal expense for a board of education."

He said the round-trip charter fare to California is $175 a person but added he had no figures on what other costs might be. One school source said a conservative estimate would be $600 a person, while a Detroit school board source said expenses could run $900 to $1,000 a person.

The MSBA is expecting as many as 500 of the delegates to be traveling at taxpayer expense. The Detroit school board is sending about 30 delegates at public expense.

Wilkinson said he was confident school officials would make attendance at the 36th annual Convention and Exposition of the National School Board Association a working trip.

He said discussion topics include such items as collective bargaining, vandalism, public relations and school financing.

"I have found that most members do go to the meetings and workships," he said.

He added, "For the most part they are conscientious and dedicated and they get out of the convention what they go for."

GONE IN JULY

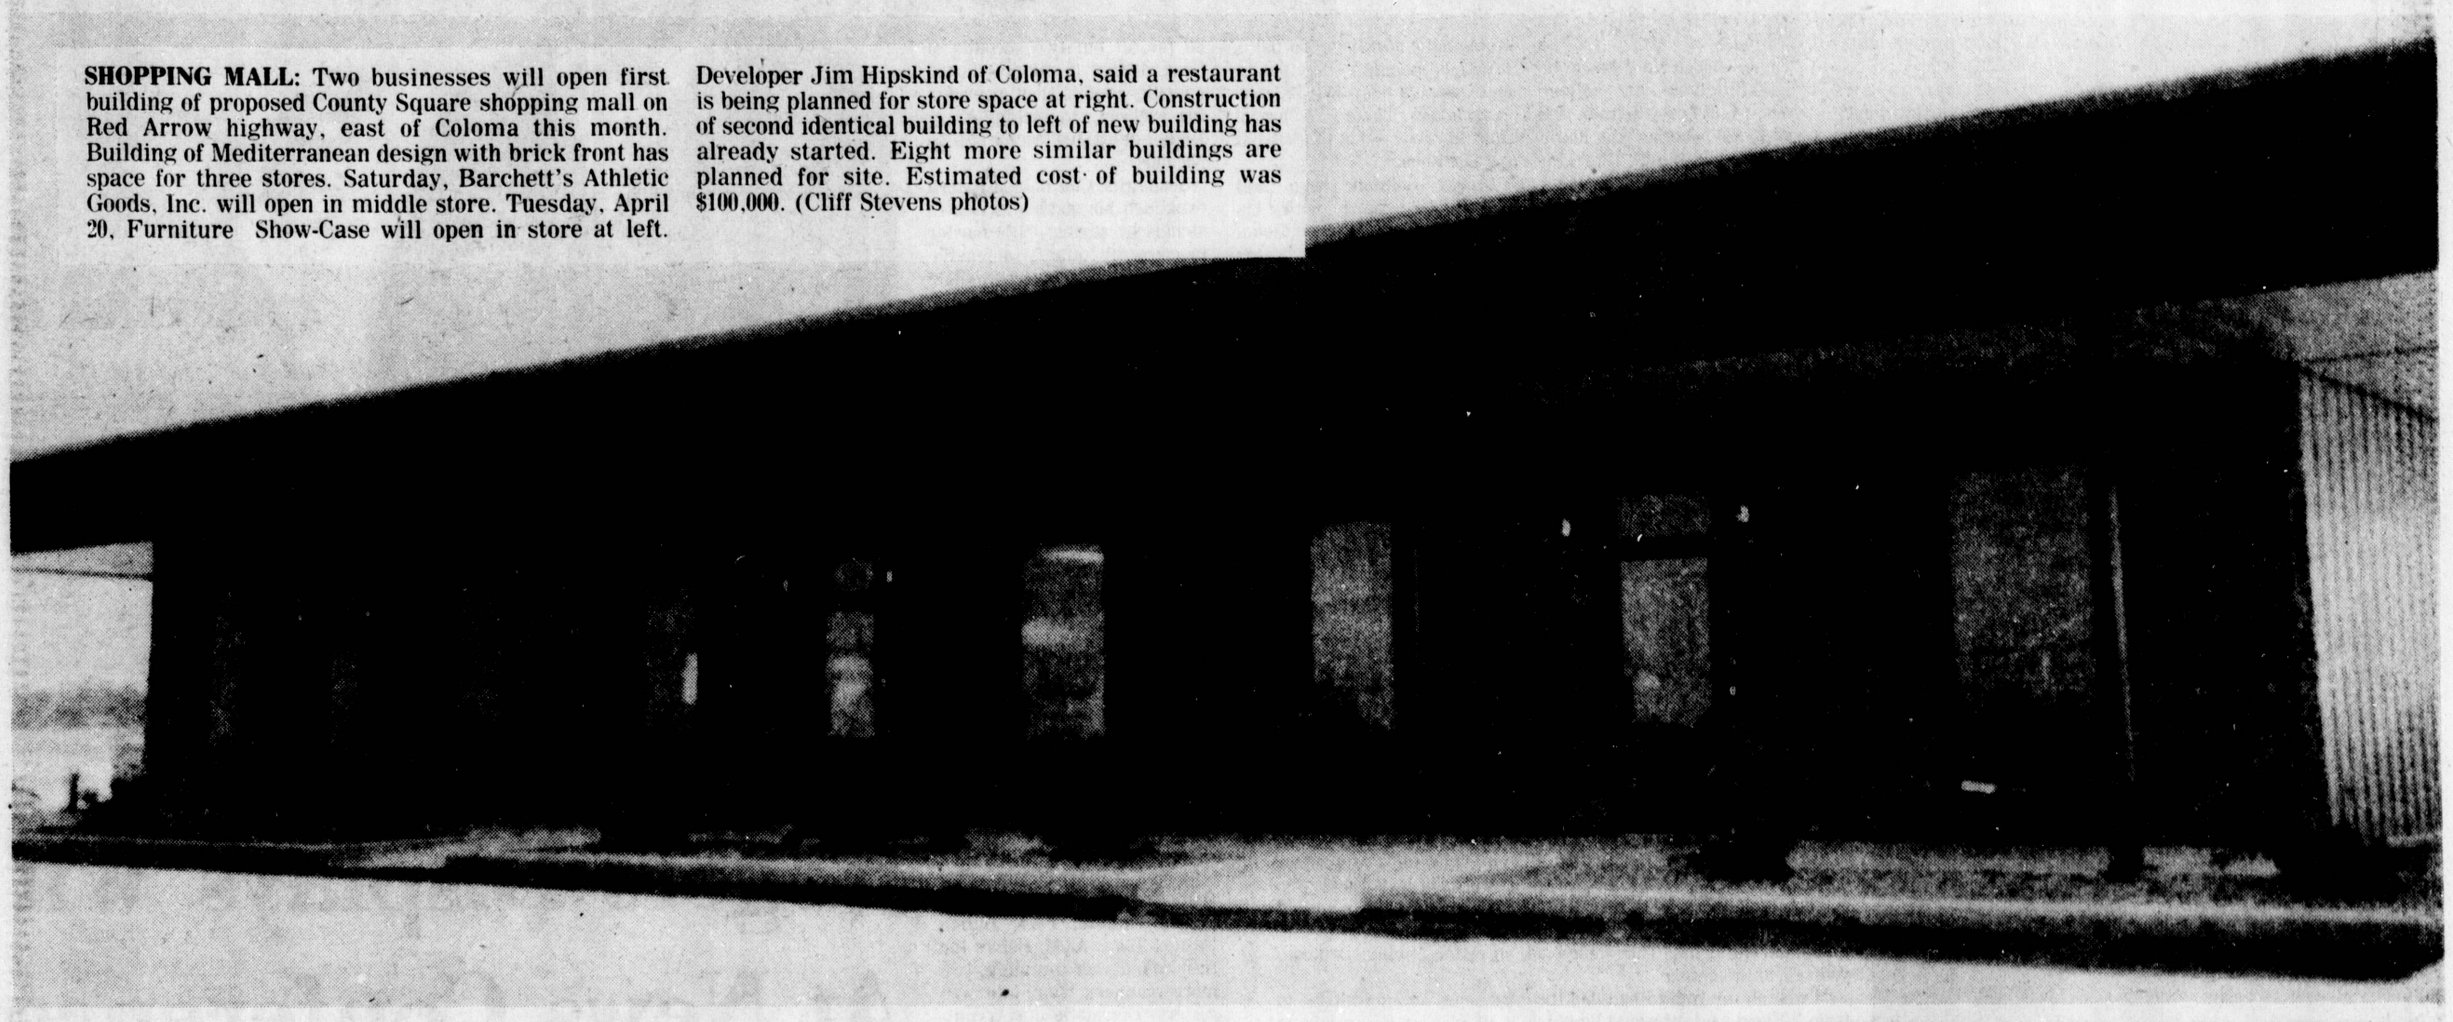

DETROIT (AP) — Assistant Detroit School Supt. Aubrey McCutcheon has resigned, effective July 1. McCutcheon said Wednesday he is leaving the Detroit school system to return to private law practice in the city.

Meeting Scrubbed Again

SOUTH HAVEN — The lack of a quorum caused the second straight postponement of a meeting of the South Haven Board of Public Utilities last night. The March 25 meeting was also cancelled by a lack of a quorum. The meeting has been rescheduled for next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in city hall, according to City Manager Albert Pierce.

$300,000 Price Tag On Officials' Junket

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

An estimated 700 to 800 Michigan school officials and family members headed for San Francisco today for a national educational convention trip that will cost Michigan taxpayers $300,000.

Chartered planes were to leave from Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Detroit, with many other delegates flying commercial planes to the convention, which runs from Saturday through Tuesday.

Varl Wilkinson, deputy executive director of the Michigan School Boards Association, said more than half the 700 to 800 persons will be school board officials, with the rest spouses and children.

"We have told the school districts that board members must pay all costs for their spouses and children,," he said. "These bills would not be considered a legal expense for a board of education."

He said the round-trip charter fare to California is $175 a person but added he had no figures on what other costs might be. One school source said a conservative estimate would be $600 a person, while a Detroit school board source said expenses could run $900 to $1,000 a person.

The MSBA is expecting as many as 500 of the delegates to be traveling at taxpayer expense. The Detroit school board is sending about 30 delegates at public expense.

Wilkinson said he was confident school officials would make attendance at the 36th annual Convention and Exposition of the National School Board Association a working trip.

He said discussion topics include such items as collective bargaining, vandalism, public relations and school financing.

"I have found that most members do go to the meetings and workships," he said.

He added, "For the most part, they are conscientious and dedicated and they get out of the convention what they go for."

Lineman Selmon No. 1 Selection

Runners Head NFL Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — It was, as advertised, the Year of the Running Back — and, as advertised, the guy whose job it is to stop running backs got picked first.

Leroy Selmon, Oklahoma's All-American defensive tackle who gobbles up runners — and anything else in his path — was, to the surprise of absolutely nobody, quickly chosen No. 1 Thursday by the expansion Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the opening round of the National Football League's annual college draft.

This being the top choice has-toriol a bit of "tradition." In four of the past five years, the No. 1 pick has been a defensive lineman, a string broken only by quarterback Steve Bartkowski last year. Before him came Walt Patulski, John Matuszak and Ed "Too Tall" Jones.

After Selmon came the running backs — a stampede of them with California's Chuck Muncie, Oklahoma's Joe Washington and Purdue's Mike Pruitt at the forefront — and the rest of the players who may someday make a team a champion.

The league went through seven of its 17 rounds Thursday — 487 players are eventually to be picked — with the rest of the names, most of them best described as "who's he?", to be called today.

"Being chosen No. 1 has to be the highlight of my college career," said Leroy Selmon, the 6-foot-2, 260-pounder who had a few other highlights, like winning the Outland Trophy, emblematic of college football's premier lineman. "Playing for an expansion team will be good experience. There's a lot of work involved — but that's what life is all about."

THE WORLD OF Sports

Dewey Selmon, who had played noseguard with his brother on the Sooners' national championship team, was reunited with Leroy as Tampa Bay's third pick, the last one in the second round. They're the fifth set of brothers to be picked in one NFL draft and the third to go to the same team.

With Leroy Selmon the first new pro from the class of '76, Seattle, the other expansion team, figured to go for Muncie. Instead, the Seahawks vacillated for all but two seconds of their allotted 15 minutes in the opening round, then raised a few eyebrows by picking Notre Dame defensive tackle Steve Niehaus.

Seahawks' Coach Jack Patera explained his sudden switch in signals by saying: "It's harder to come by quality defensive linemen. He'll anchor our whole defensive line. Muncie will be a premier running back ... but I think we can get better running backs than we can defensive linemen in the later rounds."

Patera's decision left Muncie up for grabs — and New Orleans grabbed him immediately. The rush for running backs was officially on. In all, 11 of the first 40 selections were runners. After Muncie came the No. 4 pick, and San Diego used it to take Joe Washington.

New England used the first of its three first-round picks to take defensive back Mike Haynes of Arizona State and the New York Jets — looking to Joe Namath-less days — selected Alabama quarterback Richard Todd, then Cleveland added Purdue runner Mike Pruitt to its backfield, which already has Greg Pruitt.

Chicago took Wisconsin tackle Dennis Lick, then Atlanta picked running back Bubba Bean of Texas A&M. Before the first round was complete, two more runners ran into the rosters, Detroit taking Wyoming's Lawrence Gaines and Cincinnati, with the 24th of 28 first-round picks, snaring two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State.

The selection of Todd as Namath's ultimate replacement brought a cheer from the Jets' fans, particularly one holding a sign proclaiming: "Don't Blow It. Take Todd In The First!" in the balcony overlooking the grand ballroom at the draft headquarters, a midtown Manhattan hotel.

There was some question whether Griffin, the first 5,000-yard career rusher ever in college ball, would be picked as soon — or as late — as he was. Some teams still shun small runners, others have become believers with the success of Greg Pruitt, Anthony Davis, Mack Herron, Floyd Little, Johnny Rodgers and others.

"It's not the size of a man that's important," Griffin said. "It's the size of a man's heart. I think my heart is as big as any man's ... I'm going to make it by showing desire and determination and giving 110 per cent of myself."

As advertised, it was most emphatically not the year of the quarterback. Except for the Jets' selection of Todd, the passers were pretty much ignored.

Floyd Tops Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Listen, all you young guys who aspire some day to be a great athlete. Heed the words of Ray Floyd, who outshot Jack Nicklaus to take the lead going into today's second round of the Masters.

Shun strong drink. Turn your back on riotous living. Dedicate yourself to the game:

"I wish in my youth I had had the good sense and knowledge to train," Floyd said, "I would like to do it all over again. I would do it differently. You never know, but I think I would have won a hell of a lot more times."

Floyd, a one-time Army brat and renowned playboy, unleashed a brilliant seven-under-par 65 in ideal conditions at the Augusta National Club Thursday for a one-stroke lead in the opening round of the prestigious golf tournament.

He was just a stroke in front of Andy North, one of the least known of the game's "young lions," who used a $2 junk-yard putter in fashioning a 66, two shots ahead of the great Nicklaus, defending champion and five-time winner who was tied with veteran tourist Larry Ziegler at 67.

Ben Crenshaw, who became a legend before he hit his first professional stroke, shot a 70 and blinked when he came into the press interview room. "Looking at the leader board, I felt like I had an 80," he said.

Crenshaw was tied at 70 with Rod Curl and Rik Massengale. Strung out in the rear were Miller and Green, each with 71; Weiskopf and Player, 72.

Arnold Palmer, who once claimed Augusta as his personal domain, shot 74 and Lee Trevino, struggling to crack a Masters hangup, scored a 75. British Open champion Tom Watson had bogeys on five of the first six holes, finished with a 77.

Floyd strode from the 18th green to press headquarters and told how he had changed his once boisterous ways to become a better golfer.

"I really didn't like to play golf in those early days," Floyd, 33, a pro for 15 years, acknowledged. "I was very juvenile. Now I have a wife and two kids and everything is great."

Rogers Displays Wit At News Conference

Not Worried About MSU Scandal

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Darryl Rogers arrived to meet the news media in a nicely coordinated outfit — yellow shirt, blue tie and pants and a blue-and-white checked sportcoat.

Wearing the colors of rival Michigan was about the only misstep Rogers took Thursday as he assumed the football coaching duties at Michigan State University.

After being hustled into a Spartan-green blazer with a white "S" on the pocket, he answered questions with a friendly openness that contrasted sharply with the tight-mouthed, haunted atmosphere of the past year.

"You know those are Michigan's colors," a reporter told Rogers as he entered the room.

"Who?" he joked.

About all anyone learned from Rogers at his first official news conference is that he has a quick wit, doesn't know much yet about MSU football and isn't too interested in the scandal which preceded him.

Nonetheless, the new coach still spent much of the time answering questions about the NCAA investigation which uncovered some 34 violations in the MSU grid program.

"I don't know anything about the problems," he said. "I have no control over them, and I don't worry about anything I don't have control over. We still have to play every Saturday.

"We heard on the West Coast there was an investigation," said the former San Jose State coach. "But I don't know about it. I didn't read the NCAA findings, and I really don't care. I'm not concerned with the past.

"All I know is we're on a three-year probation and beyond that I'm not concerned. We're going to play every game as if we're not on probation. When you win, you win."

Rogers said he did not believe the penalty would hurt either the football program or its recruiting.

He said matter-of-factly that MSU will "follow NCAA guidelines and do it above-board like everybody's supposed to — you just have to be straight.

"An investigation often clears up a lot of your problems," he said.

Rogers revealed he had met with former coach Denny Stolz, who resigned under pressure from MSU President Clifton Wharton. The new coach said the conversation "was very positive" and centered on the staff and players.

Rogers displayed his lack of knowledge about MSU — and his willingness to admit it.

"I couldn't ask to be at a finer place to coach football," he commented. "And I know absolutely nothing about it."

For example, looking at new Athletic Director Joe Kearney, Rogers said, "I didn't know we were opening against Ohio State."

"I forgot to tell you that," deadpanned Kearney.

"It doesn't make me feel very secure," Rogers added.

The first job, Rogers said, was "to find my office." Then he planned to meet with his players and the current MSU assistant coaching staff. But he made no promises to keep the coaches on, and said he might ask some of his San Jose assistants to join him.

After that, within a couple of weeks, he plans to begin spring practice.

Rogers said he hadn't seen MSU game films yet, and described his own offensive game as a "multiple" offense with various formations.

"I'm a novelty," he said. "We have thrown the ball more than the Big Ten is used to, absolutely nothing about it."

For example, looking at new Athletic Director Joe Kearney, Rogers said, "I didn't know we

"We have thrown the ball more than the Big Ten is used to seeing. But we wouldn't throw the ball just to see it go into the air. Anything that works, we'll have."

Lions Switching Jauron To Offense

Detroit Sure Hunter Can Start

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions are so sure Grambling All-American James Hunter can step in and play in their defensive backfield this fall that they have shifted talented Dick Jauron to offense.

"We feel Hunter can play for us right now," a jubilant Coach Rick Forzano said Thursday after announcing the selection of Hunter in the first round of the National Football League's annual college player draft.

"Hunter's a game breaker," Forzano continued. "We're going to use him on punt returns as well as at free safety. We think he'll give us great field position."

Hunter, a 6-foot-3, 191-pound All-American, was one of the premiere defensive backs in the nation last season and helped Grambling to a 10-1 record against mostly major-college competition.

Reached by telephone in Louisiana, Hunter said he was delighted to have been drafted by the Lions.

"They had all the players in the lounge waiting and Detroit telephoned and said it was their time to pick and was I willing," Hunter said. "I was better than willing — pro football is my dream."

Hunter said Grambling Coach Eddie Robinson, who has turned out more pros at his tiny "football factory" than almost any other college coach in the land, would be his agent. "I'll just leave it up to him," Hunter said.

The shifting of Jauron from the defensive backfield to the offensive platoon will give the Lions much-needed help in the pass-catching department. Jauron is an exceptional athlete who holds Yale records for most career yards, 2,947, and most career touchdowns, 27.

"We're just delighted the way this thing has worked out," Forzano said, noting that another former Lions' defender, Terry Barr, made a similar switch several years ago and became a fine receiver.

The Lions other first-round pick was Lawrence Gaines, a 6-1, 240-pound running back from Wyoming who played under Lions' assistant coach Fritz Shurmur all but his senior year.

In the second round the Lions selected Ken Long, a 6-3, 265-pound offensive guard from Purdue, and David Hill, a 6-2, 220-pound tight end from Texas A&I. In the third round Detroit picked up Long Beach State offensive tackle Russ Bolinger and Hawaii defensive tackle John Woodcock.

In addition, two University of Michigan players were chosen in the fourth round of the draft. Tailback Gordon Bell was drafted by the New York Giants and defensive end Dan Jilek was picked up the the Buffalo Bills.

The five-foot-nine, 178-pound Bell said earlier in the day he would be disappointed if he didn't go in the first two rounds. He said he has dreamed of a pro football career since grade school.

In the fifth round, Detroit chose Steadman Scavella, a defensive end from Miami, Fla., and also grabbed Garth Ten Napel, a linebacker from Texas A&M.

Also tagged in the fifth round were Don Dufek, a "wolfman" or defensive back from Michigan, who went to Seattle, and Steve King, an offensive tackle for the Wolverines, who was chosen by the New York Jets.

Greg Schaum was picked up by the Dallas Cowboys, who were impressed with the defensive tackle's work at Michigan State.

Thomas, along with Forzano and owner William Clay Ford, coordinated the Lions' drafting from the club's headquarters. It marked the first time in recent years that club officials haven't moved their entire operation to New York for the draft.

When the draft opened at 10 a.m. Thursday, the Lions were scheduled to pick eighth in the first round but swapped that choice with Chicago in exchange for the Bears' No. 10 first-round pick as well as their third-round selection.

That bit of strategy gave the Lions their choice of six of the nation's finest college players instead of the five they would have had.

"We had a whole lot of telephone calls going at the moment we made that swap with the Bears, I can tell you that," Thomas said. "We had promises from both Chicago and Atlanta that Hunter would still be there when we came up in the 10th slot."

The Bears, going in Detroit's No. 8 position, drafted Dennis Lick, a tackle from Wisconsin and a Chicago native. Atlanta then drafted Texas A&M running back Bubba Bean and the Lions had Hunter.

"We had Hunter on another phone all the time that was going on," Thomas said, "and he reassured us he wanted to play in Detroit."

Bo Is Doing 'Quite Nicely'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — University of Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler is responding "quite nicely" to medication for a heart problem, officials at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor said Thursday.

A spokesman for the U-M sports department declined to explain the exact nature of the ailment, but confirmed that illness and an abdominal complaint were responsible for Schembechler's recent stay at the hospital.

Schembechler, 47, suffered a heart attack on Dec. 31, 1969, on the eve of Michigan's appearance in the Rose Bowl. He was in and out of the hospital last month, but the nature of the illness was not spelled out at the time.

Doctors said Schembechler's abdominal problem is "of an inflammatory nature" and is unrelated to his heart ailment. Officials said he is responding well to treatment for his stomach.

Doctors said they anticipate that Schembechler will soon be able to return to most of his coaching responsibilities at Michigan.

The coach was at work most of the day Thursday but defensive coordinator Gary Moeller, not Schembechler, is running spring practice, officials said.

The drills will be completed with the annual spring game April 17.

Gems End Wings' Turner Cup Hopes

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saginaw, Port Huron, Dayton and Fort Wayne have survived the International Hockey League's opening Turner Cup playoff series and will now battle to see which two teams win the right to compete in the finals.

Dayton, the last team to win its quarterfinal series, entered the select field of four Thursday with a double overtime, 4-3 victory over Kalamazoo. Brian Stapleton was the hero, driving in the winning goal with just more than six minutes to play in the second overtime frame.

Stapleton and the rest of the Gems will battle Fort Wayne in the semifinals, while Saginaw and Port Huron will face off beginning Saturday in their series.

No dates had been set Thursday night for the Dayton-Fort Wayne series.

Thursday's victory gave Dayton a 4-2, best-of-seven series edge over Kalamazoo. The Wings, however, pushed Dayton to the limit in the double overtime, which was mandated by Al Genovy, who scored the tying goal in the third period for Kalamazoo.

Dayton led 2-0 early on with goals from Brian Kinsella and Bill Rile, but Kalamazoo responded with scoring from Brett Callaghen and Davé Bonter. Dayton went ahead once again on Stan Jonathan's goal that stood until Genovy's shot sneaked through the Dayton defense.

'I couldn't ask to be at a finer place to coach football," he commented. "And I know absolutely nothing about it."

For example, looking at new Athletic Director Joe Kearney, Rogers said, "I didn't know we were opening against Ohio State."

"I forgot to tell you that," deadpanned Kearney.

"It doesn't make me feel very secure," Rogers added.

The first job, Rogers said, was "to find my office." Then he planned to meet with his players and the current MSU assistant coaching staff. But he made no promises to keep the coaches on, and said he might ask some of his San Jose assistants to join him.

After that, within a couple of weeks, he plans to begin spring practice.

Rogers said he hadn't seen MSU game films yet, and described his own offensive game as a "multiple" offense with various formations.

"I'm a novelty," he said. "We have thrown the ball more than the Big Ten is used to seeing. But we wouldn't throw the ball just to see it go into the air. Anything that works, we'll have."

Lions Switching Jauron To Offense

Detroit Sure Hunter Can Start

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions are so sure Grambling All-American James Hunter can step in and play in their defensive backfield this fall that they have shifted talented Dick Jauron to offense.

"We feel Hunter can play for us right now," a jubilant Coach Rick Forzano said Thursday after announcing the selection of Hunter in the first round of the National Football League's annual college player draft.

"Hunter's a game breaker," Forzano continued. "We're going to use him on punt returns as well as at free safety. We think he'll give us great field position."

Hunter, a 6-foot-3, 194-pound All-American, was one of the premiere defensive backs in the nation last season and helped Grambling to a 10-1 record against mostly major-college competition.

Reached by telephone in Louisiana, Hunter said he was delighted to have been drafted by the Lions.

"They had all the players in the lounge waiting and Detroit telephoned and said it was their time to pick and was I willing," Hunter said. "I was better than willing — pro football is my dream."

Hunter said Grambling Coach Eddie Robinson, who has turned out more pros at his tiny "football factory" than almost any other college coach in the land, would be his agent. "I'll just leave it up to him," Hunter said.

The shifting of Jauron from the defensive backfield to the offensive platoon will give the Lions much-needed help in the pass-catching department. Jauron is an exceptional athlete who holds Yale records for most career yards, 2,947, and most career touchdowns, 27.

"We're just delighted the way this thing has worked out," Forzano said, noting that another former Lions' defender, Terry Barr, made a similar switch several years ago and became a fine receiver.

The Lions other first-round pick was Lawrence Gaines, a 61, 240-pound running back from Wyoming who played under Lions' assistant coach Fritz Shurmur all but his senior year.

In the second round the Lions selected Ken Long, a 6-3, 265-pound offensive guard from Purdue, and David Hill, a 6-2, 220-pound tight end from Texas A&I. In the third round Detroit picked up Long Beach State offensive tackle Russ Bolinger and Hawaii defensive tackle John Woodcock.

In addition, two University of Michigan players were chosen in the fourth round of the draft. Tailback Gordon Bell was drafted by the New York Giants and defensive end Dan Jilek was picked up the the Buffalo Bills.

The five-foot-nine, 178-pound Bell said earlier in the day he would be disappointed if he didn't go in the first two rounds. He said he has dreamed of a pro football career since grade school.

In the fifth round, Detroit chose Steadman Scavella, a defensive end from Miami, Fla., and also grabbed Garth Ten Napel, a linebacker from Texas A&M.

Also tagged in the fifth round were Don Dufek, a "wolfman" or defensive back from Michigan, who went to Seattle, and Steve King, an offensive tackle for the Wolverines, who was chosen by the New York Jets.

Greg Schaum was picked up by the Dallas Cowboys, who were impressed with the defensive tackle's work at Michigan State.

Thomas, along with Forzano and owner William Clay Ford, coordinated the Lions' drafting from the club's headquarters. It marked the first time in recent years that club officials haven't moved their entire operation to New York for the draft.

When the draft opened at 10 a.m. Thursday, the Lions were scheduled to pick eighth in the first round but swapped that choice with Chicago in exchange for the Bears' No. 10 first-round pick as well as their third-round selection.

That bit of strategy gave the Lions their choice of six of the nation's finest college players instead of the five they would have had.

"We had a whole lot of telephone calls going at the moment we made that swap with the Bears, I can tell you that," Thomas said. "We had promises from both Chicago and Atlanta that Hunter would still be there when we came up in the 10th slot."

The Bears, going in Detroit's No. 8 position, drafted Dennis Lick, a tackle from Wisconsin and a Chicago native. Atlanta then drafted Texas A&M running back Bubba Bean and the Lions had Hunter.

"We had Hunter on another phone all the time that was going on," Thomas said, "and he reassured us he wanted to play in Detroit."

Bo Is Doing 'Quite Nicely'

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — University of Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler is responding "quite nicely" to medication for a heart problem, officials at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor said Thursday.

A spokesman for the U-M sports department declined to explain the exact nature of the ailment, but confirmed that illness and an abdominal complaint were responsible for Schembechler's recent stay at the hospital.

Schembechler, 47, suffered a heart attack on Dec. 31, 1969, on the eve of Michigan's appearance in the Rose Bowl. He was in and out of the hospital last month, but the nature of the illness was not spelled out at the time.

Doctors said Schembechler's abdominal problem is "of an inflammatory nature" and is unrelated to his heart ailment. Officials said he is responding well to treatment for his stomach.

Doctors said they anticipate that Schembechler will soon be able to return to most of his coaching responsibilities at Michigan.

The coach was at work most of the day Thursday but defensive coordinator Gary Moeller, not Schembechler, is running spring practice, officials said.

The drills will be completed with the annual spring game April 17.

Gems End Wings' Turner Cup Hopes

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saginaw, Port Huron, Dayton and Fort Wayne have survived the International Hockey League's opening Turner Cup playoff series and will now battle to see which two teams win the right to compete in the finals.

Dayton, the last team to win its quarterfinal series, entered the select field of four Thursday with a double overtime, 4-3 victory over Kalamazoo. Brian Stapleton was the hero, driving in the winning goal with just more than six minutes to play in the second overtime frame.

Stapleton and the rest of the Gems will battle Fort Wayne in the semifinals, while Saginaw and Port Huron will face off beginning Saturday in their series.

No dates had been set Thursday night for the Dayton-Fort Wayne series.

Thursday's victory gave Dayton a 4-2, best-of-seven series edge over Kalamazoo. The Wings, however, pushed Dayton to the limit in the double overtime, which was mandated by Al Genovy, who scored the tying goal in the third period for Kalamazoo.

Dayton led 2-0 early on with goals from Brian Kinsella and Bill Rile, but Kalamazoo responded with scoring from Brett Callaghen and Dave Bonter. Dayton went ahead once again on Stan Jonathan's goal that stood until Genovy's shot sneaked through the Dayton defense.

Aaron, Reds Display Old Forms In Season Openers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a brand new baseball season but some things never change. Like Hank Aaron, for one instance.

Like the Cincinnati Reds, for another.

Aaron, 42 years old and in the twilight of a magnificent career, got Milwaukee off on the right foot by driving in three runs with a pair of singles Thursday as the Brewers opened the new season with a 5-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

"He may be 42, but whatever 'the Hammer' does doesn't surprise me," said Brewers' first baseman George Scott. "He's still one of the all-time greats. Just look at the record book. His name is all over it."

The Reds, who terrorized enemy pitching last season en route to the world championship, picked up where they left off by hammering out 15 base hits in an 11-5 romp over the Houston Astros.

"Sparky Anderson believes in hitting," said Cincinnati first baseman Tony Perez, "and we got more than enough of it."

Sixteen more clubs got underway today. In the American League, Boston was at Baltimore and Kansas City at Chicago in day games, and Minnesota at Texas and Oakland at California in night action. In the National League, Montreal was at New York and Los Angeles at San Francisco in afternoon action, and Atlanta at San Diego and Chicago at St. Louis under the lights.

Milwaukee jumped on New York ace Catfish Hunter for five runs over the first two innings and right-hander Jim Slaton coasted by the Yankees with a four-hitter. Aaron drove in two runs with a single in the first inning and another run with a single in the second.

Cincinnati built a 4-0 lead after three innings, added two in the fifth on a two-run double by Perez and wrapped it up with five more in the sixth with the help of a two-run single by George Foster.

Minnesota's Bert Blyleven was to face Texas veteran Gaylord Perry, and Oakland's Mike Torrez, picked up in a deal with Baltimore last week, was to go against California's Frank Tanana in night action.

In the National League, Tom Seaver opened defense of his Cy Young Award by squaring off against Montreal's Steve Rogers and Don Sutton of Los Angeles took the mound against John Montefusco of San Francisco. Knuckleballer Phil Niekro got the call for Atlanta against San Diego lefty Randy Jones and Chicago's Ray Burris faced Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis.

OUT AT SECOND: Cincinnati Red Pete Rose loses his helmet as he slides into tag of Houston's Roger Metzger at second base in opening day action Thursday at Cincinnati. Rose was out on the play, but the Reds went on to post an 11-5 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Walt Vanderbush Sparkles

Fans 14 Mustangs In 5-1 Buchanan Victory

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Vanderbush, who helped pitch the Bucks to the Blossomland Conference title last spring, was outstanding Thursday in hurling Buchanan to a 5-1 win over River Valley in the league opener for both teams.

"Walt is a super pitcher," declared River Valley coach Jerry Hinman. "Anytime you have a three and two count on a hitter and can come in with a curve to get the strikeout, you're going to be tough to beat.

"He threw what he wanted when he wanted to throw it. He really had it going. He's as good a pitcher as this area has had in recent years."

The win was first-year Buchanan coach Don Hecklinski's first after an opening loss to South Bend Adams (3-2).

In Thursday's other Blossomland opener, Brandywine blasted Coloma 12-2 in a game shortened to five innings by the 10-run rule. In other league openers, Watervliet got past Bridgman 5-2 in the Red Arrow and Martin nipped Lawrence 4-3 in SAC action.

Vanderbush was tough when he had to be. In the third inning River Valley used three straight bunts to mount its only serious scoring threat. Mark Francis and Howie Jackson reached with infield singles on their bunts and Dale Geminder sacrificed the runners to second and third. But Vanderbush got Roger Shermak to ground out, though it did score Francis to ruin his shutout. He then struck out Dennis Busse to end the third-inning threat.

Jim Burrow pitched and batted the Bobcats to their win over Coloma. The southpaw, now 2-0, struck out eight and walked just three, while limiting the Comets to just five hits.

Burrow also drove in three runs with a home run and a single. Todd Birczak also plated a trio of teammates with a round tripper and a single. Greg Gallas added a double and a single for the winners.

Rick Sabadin belted a double and two singles in Watervliet's win. The Panthers broke the game open against loser Dan Kamradt with three runs in the fifth inning.

Frank Gargano struck out seven and issued just two free passes in picking up the win for Watervliet.

Catcher John VenDeville was Martin's standout. All VenDeville did was slug a two-run single on offense and throw out three runners attempting to steal on defense.

Kings, Islanders Post Wins To Clinch Playoff Series

From Associated Press

It happens every spring in the National Hockey League playoffs — high tension and low scoring.

If ever the word "freeze" pertained to the ice game, it's most appropriate when the teams start to play for the Stanley Cup.

The Buffalo Sabres, Los Angeles Kings, Pittsburgh Penguins and New York Islanders all won their playoff games Thursday night, but they didn't win them easily.

—The Sabres needed a 30-foot goal from Danny Gare at 11:43 of overtime to nip the St. Louis Blues 3-2 and tie their best-of-three series at 1-1.

—The Kings beat the Atlanta Flames 1-0 on Bob Berry's shot with 1:44 left and took a two-game sweep in their first-round series.

—Lowell MacDonald's powerplay goal midway through the second period triggered the Penguins to a 2-0 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs for a 1-1 tie in their series.

—The Islanders broke a 1-1 tie with third-period goals by Garry Howatt and Clark Gillies and went on to beat Vancouver 3-1 and sweep the Canucks in two games.

Before Gare scored his second goal of the game for Buffalo, St. Louis goaltender Ed Staniowski had put on an acrobatic show. Staniowski stopped 54 Buffalo shots, including six that seemed to be sure-fire goals. In all, the Sabres amazingly outshot the Blues by 57-16.

Gare, who scored 50 regular-season goals in his second year in the NHL, beat Staniowski with a shot that banked off the goalpost. Fred Stanfield and Jocelyn Guevremont assisted.

The Kings' Berry, who didn't get a shot on goal in the first two periods, made a move from behind the net earlier in the third period, but Atlanta goalie Dan Bouchard jammed the puck against the side of the net. Bouchard, who withstood several close calls in the final period, turned back two shots before Berry took a rebound and slid it in from the left.

The puck hit Bouchard's stick, then his leg pad, then slid into the net to end the Flames' season and send the Kings onto the next round.

The Maple Leafs had won the series opener 4-1 with the help of hard checking that disrupted the Pittsburgh offense. But the Penguins retaliated with physical play of their own in the rematch.

The dramatic two-goal explosion by New York's Howatt and Gillies midway through the final period broke a 1-1 tie that existed since early in the second stanza.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's a brand new baseball season but some things never change.

Like Hank Aaron, for one instance.

Like the Cincinnati Reds, for another.

Aaron, 42 years old and in the twilight of a magnificent career, got Milwaukee off on the right foot by driving in three runs with a pair of singles Thursday as the Brewers opened the new season with a 5-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

"He may be 42, but whatever 'the Hammer' does doesn't surprise me," said Brewers' first baseman George Scott. "He's still one of the all-time greats. Just look at the record book. His name is all over it."

The Reds, who terrorized enemy pitching last season en route to the world championship, picked up where they left off by hammering out 15 base hits in an 11-5 romp over the Houston Astros.

"Sparky Anderson believes in hitting," said Cincinnati first baseman Tony Perez, "and we got more than enough of it."

Sixteen more clubs got underway today. In the American League, Boston was at Baltimore and Kansas City at Chicago in day games, and Minnesota at Texas and Oakland at California in night action. In the National League, Montreal was at New York and Los Angeles at San Francisco in afternoon action, and Atlanta at San Diego and Chicago at St. Louis under the lights.

Milwaukee jumped on New York ace Catfish Hunter for five runs over the first two innings and right-hander Jim Slaton coasted by the Yankees with a four-hitter. Aaron drove in two runs with a single in the first inning and another run with a single in the second.

Cincinnati built a 4-0 lead after three innings, added two in the fifth on a two-run double by Perez and wrapped it up with five more in the sixth with the help of a two-run single by George Foster.

Minnesota's Bert Blyleven was to face Texas veteran Gaylord Perry; and Oakland's Mike Torrez, picked up in a deal with Baltimore last week, was to go against California's Frank Tanana in night action.

In the National League, Tom Seaver opened defense of his Cy Young Award by squaring off against Montreal's Steve Rogers and Don Sutton of Los Angeles took the mound against John Montefusco of San Francisco. Knuckleballer Phil Niekro got the call for Atlanta against San Diego lefty Randy Jones and Chicago' Ray Burris faced Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis.

OUT AT SECOND: Cincinnati Red Pete Rose loses his helmet as he slides into tag of Houston's Roger Metzger at second base in opening day action Thursday at Cincinnati. Rose was out on the play, but the Reds went on to post an 11-5 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Fans 14 Mustangs In 5-1 Buchanan Victory

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Vanderbush, who helped pitch the Bucks to the Blossomland Conference title last spring, was outstanding Thursday in hurling Buchanan to a 5-1 win over River Valley in the league opener for both teams.

"Walt is a super pitcher," declared River Valley coach Jerry Hinman. "Anytime you have a three and two count on a hitter and can come in with a curve to get the strikeout, you're going to be tough to beat.

"He threw what he wanted when he wanted to throw it. He really had it going. He's as good a pitcher as this area has had in recent years."

The win was first-year Buchanan coach Don Hecklinski's first after an opening loss to South Bend Adams (3-2).

In Thursday's other Blossomland opener, Brandywine blasted Coloma 12-2 in a game shortened to five innings by the 10-run rule. In other league openers, Watervliet got past Bridgman 5-2 in the Red Arrow and Martin nipped Lawrence 4-3 in SAC action.

Vanderbush was tough when he had to be. In the third inning River Valley used three straight bunts to mount its only serious scoring threat. Mark Francis and Howie Jackson reached with infield singles on their bunts and Dale Geminder sacrificed the runners to second and third. But Vanderbush got Roger Shermak to ground out, though it did score Francis to ruin his shutout. He then struck out Dennis Busse to end the third-inning threat.

Jim Burrow pitched and batted the Bobcats to their win over Coloma. The southpaw, now 2-0, struck out eight and walked just three, while limiting the Comets to just five hits.

Burrow also drove in three runs with a home run and a single. Todd Birczak also plated a trio of teammates with a round tripper and a single. Greg Gallas added a double and a single for the winners.

Rick Sabadin belted a double and two singles in Watervliet's win. The Panthers broke the game open against loser Dan Kamradt with three runs in the fifth inning.

Frank Gargano struck out seven and issued just two free passes in picking up the win for Watervliet.

Catcher John VenDeville was Martin's standout. All VenDeville did was slug a two-run single on offense and throw out three runners attempting to steal on defense.

Kings, Islanders Post Wins To Clinch Playoff Series

From Associated Press

It happens every spring in the National Hockey League playoffs — high tension and low scoring.

If ever the word "freeze" pertained to the ice game, it's most appropriate when the teams start to play for the Stanley Cup.

The Buffalo Sabres, Los Angeles Kings, Pittsburgh Penguins and New York Islanders all won their playoff games Thursday night, but they didn't win them easily:

—The Sabres needed a a 30-foot goal from Danny Gare at 11:43 of overtime to nip the St. Louis Blues 3-2 and tie their best-of-three series at 1-1.

—The Kings beat the Atlanta Flames 1-0 on Bob Berry's shot with 1:44 left and took a twogame sweep in their first-round series.

—Lowell MacDonald's powerplay goal midway through the second period triggered the Penguins to a 2-0 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs for a 1-1 tie in their series.

—The Islanders broke a 1-1 tie with third-period goals by Garry Howatt and Clark Gillies and went on to beat Vancouver 3-1 and sweep the Canucks in two games.

Before Gare scored his second goal of the game for Buffalo, St. Louis goaltender Ed Staniowski had put on an acrobatic show. Staniowski stopped 54 Buffalo shots, including six that seemed to be sure-fire goals. In all, the Sabres amazingly outshot the Blues by 57-16.

Gare, who scored 50 regular-season goals in his second year in the NHL, beat Staniowski with a shot that banked off the goalpost. Fred Stanfield and Joceyln Guevremont assisted.

The Kings' Berry, who didn't get a shot on goal in the first two periods, made a move from behind the net earlier in the third period, but Atlanta goalie Dan Bouchard jammed the puck against the side of the net. Bouchard, who withstood several close calls in the final period, turned back two shots before Berry took a rebound and slid it in from the left.

The puck hit Bouchard's stick, then his leg pad, then slid into the net to end the Flames' season and send the Kings onto the next round.

The Maple Leafs had won the series opener 4-1 with the help of hard checking that disrupted the Pittsburgh offense. But the Penguins retaliated with physical play of their own in the rematch.

The dramatic two-goal explosion by New York's Howatt and Gillies midway through the final period broke a 1-1 tie that existed since early in the second stanza.

Dustin Bowls First 700

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Golfer Bruce Dustin "teed off" at the alleys instead of his golf course Tuesday night at Gersonde's.

Dustin, owner and head pro at the Pipestone Creek Golf Course, stroked his first 700 series in 23 years of bowling with a 710 in the Twin City league.

The 710 is the fourth best men's series of the season in southwestern Michigan and the year's eighth 700 series.

The 710, which included games of 256-246-208, came as quite a surprise to Dustin, who's been having a rare "off" year. In fact, Dustin is still looking for his first 600 series of the season.

"This is the worst year average-wise I've had in a long time," says Dustin, who took a 175 average into the last regular night of bowling in the league. "I seldom have been below 180 and used to carry an average in the 190's. But I'm bowling only once a week now."

Dustin, whose lone open frame came when he missed the No. 10 pin on his final frame of his last game, strung his strikes together to crack the coveted 700 plateau. He hit seven strikes in a row in first game, six straight in his middle game and started with four in a row in his last game.

"I just had the strike ball working and and I put the strikes together," voices Dustin, whose previous high series was in the 600's.

Dustin, who used to work part time in the winter at the old Temple Lanes in St. Joseph, helped his Froehlich's Little Super team to the second half championship.

Also this week, the rugged Skip's Other Place squad improved its first-place position by 20 pins with a 3029 series in the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Theo's. Sharon Kline's 606 series, which consisted of games of 221-195-190, paced the whopping effort. Linda Sayles added 584, Sara LaRocco 547, Diane Covert 473 and Dutch Krycka 437.

Helen Pruitt and Mary Ann Whiteside also smashed 600's this week with both producing 616 series, the first 600's of their careers. Helen's 616 included a 257 game, which makes the women's high games listing.

Helen rolled her 616 in the Unpredictables league at Wil-O-Paw Lanes while Mary Ann, who blasted games of 230-195-191, shot her 616 in the Knight Owls league at Blossom Lanes.

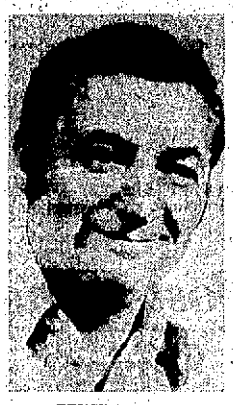

The Huge brothers turned back the Heyn sisters for the second straight year Sunday in their match at Lakeshore Lanes. The Huges bowled a 2685 scratch series to 2520 for the Heyn sisters. Ken keyed the Huge brothers with his 587 series, while Lorraine Wunsa paced the Heyns with 530.

Jan Purdy, a 94-average bowler from Minneapolis, Minn., flung a 277 game to set a WIBC record. Her 183 pins over her average broke the previous mark of 179. Jan sandwiched the 277 between games of 139 and 140 for a 556 total series.

Split conversions include the 6-7-10 by Cindy Mitchell Marilu Bousand, Harold Hendrix, Rene Evan, John Keller, Willie Cooper, Lucille Zellke, Murle Binger, Al Hushein, Jim Spyburski, Chuck Jager, Helene Gast, Jane Duran and Bonnie Stoner; the 6-7 by Jake Youngblood, Nancy Aiken and Chet Pipkins; the 4-7-10 by Eleanor Rudlaff and Rita Rumb; the 4-10 by Glen Poole; the 8-10 by Annie Kasischke; the 4-7-9-10 by George Moon and Larry Lokits and the 4-6-7-10 by Joe Christuffel.

Lou Clem picked up the 5-10 three times in one game while Jim DeLaut converted the 6-7-10 and 6-7 in one league session and Noah Fort the 6-7-10 and 3-6-7 in one league session.

Bushee Keys Blackhawks' Win

FENNVILLE — Rick Bushee turned in a sterling performance in the first game of the season for Fennville's baseball team Thursday afternoon.

Bushee pitched the entire seven innings, striking out 11 and walking five, and also cracked a three-run homer to lead the Blackhawks to a 10-3 win over non-league foe Hamilton here.

The home run came in the second inning when Fennville scored six times to put the contest out of reach. Rick's cousin, Bill Bushee, knocked in two runs in the inning with a double.

GIANTS BIG LOSERS

Detroit Beginning Fight For Fourth?

Coleman Gets Starting Nod Against Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — The battle for fourth place in the American League East may begin Saturday in Cleveland.

Pre-season baseball forecasters generally have regarded Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee as second division clubs behind the more talented Boston, Baltimore and New York.

So if Detroit harbors thoughts of finishing immediately behind the Big Three, the Tigers obviously have to do better than the Indians or the Brewers — beginning Saturday in a season opener here.

Joe Coleman, who's got nowhere to go but up, some figure, because he had a 10-18 record and 5.55 earned run average last year, is scheduled to pitch for the Tigers. Cleveland's starter has been announced as Dennis Eckersley, the AL's top rookie hurler in 1975.

"I don't look at it as a battle for any places," Tiger Manager Ralph Houk said. "I just look at it that we've improved our ball club and let the chips fall where they may.

"We could finish second," he said, "and I'm not saying we can't win the division. But all the pieces will have to come together to make that happen."

Robinson said Cleveland will win at least 90 games and thinks the title can be won by a club winning between 90 and 95.

The Tigers broke training camp Thursday after an intrasquad game in Lakeland, Fla. The team's deadlocked 5-5 before quitting after nine innings, then the squad flew on a charter from Tampa to Cleveland.

Houk said there were "no surprises and no disappointments" in the spring, adding that training camp performances mean little.

"How can you judge pitching or hitting this early?" he asked.

Among the better Tiger Grapefruit League batting averages were: Bill Freehan .393, Alex Johnson .321, Ben Oglivie .314 and Rusty Staub .302. Poorer ones included: Willie Horton .195, Jerry Manuel .190, Mill May .152, Dan Meyer .190, plus Chuck Scrivinor and Mickey Stanley .174.

Johnson led in runs batted in with eight, while Horton and Aurelio Rodriguez drove in seven runs each.

Among the pitchers, rookie Steve Grilli's 0.61 ERA in six games was best. John Hiller's was 1.46, Coleman's 3.32 and Ray Bare's 3.21. Vern Ruhle's was 10.91.

Houk said he would announce his starting lineup today.

"The rumors are now that maybe (Fritz) Peterson will start (for Cleveland), which would change my lineup in some ways," he said.

Tryouts Saturday

The Lakeshore Youth Baseball and Softball association will be having tryouts for the junior league at Roosevelt school in Stevensville Saturday. The 10-year olds are to report at 8:30 a.m. and the 11-12 year olds are to report at 12:30 p.m.

SQUIRES LOSERS

The Virginia Squires won only nine of their first 52 American Basketball Association games this season.

California Fails To Rope 'Greedy' Andy Messersmith

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels were so close to signing free agent pitcher Andy Messersmith that the club's owner all but announced the signing before it didn't take place.

Gene Autry, former roper of calves on the prairie, failed to rope Messersmith when the pitcher and his agent, Herb Osmond, apparently demanded too much money. But though the Angel negotiations with Andy were amicable, the pitcher's dealings with the San Diego Padres' president were not.

San Diego's outspoken hamburger king Ray Kroc bitterly accused Messersmith of being arrogant and greedy, and he said, "He can work in a car wash."

Rumors began to rumble at noon Thursday when Autry told an Angel preseason luncheon: "We have a lot of superstars on this club, and you can look forward to more superstars before the season starts." The season starts tonight against Oakland.

Since Harry Dalton wasn't at the boosters' luncheon, it fell upon club President Red Patterson to say his absence was significant. So at least two newspapers who were covering the luncheon speculated that Messersmith once again would wear the halo of the Angels, the team he broke into the major leagues with in 1968.

Late in the day, Dalton said talks between California and the pitcher had broken down. "A new proposal by Andy Messersmith to become an Angel pitcher was discussed at great length by Andy, his representatives and officials of the ball club," said Dalton. "We have reached no agreement and have discontinued our discussions."

The 30-year-old pitcher, who became a free agent via an arbitrator's ruling after challenging baseball's reserve clause, turned down an offer from San Diego just one day earlier.

Padres' owner Kroc was irate because he came so close to signing Messersmith yet failed. Kroc said Messersmith demanded $1.2 million for four years and turned down an offer of $1.15 million. "It was the most amazing display of arrogance I've ever seen," said Kroc.

The Angels didn't reveal what they offered Messersmith. Kroc said he offered Andy a $200,000-a-year pact plus a $300,000 bonus.

"Finally, I said let's just split the difference and make it $1,100,000," said Kroc. "Then his two-bit promoter said it's $1,200,000 or nothing. That did it. We said it'll be nothing. I wouldn't take that guy now at any price."

Dalton, however, said both sides "made a sincere effort," and that talks were cordial but fruitless.

Messersmith was with the Los Angeles Dodgers last year, compiling a 19-14 record and a 2.29 ERA. He pitched five years for California, 1968 through 1972, achieving a 59-47 record and an earned run average of 2.85.

In eight major league seasons, Andy's record is 112-77 with a 2.65 ERA.

Cavaliers Close In On Division Title

From Associated Press

The Cleveland Cavaliers have come a long way, baby.

Once the laughing stock of the National Basketball Association, the Cavaliers are on the verge of their first divisional championship.

The Cavs, who had one of the worst records in NBA history in their first year of existence in 1970-71 and finished in last place last season, closed in on the Central Division title Thursday night with a 111-87 victory over the New Orleans Jazz.

Now all they have to do to win the division title is split a weekend series with the New York Knicks.

"Up to now the pressure's been on trying to get the homecourt advantage by winning our division," said Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch. "Now, with two games left against New York, the pressure will be the pressure of the ballgame.

"I reminded the guys before we went out there tonight that they were playing the team that put us in first place, and I wanted them to stay in first place. They (New Orleans) can really play a game."

Fitch referred to New Orleans' victory over Washington earlier in the week that allowed the Cavaliers to move into first by a half game over the Bullets.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Kings bombed the Boston Celtics 131-104; the Buffalo Braves whipped the New York Knicks 105-98; the Golden State Warriors slopped the Portland Trail Blazers 121-108 and the Phoenix Suns downed the Los Angeles Lakers 113-98.

If the Cavaliers win the Central championship this weekend, they'll get the homecourt advantage in their best-of-seven playoff series with Washington. The Bullets still have one game to go in their regular season.

Jim Chones scored eight of his team-high 20 points in the opening quarter as Cleveland moved out to a 24-14 lead. The Cavaliers made it 53-35 at the half and it was never really close after that.

Nate Archibald scored half of his game-high 32 points in the first quarter as Kansas City rolled to a commanding lead and smashed Atlantic Division champion Boston.

Jim McMillian scored 27 points and Bob McAdoo 20 as Buffalo whipped New York. Buffalo's biggest lead was 90-73 with 7:28 left in the third period before the Knicks made a belated comeback.

Rick Barry and Jamaal Wilkes each scored 20 points to lead Golden State past Portland. The victory was Golden State's 36th in 41 home games and tied an NBA record for most home games in a season.

Rick Sobers scored 23 points as Phoenix beat Los Angeles and clinched an NBA playoff spot.

Bad Quarter Costly For Pacers

Indiana Bobby Leonard made that assessment Thursday night after the Kentucky Colonels beat the Pacers 120-109 in the opening round of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

It was the only game played Thursday.

The clubs return to action Saturday night in Indianapolis, with a third game scheduled here Monday, if necessary. The winner then tangles with Denver in the semifinals.

"That first quarter cost us the game," Leonard said. "We'll have to try and play them Saturday like we did in the second half."

He pointed out that, at one point, the Pacers went scoreless for nearly three minutes while Kentucky steadily forged ahead, building up a 21-point cushion at the first rest stop. At halftime, the margin was 62-48.

The wrecking crew was led by Artis Gilmore, who collected 25 points, snagged 17 rebounds and blocked five shots.

Billy Knight led two Indiana charges, one in the second quarter and another in the fourth, when the Pacers cut the gap to 114-101 with 2:09 left to play.

Wil Jones finished with 24 points for the Colonels, many of his baskets coming in the first quarter. Behind him were Maurice Lucas with 20 and Louie Dampier with 18.

Colonel Coach Hubie Brown said he had planned nothing special for this first game.

"We didn't change our way of playing. Our style is dictated by our personnel and the way they perform," he explained. "It's nothing clever. All you have to do is find the free guys and let them shoot."

He agreed with Jones that the next meeting "will be tough. You've got to play Indiana twice as hard because they'll be performing before the home crowd."

Women Cagers Dump Chinese

TAIPEI (AP) — The touring U.W national women's basketball team easily won its third straight in a six-game goodwill series Thursday night, whipping the Nan Ya squad of Taiwan 76-48. The Americans led at halftime 40-18.

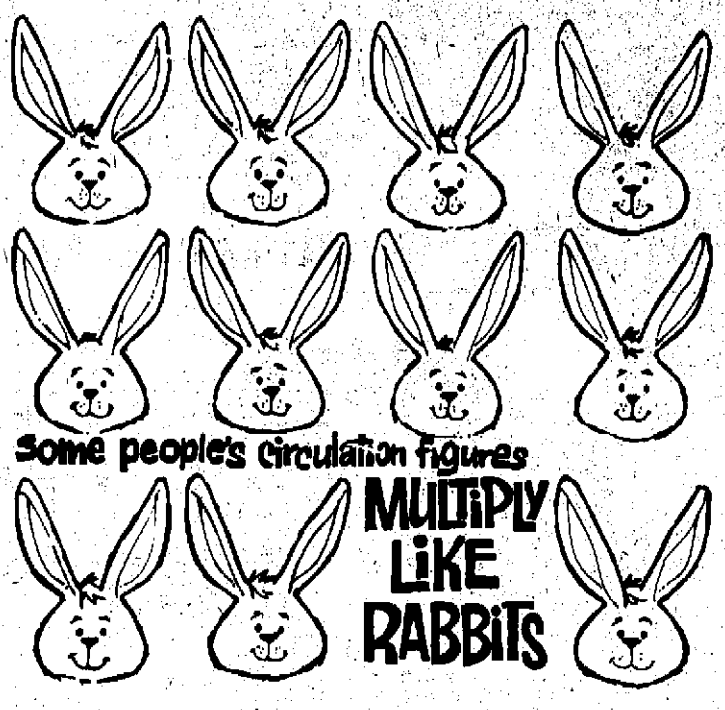

Mary Anne O'Connor of Southern Connecticut State and Nancy Dunkle of Fullerton State, Calif., topped the United States with 14 points each and Lusia Harris of Delta State, Miss., added 13.

Helen Pruitt and Mary Ann Whiteside also smashed 600's this week with both producing 616 series, the first 600's of their careers. Helen's 616 included a 257 game, which makes the women's high games listing.

Helen rolled her 616 in the Unpredictables league at Wil-O-Paw Lanes while Mary Ann, who blasted games of 230-195-191, shot her 616 in the Knight Owls league at Blossom Lanes.

The Hoge brothers turned back the Heyn sisters for the second straight year Sunday in their match at Lakeshore Lanes. The Hoges bowled a 2685 scratch series to 2520 for the Heyn sisters. Ken keyed the Hoge brothers with his 587 series, while Lorraine Waaso paced the Heyns with 530.

Jan Purdy, a 94-average bowler from Minneapolis, Minn., flung a 277 game to set a WIBC record. Her 183 pins over her average broke the previous mark of 179. Jan sandwiched the 277 between games of 139 and 140 for a 556 total series.

Split conversions include the 6-7-10 by Cindy Mitchell Marilu Housand, Harold Hendrix, Rene Evan, John Keller, Willie Cooper, Lucille Zeilke, Marie Binger, Al Hosbein, Jim Styburski, Chuck Jager, Helene Gast, Jane Doran and Bonnie Stoner; the 6-7 by Jake Youngblood, Nancy Aiken and Chet Pipkins; the 4-7-10 by Eleanor Rudlaff and Rita Raab; the 4-10 by Glen Poole; the 8-10 by Annie Kasischke; the 4-7-9-10 by George Moon and Larry Loikits and the 4-6-7-10 by Joe Christoffel.

Lou Clem picked up the 5-10 three times in one game while Jim DeLand coverted the 6-7-10 and 6-7 in one league session and Noah Fort the 6-7-10 and 3-6-7 in one league session.

California Fails To Rope 'Greedy' Andy Messersmith

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels were so close to signing free agent pitcher Andy Messersmith that the club's owner all but announced the signing before it didn't take place.

Gene Autry, former roper of calves on the prairie, failed to rope Messersmith when the pitcher and his agent, Herb Osmond, apparently demanded too much money. But though the Angel negotiations with Andy were amicable, the pitcher's dealings with the San Diego Padres' president were not.

San Diego's outspoken hamburger king Ray Kroc bitterly accused Messersmith of being arrogant and greedy, and he said, "He can work in a car wash."

Rumors began to rumble at noon Thursday when Autry told an Angel preseason luncheon: "We have a lot of superstars on this club, and you can look forward to more superstars before the season starts." The season starts tonight against Oakland.

Since Harry Dalton wasn't at the boosters' luncheon, it fell upon club President Red Patterson to say his absence was significant. So at least two newspapers who were covering the luncheon speculated that Messersmith once again would wear the halo of the Angels, the team he broke into the major leagues with in 1968.

Late in the day, Dalton said talks between California and the pitcher had broken down. "A new proposal by Andy Messersmith to become an Angel pitcher was discussed at great length by Andy, his representatives and officials of the ball club," said Dalton. "We have reached no agreement and have discontinued our discussions."

The 30-year-old pitcher, who became a free agent via an arbitrator's ruling after challenging baseball's reserve clause, turned down an offer from San Diego just one day earlier.

Padres' owner Kroc was irate because he came so close to signing Messersmith yet failed. Kroc said Messersmith demanded $1.2 million for four years and turned down an offer of $1.15 million. "It was the most amazing display of arrogance I've ever seen," said Kroc.

The Angels didn't reveal what they offered Messersmith. Kroc said he offered Andy a $200,000-a-year pact plus a $300,000 bonus.

"Finally, I said let's just split the difference and make it $1,150,000," said Kroc. "Then his two-bit promoter said it's $1,200,000 or nothing. That did it. We said it'll be nothing. I wouldn't take that guy now at any price."

Dalton, however, said both sides "made a sincere effort," and that talks were cordial but fruitless.

Messersmith was with the Los Angeles Dodgers last year, compiling a 19-14 record and a 2.29 ERA. He pitched five years for California, 1968 through 1972, achieving a 59-47 record and an earned run average of 2.85.

In eight major league seasons, Andy's record is 112-77 with a 2.65 ERA.

Cavaliers Close In On Division Title

From Associated Press

The Cleveland Cavaliers have come a long way, baby.

Once the laughing stock of the National Basketball Association, the Cavaliers are on the verge of their first divisional championship.

The Cavs, who had one of the worst records in NBA history in their first year of existence in 1970-71 and finished in last place last season, closed in on the Central Division title Thursday night with a 111-97 victory over the New Orleans Jazz.

Now all they have to do to win the division title is split a weekend series with the New York Knicks.

"Up to now the pressure's been on trying to get the homecourt advantage by winning our division," said Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch. "Now, with two games left against New York, the pressure will be the pressure of the ballgame."

"I reminded the guys before we went out there tonight that they were playing the team that put us in first place, and I wanted them to stay in first place. They (New Orleans) can really play a game."

Fitch referred to New Orleans' victory over Washington earlier in the week that allowed the Cavaliers to move into first by a half game over the Bullets.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Kings bombed the Boston Celtics 131-104; the Buffalo Braves whipped the New York Knicks 105-98; the Golden State Warriors stopped the Portland Trail Blazers 121-106 and the Phoenix Suns downed the Los Angeles Lakers 113-98.

If the Cavaliers win the Central championship this weekend, they'll get the homecourt advantage in their best-of-seven playoff series with Washington. The Bullets still have one game to go in their regular season.

Jim Chones scored eight of his team-high 20 points in the opening quarter as Cleveland moved out to a 24-15 lead. The Cavaliers made it 53-35 at the half and it was never really close after that.

Nate Archibald scored half of his game-high 32 points in the first quarter as Kansas City rolled to a commanding lead and smashed Atlantic Division champion Boston.

Jim McMillian scored 27 points and Bob McAdoo 20 as Buffalo whipped New York. Buffalo's biggest lead was 90-73 with 7:28 left in the third period before the Knicks made a belated comeback.

Rick Barry and Jamaal Wilkes each scored 20 points to lead Golden State past Portland. The victory was Golden State's 36th in 41 home games and tied an NBA record for most home games in a season.

Rick Sobers scored 23 points as Phoenix beat Los Angeles and clinched an NBA playoff spot.

Bad Quarter Costly For Pacers

Indiana Bobby Leonard made that assessment Thursday night after the Kentucky Colonels beat the Pacers 120-109 in the opening round of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

It was the only game played Thursday.

The clubs return to action Saturday night in Indianapolis, with a third game scheduled here Monday, if necessary. The winner then tangles with Denver in the semifinals.

"That first quarter cost us the game," Leonard said. "We'll have to try and play them Saturday like we did in the second half."

He pointed out that, at one point, the Pacers went scoreless for nearly three minutes while Kentucky steadily forged ahead, building up a 21-point cushion at the first rest stop. At halftime, the margin was 62-46.

The wrecking crew was led by Artis Gilmore, who collected 25 points, snagged 17 rebounds and blocked five shots.

Billy Knight led two Indiana charges, one in the second quarter and another in the fourth, when the Pacers cut the gap to 114-101 with 2:00 left to play.

Wil Jones finished with 24 points for the Colonels, many of his baskets coming in the first quarter. Behind him were Maurice Lucas with 20 and Louie Dampier with 18.

Colonel Coach Hubie Brown said he had planned nothing special for this first game.

"We didn't change our way of playing. Our style is dictated by our personnel and the way they perform," he explained. "It's nothing clever. All you have to do is find the free guys and let them shoot."

He agreed with Jones that the next meeting "will be tough. You've got to play Indiana twice as hard because they'll be performing before the home crowd."

Women Cagers Dump Chinese

TAIPEI (AP) — The touring U.W national women's basketball team easily won its third straight in a six-game goodwill series Thursday night, whipping the Nan Ya squad of Taiwan 76-48. The Americans led at halftime 40-16.

Mary Anne O'Connor of Southern Connecticut State and Nancy Dunkle of Fullerton State, Calif., topped the United States with 14 points each and Lusia Harris of Delta State, Miss., added 13.

Bushee Keys Blackhawks' Win

FENNVILLE — Rick Bushee turned in a sterling performance in the first game of the season for Fennville's baseball team Thursday afternoon.

Bushee pitched the entire seven innings, striking out 11 and walking five, and also cracked a three-run homer to lead the Blackhawks to a 10-3 win over non-league foe Hamilton here.

The home run came in the second inning when Fennville scored six times to put the contest out of reach. Rick's cousin, Bill Bushee, knocked in two runs in the inning with a double.

Detroit Beginning Fight For Fourth?

Coleman Gets Starting Nod Against Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — The battle for fourth place in the American League East may begin Saturday in Cleveland.

Pre-season baseball forecasters generally have regarded Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee as second division clubs behind the more talented Boston, Baltimore and New York.

So if Detroit harbors thoughts of finishing immediately behind the Big Three, the Tigers obviously have to do better than the Indians or the Brewers — beginning Saturday in a season opener here.

Joe Coleman, who's got nowhere to go but up, some figure, because he had a 10-18 record and 5.55 earned run average last year, is scheduled to pitch for the Tigers. Cleveland's starter has been announced as Dennis Eckersley, the AL's top rookie hurler in 1975.

"I don't look at it as a battle for any places," Tiger Manager Ralph Houk said. "I just look at it that we've improved our ball club and let the chips fall where they may.

"We could finish second," he said, "and I'm not saying we can't win the division. But all the pieces will have to come together to make that happen."

Robinson said Cleveland will win at least 90 games and thinks the title can be won by a club winning between 90 and 95.

The Tigers broke training camp Thursday after an intrasquad game in Lakeland, Fla. The team's deadlocked 5-5 before quitting after nine innings, then the squad flew on a charter from Tampa to Cleveland.

Houk said there were "no surprises and no disappointments" in the spring, adding that training camp performances mean little.

"How can you judge pitching or hitting this early?" he asked.

Among the better Tiger Grapefruit League batting averages were: Bill Freehan .393, Alex Johnson .321, Ben Oglivie .314 and Rusty Staub .302. Poorer ones included: Willie Horton .195, Jerry Manuel .190, Milt May .152, Dan Meyer .190, plus Chuck Scriviner and Mickey Stanley, .174.

Among the pitchers, rookie Steve Grilli's 0.61 ERA in six games was best. John Hiller's was 1.46, Coleman's 3.32 and Ray Bare's 3.21. Vern Ruhle's was 10.91.

Houk said he would announce his starting lineup today.

"The rumors are now that maybe (Fritz) Peterson will start (for Cleveland), which would change my lineup in some ways," he said.

Ask Bridgman City For Library Funds

BRIDGMAN — Mrs. Josephine Gilmore, chairman of the library board here, said yesterday her request for additional library funding from the city was triggered by a new state tax law.

The law creating the single business tax is expected to reduce the city's taxable property value this year, thus forcing the city's normal contribution to the library to drop.

The loss is expected to amount to about $1,000, Mrs. Gilmore said.

She said she asked the city commission at its meeting Monday night to consider restoring the loss from funds expected to be received from the state to offset losses caused by the new single business tax.

Mrs. Gilmore said the request was referred to the city attorney for review.

According to Mrs. Gilmore, the library board estimates it will receive $14,922 this year from the city, based on the reduced taxable property value figure. The library's overall budget for the year has been estimated at $28,160.

The library is supported by both the city and Lake township through penal fines and direct contributions.

ISRAEL AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's strong supporters in Congress are pessimistic about their ability to increase military aid to the Jewish state because of President Ford's threat to veto any increase in the foreign aid bill.

Slay Goliath? David Did More

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of us think of the well-known Biblical figure named David as only a harp-playing shepherd boy who became sort of a warlike John Denver after fetching Goliath a shot in the head.

There's more to him than that, and it's being dramatized tonight and Sunday night on ABC-TV in a two-part, four-hour movie called "The Story of David."

We only had time to see tonight's episode, which covers David's life as a young man up to the moment he becomes the second king of Israel, but it was so good we'll probably tune in again Sunday.

In due course, he gets his first peep at the biggest Philistine of them all, Goliath, who each day rolls out in a chariot to strut around, shout insults at the Israelis in the hills and challenge any one of them to a fight to the death.

David, having become the first harpist of the court of the moody King Saul, hears that no one will fight Goliath and persuades the king to let him have a go at the guy with his sling.

Result: Instant fame. The giant will have no more headaches, ever, King Saul's tribe is roused to take on the rest of the Philistines and David becomes a warrior hero, idolized by the masses.

Kingly jealousy turns to paranoia, despite David's subsequent marriage to the boss's daughter and his close friendship with Saul's son. And David is forced to flee for his life.

I'm not usually too keen on Biblical epics, but this program, written by Ernest Kinoy, seems ideal for the small screen.

The dialogue is natural-sounding, the actors aren't pompous and the emphasis is on individuals, not the usual cast-of-thousands humbug we're used to in theatrical movies about the Bible.

The season of baseball — that's the game where they play catch with contracts — is upon us, believe it or not. NBC has the network season-opener, a Saturday game between Cincinnati and Houston.

On Monday night, ABC will inaugurate its first season of Monday baseball telecasts with a joust between the New York Yankees and Baltimore, starring sportscasters Bob Prince, Werner Wolf and Bob Uecker.

Second phase of project will be kitchen-auditorium, and greenhouse. School currently has grades 1-8 housed in church, with total enrollment of 45 students. Funds for project were raised by 186-member church congregation. Ball diamonds and recreational facility is also planned. Church is located out of picture to right. (Nancy Hathcoat photo)

Ask Bridgman City For Library Funds

BRIDGMAN — Mrs. Josephine Gilmore, chairman of the library board here, said yesterday her request for additional library funding from the city was triggered by a new state tax law.

The law creating the single business tax is expected to reduce the city's taxable property value this year, thus forcing the city's normal contribution to the library to drop.

The city's contribution is based on a one mill rate on the taxable property value.

The loss is expected to amount to about $1,000, Mrs. Gilmore said.

She said she asked the city commission at its meeting Monday night to consider restoring the loss from funds expected to be received from the state to offset losses caused by the new single business tax.

Mrs. Gilmore said the request was referred to the city attorney for review.

According to Mrs. Gilmore, the library board estimates it will receive $14,922 this year from the city, based on the reduced taxable property value figure. The library's overall budget for the year has been estimated at $28,160.

The library is supported by both the city and Lake township through penal fines and direct contributions.

ISRAEL AID

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's strong supporters in Congress are pessimistic about their ability to increase military aid to the Jewish state because of President Ford's threat to veto any increase in the foreign aid bill.

Slay Goliath? David Did More

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of us think of the well-known Biblical figure named David as only a harp-playing shepherd boy who became sort of a warlike John Denver after fetching Goliath a shot in the head.

There's more to him than that, and it's being dramatized tonight and Sunday night on ABC-TV in a two-part, four-hour movie called "The Story of David."

We only had time to see tonight's episode, which covers David's life as a young man up to the moment he becomes the second king of Israel, but it was so good we'll probably tune in again Sunday.

Timothy Bottoms is excellent as young David, likewise veteran actor Anthony Quayle, who turns in a fine, understated performance as King Saul, David's mentor at first and later his tormentor.

Tonight's show, filmed in Israel, starts off quietly enough with young David going about his shepherding chores, dispatching a lion threatening his flock and mildly chiding his brothers for refusing to do battle with the hated Philistines.

In due course, he gets his first peep at the biggest Philistine of them all, Goliath, who each day rolls out in a chariot to strut around, shout insults at the Israelis in the hills and challenge any one of them to a fight to the death.

David, having become the first harpist of the court of the moody King Saul, hears that no one will fight Goliath and persuades the king to let him have a go at the guy with his sling.

Result: Instant fame. The giant will have no more headaches, ever, King Saul's tribe is roused to take on the rest of the Philistines and David becomes a warrior hero, idolized by the masses.

Which sort of ticks off King Saul, who morosely observes, "All he lacks is the kingdom."

Kingly jealousy turns to paranoia, despite David's subsequent marriage to the boss's daughter and his close friendship with Saul's son. And David is forced to flee for his life.

The show ends when both Saul and son are killed in battle and David becomes the leader of the tribe of Judah.

I'm not usually too keen on Biblical epics, but this program, written by Ernest Kinoy, seems ideal for the small screen.

The dialogue is natural-sounding, the actors aren't pompous and the emphasis is on individuals, not the usual cast-of-thousands humbug we're used to in theatrical movies about the Bible.

The season of baseball — that's the game where they play catch with contracts — is upon us, believe it or not. NBC has the network season-opener, a Saturday game between Cincinnati and Houston.

On Monday night, ABC will inaugurate its first season of Monday baseball telecasts with a joust between the New York Yankees and Baltimore, starring sportscasters Bob Prince, Werner Wolf and Bob Uecker.

Assault, Bad Check Suspects In Court

Demanding examination was Rodney Harold Sanders, 25, charged with assaulting Herman Kent with a .25 caliber automatic April 7 in Benton township. He was jailed in lieu of $500 bond.

Also demanding examination was Philip Hancock Blanchard, 44, of Grand Rapids, charged with writing an insufficient funds check for over $50 Feb. 27 in Benton township. The check allegedly was for $350 to Zerbel GMC, 1862 M-139. He was freed on $500 bond.

CADET CHARGED: Lavell McNutt, 18-year-old West Point cadet from Columbia, Md., was arraigned in New City, New York, Thursday, charged with the March 29 rape of a housewife in Bardonia, N.Y., near West Point. The judge declared all future proceedings would be held in private. (AP Wirephoto)

Sentenced were:

Van Johnson, 20, 174 Apple street, Benton Harbor, 30 days in jail for reckless driving Feb. 29 in Benton Harbor.

William Radford Moss, 36, 504 Territorial, Benton Harbor, 3 days, $100 and restitution of $134.73 for writing an insufficient funds check under $50 March 26 at the Sears store in Benton Harbor. He also was sentenced to fine and costs of $80 for use of marijuana the same day.

Use of marijuana — Merlin Charles Herr, 20, 618 South Main street, Berrien Springs, $50; Robert Steven Zemke, 18, Route 1, Ott road, Bridgman, $50 or 10 days; Raymond Freyer, 18, Route 1, Box 84, Sand Ridge, Union Pier, $50 or 10 days.

Impaired driving — Marion E. Grzesiek, 52, Route 2, Box 4567, Stevensville, $200; William Henry Carlyle, 31, 721 Hinchman road, Baroda, $200; Thomas Arthur Bechtell, 35, 15629 Victory road, Union Pier, who paid fine of $155. He was sentenced April 1.

Verdean Williams (also known as Johnson), 41, 518 Whitcomb court, Benton Harbor, charged with uttering and publishing a false state treasury check June 10, 1975, in Benton township. The prosecutor's office said restitution has been made.

Cliff Word Jr., 42, Michigan City, charged with assault and battery against Dorothy Lee Word Feb. 15 in Eau Claire. The complainant did not wish to pursue prosecution, according to the prosecutor's office.

Gloria Catherina Griggs, 24, 1636 Paw Paw avenue, Benton Harbor, charged with petty larceny Nov. 26, 1975, in Benton township. She has been accepted for deferred prosecution.

Barbara Ann Poole, 17, 797 Colfax, charged with disorderly person (creating a disturbance) and obstructing a police officer March 28 in Benton Harbor; and Joe Leslie Henderson, 22, 1092 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, charged with breaking and entering a vehicle with intent to steal over $5. Charges against the two were dismissed at the request of the Benton Harbor city attorney.

New Buffalo Ambulance Fund Aided

NEW BUFFALO — A $500 appropriation for the City of New Buffalo's police department ambulance service was approved by the New Buffalo township board last night.

The money is to come from the township's federal revenue sharing funds, township officials said.

The police department ambulance answers calls in the township as well as in the city.

In other action, the board agreed to review its insurance coverage to determine the extent of the coverage.

The review became necessary after the township learned that present insurance does not cover firemen injured while fighting fires.

The board also discussed, but took no action on, the necessity of hiring a master electrician to make inspections of electrical hookups in the township.

Indiana & Michigan Electric company, which had previously provided the service, has notified the township and other municipalities that it will no longer provide an inspector for hookups.

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, April 9, the 100th day of 1976. There are 266 days left in the year.

On this date in 1865, the Civil War ended as Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox Court House in Virginia.

On this date:

In 1682, the French explorer, La Salle, reached the Gulf of Mexico after traveling down the Mississippi River.

In 1833, the first public library in the nation to be supported by municipal taxes was founded in Peterborough, N.H.

In 1939, 75,000 people crowded around the Lincoln Memorial in Washington to hear the black singer, Marian Anderson, after she had been barred from Constitution Hall.

In 1940, in World War II, Germany invaded Norway and Denmark.

In 1942, after more than three months of resistance, American and Filipino forces on Bataan in the Philippines were overwhelmed by the Japanese.

In 1963, Sir Winston Churchill was proclaimed an honorary citizen of the United States.

Ten years ago: Britain pressed the U.N. Security Council for authority to use force against tankers transporting oil to the rebellious African country of Rhodesia.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, American Commodore, Esek Hopkins put into port at New London, Conn., and reported on his raid on New Providence in the Bahamas in March and his battle with the HMS Glasgow on April 6.

Booze Big Military Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy drinking by military officers and enlisted men is a far more serious problem in the armed forces than drug abuse, costing millions of dollars in lost time or inefficiency and contributing to some deaths, say federal investigators.

The General Accounting Office says 20 per cent of all Army officers and 32 per cent of enlisted men are either heavy drinkers or "binge" drinkers who habitually get drunk for more than one day at a time. The Army lost 2,200 staff years in duty time to drinking in 1973 at a cost of $17 million in pay and allowances alone, the agency said.

In its lengthy report released Thursday, the GAO recommended that the armed services deglamorize drinking in their on-base clubs. Twenty-four of the Army's 289 personnel deaths in Europe in 1973 were related to the use of drugs, the GAO report said. But 72 of the deaths — or 25 per cent — were related to alcohol.

Bicentennial Lottery Plan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Lansing lawmaker wants to start a Bicentennial lottery to raise $10 million to build a new state library and museum. Rep. Thomas HOLCOMB INTRODUCED A BILL Thursday to start the lottery and set aside its proceeds for the new buildings, which would have to be within six blocks of the Capitol.

Monetary Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the International Monetary Fund are studying proposals that would alter the world's monetary system and eliminate gold as the official international money. They provide for flexible new rules to regulate currency exchange rates, in addition to eliminating gold from its traditional role as an official international money.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Rain is forecast along the Pacific Northwest coast today with showers in the Plains and the Texas Gulf coastal area. Colder temperatures are expected in the northwest with warmer temperatures moving into the Middle West. (AP Wirephoto)

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, April 9, the 100th day of 1976. There are 266 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1865, the Civil War ended as Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox Court House in Virginia.

On this date:—

In 1682, the French explorer, La Salle, reached the Gulf of Mexico after traveling down the Mississippi River.

In 1833, the first public library in the nation to be supported by municipal taxes was founded in Peterborough, N.H.

In 1939, 75,000 people crowded around the Lincoln Memorial in Washington to hear the black singer, Marian Anderson, after she had been barred from Constitution Hall.

In 1940, in World War II, Germany invaded Norway and Denmark.

In 1942, after more than three months of resistance, American and Filipino forces on Bataan in the Philippines were overwhelmed by the Japanese.

In 1963, Sir Winston Churchill was proclaimed an honorary citizen of the United States.

Ten years ago: Britain pressed the U.N. Security Council for authority to use force against tankers transporting oil to the rebellious African country of Rhodesia.

Thought for today: A gentleman is a man who can disagree without being disagreeable — anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, American Commodore Esek Hopkins put into port at New London, Conn., and reported on his raid on New Providence in the Bahamas in March and his battle with the HMS Glasgow on April 6.

Booze Big Military Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy drinking by military officers and enlisted men is a far more serious problem in the armed forces than drug abuse, costing millions of dollars in lost time or efficiency and contributing to some deaths, say federal investigators.

The General Accounting Office says 20 per cent of all Army officers and 32 per cent of enlisted men are either heavy drinkers or "binge" drinkers who habitually get drunk for more than one day at a time. The Army lost 2,200 staff years in duty time to drinking in 1973 at a cost of $17 million in pay and allowances alone, the agency said.

In its lengthy report released Thursday, the GAO recommended that the armed services deglamorize drinking in their on-base clubs. Twenty-four of the Army's 289 personnel deaths in Europe in 1973 were related to the use of drugs, the GAO report said. But 72 of the deaths — or 25 per cent — were related to alcohol.

Students Will Get Storm Directions

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Some 18,000 letters to parents of Van Buren county school children will be sent out next week on procedures to be followed in the event of severe weather, according to Sheriff Richard Stump, county director of emergency preparedness.

In addition to general safety rules, the letters will contain specific policies to be followed by individual school districts in the event of storms or tornadoes, Stump said. The sheriff urged parents to discuss the procedures with their children and to post them in an accessible area.

Once the communications center at the sheriff's department is notified by the Weather bureau of severe conditions, the county's weather alert system is activated, with either calls or radio messages going to all area police, firemen, schools, hospitals, and the road commission, Stump said.

During a tornado watch (when tornadoes are expected to develop), area firemen are mobilized to establish weather watches, Stump explained. If it is apparent a squall line or tornado is approaching, Stump said, a red alert is signaled and each local department deploys its men and equipment to strategic locations. "The fire departments are a tremendous asset for us because they enable us to track the progress of a storm," the sheriff said.

If a tornado funnel is sighted, Stump said, a tornado warning is issued, and fire departments will sound a three-minute blast on sirens to warn their communities. After the storm has passed or a threat no longer exists, a one-minute blast on the sirens will signal "all clear".

Homes — The basement is usually the best place. Seek shelter under a sturdy work bench or heavy table. If there is no basement, take cover under heavy furniture in the center of the house. Keep windows open, but stay away from them.

House Panel Again Vetoes State Land-Use Legislation

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state land-use bill lost a second test in the House Appropriations Committee despite a mini-revolt against the chairman of the panel.

For the second time Thursday, the committee voted against sending the measure to the full House. But the panel agreed to reconsider the bill after some members charged committee chairman Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, with arbitrarily cutting off debate.

"You have just taken the power into your own hands to destroy a piece of legislation I can't even discuss," Rep. Peter Kok, R-Grand Rapids, told Jacobetti, who opposes the bill.

The bill would create a commission to develop a state land use plan for lands considered vital to Michigan agriculture and recreation. Environmentalists say it is needed to protect Michigan's natural resources. Opponents say it will hurt industrial development.

Last month the committee, again without discussion, voted against reporting the bill out. But at that time Jacobetti said it was merely a test vote and promised it would be taken up again April 8.

Jacobetti called for Thursday's vote after Rep. Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, a bill supporter, said everyone knew the pros and cons and should just vote and "either get it out of here or defeat it," so that the committee can get to work on the governor's budget bills.

Jacobetti then swung his gavel down as some legislators who wanted to discuss the bill raised their hands in objection.

"I had my hand up the minute Owen stood up. He (Jacobetti) absolutely ignored me," Kok said.

Rep. Philip Mastin, D-Hazel Park, sponsor, said, "I sat there with my pants down. I didn't know how to react."

Rep. Melvin Larsen, R-Oxford, said he could not remember the committee voting on any other bill without debating it first.

Jacobetti said later he did not see Kok's raised hand when he ordered the vote on the bill and didn't feel he was unfair.

"You can't change anybody's mind on the bill," he said, adding that when the bill comes up again he will allow debate on it.

The decision to delay further consideration came after the Democratic members caucused in Jacobetti's office. Reporters outside heard screaming, shouting and arguing until a committee clerk ordered them away.

Gov. William Milliken said he was "extremely disappointed" at the committee's refusal to report the bill out. "This bill is vital to Michigan's future — to its economy as well as its environment," he said.

JOHN P. ROCHE
A Word About Politics

There have been some strange developments in the Democratic party, lately: First, the same friendly folks who gave us George McGovern seem to be flocking to Jimmy Carter; second, the Machiavellian wing of the Kennedyites seems to have decided to take the Georgia boy in hand. The common bond between these two diverse groups appears to be a conviction that Carter is a handsome hunk of clay just waiting to be properly shaped. At that point they part: The McGovernites hoping to bring Jimmy around to proper principles; the Kennedy government-in-exile hoping that Jimmy will bring them around to proper offices.

You may think this latter judgment a bit harsh, but I recall a meeting of Americans for Democratic Action's National Board in Feb., 1968, at which both Arthur Schlesinger Jr., and Richard Goodwin made moving, and successful, appeals that the ADA endorse Gene McCarthy. Myself excepted — I resigned that day — there was hardly a dry eye in the house. When Robert Kennedy declared his candidacy, however, Schlesinger, Goodwin and others in their clan dropped Gene like a hot potato.

Now poor Moe Udall, who has a first-class liberal record and is temperamentally no McGovernite, is getting the same treatment; Udall is not my candidate, but I think he deserves better treatment than to be dumped in favor of a man who — to the extent that he has come up with any clear opinions — is (Wallace excepted) patently the most conservative Democrat in the race. The fundmental rationale of the argument seems to be that, properly coached, by November Jimmy Carter will be able to out-Ford Ford.

However, this strategy of programming Jimmy could in the long run turn out to be counterproductive. As I have followed Carter's progress, I have become more and more convinced that, aside from the "new face" syndrome, his great appeal is his imprecision. Watching him on a League of Women Voters forum with Frank Church, Henry Jackson and Moe Udall was something of a revelation. Udall, Church and Jackson had obviously done their homework and were prepared to focus hard on the topic — the Problems of the Cities. They all made solid presentations, were loaded with facts and figures. The argument got a bit rough when Scop Jackson demolished the cliche that all we have to do to fix up the cities is cut the defense budget, but it was a fight on the issues.

Carter, in contrast, smiled that unquestionably winning, shy smile, then moved in hesitantly, almost in a whisper. He half-agreed with everybody, noted his experience in state government, both up-played and down-played the Federal role, agreed that the states should have more responsibility in some areas and less in other, opposed "red-lining" but said investors should not be forced to put money into risky real estate without guarantees, and came out for a more equitable system of taxation. He is the Elvis Presley of American politics!

Which, to revert to the main line of discussion, could well be the source of his appeal: The electorate may simply have given up issues, at least for Lent. A tip-off on the popularity of tip-toeing softly through the political minefield is Carter's astounding popularity among young voters — estimated by polls as 3-1 over any other candidate — who traditionally are the least issue-oriented segment of the electorate. In short, any effort to treat Carter as an empty jug waiting to be filled with vintage liberalism could be self-defeating — his secret weapon is peanut butter, creamy, bland and delicious.

South Haven Township Projects

SOUTH HAVEN — Five permits for projects costing an estimated $19,750 were issued in South Haven township during March, according to James Schnake, building inspector.

Permits were issued to Robert Neel, Syndicate Park, locate trailer, $7,000; Robert Torstenson, Monroe boulevard at Aylworth street, garage, $1,500; General Telephone company, remodel warehouse on Blue Star highway, $5,250; Norman Kraiger, Syndicate Park, pole barn, $2,000; and John Moody, Lambert subdivision, addition to house, $4,000.

JOHN P. ROCHE
A Word Edgewise

There have been some strange developments in the Democratic party lately: First, the same friendly folks who gave us George McGovern seem to be flocking to Jimmy Carter; second, the Machiavellian wing of the Kennedyites seems to have decided to take the Georgia boy in hand. The common bond between these two diverse groups appears to be a conviction that Carter is a handsome hunk of clay just waiting to be properly shaped. At that point they part: The McGovernites hoping to bring Jimmy around to proper principles; the Kennedy government-in-exile hoping that Jimmy will bring them around to proper offices.

You may think this latter judgment a bit harsh, but I recall a meeting of Americans for Democratic Action's National Board in Feb., 1968, at which both Arthur Schlesinger Jr., and Richard Goodwin made moving, and successful, appeals that the ADA endorse Gene McCarthy. Myself excepted — I resigned that day — there was hardly a dry eye in the house. When Robert Kennedy declared his candidacy, however, Schlesinger, Goodwin and others in their clan dropped Gene like a hot potato.

Now poor Moe Udall, who has a first-class liberal record and is tempermentally no McGovernite, is getting the same treatment. Udall is not my candidate, but I think he deserves better treatment than to be dumped in favor of a man who — to the extent that he has come up with any clear opinions — is (Wallace excepted) patently the most conservative Democrat in the race. The fundmental rationale of the argument seems to be that, properly coached, by November Jimmy Carter will be able to out-Ford Ford.

However, this strategy of programming Jimmy could in the long run turn out to be counterproducitve. As I have followed Carter's progress, I have become more and more convinced that, aside from the "new face" syndrome, his great appeal is his imprecision. Watching him on a League of Women Voters forum with Frank Church, Henry Jackson and Moe Uddall was something of a revelation. Udall, Church and Jackson had obviously done their homework and were prepared to focus hard on the topic — the Problems of the Cities. They all made solid presentations, were loaded with facts and figures. The argument got a bit rough when Scop Jackson demolished the cliche that all we have to do to fix up the cities is cut the defense budget, but it was a fight on the issues.

Carter, in contrast, smiled that unquestionably winning, shy smile, then moved in hesitantly, almost in a whisper. He half-agreed with everybody, noted his experience in state government, both up-played and down-played the Federal role, agreed that the states should have more responsibility in some areas and less in other, opposed "red-lining" but said investors should not be forced to put money into risky real estate without guarantees, and came out for a more equitable system of taxation. He is the Elvis Presley of American politics!

Which, to revert to the main line of discussion, could well be the source of his appeal: The electorate may simply have given up issues, at least for Lent. A tip-off on the popularity of tip-toeing softly through the political minefield is Carter's astounding popularity among young voters — estimated by polls as 3-1 over any other candidate — who traditionally are the least issue-oriented segment of the electorate. In short, any effort to treat Carter as an empty jug waiting to be filled with vintage liberalism could be self-defeating — his secret weapon is peanut butter, creamy, bland and delicious.

Area Ambulances Taking Medicaid

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

A survey of a majority of ambulance services in Berrien county has shown none of the services are participating in a statewide turn down of non-emergency Medicaid calls that has been organized by a state ambulance group.

The move, which began Monday, is being staged to protest an 11 per cent reduction by the state in allowable Medicaid charges for non-emergency ambulance service, according to the Michigan Association of Ambulance Services and Emergency Medical Technicians.

Gary Fleetwood, Action president, said his firm would be hurt by the state move, but that it was not refusing calls. It will be able to collect from the state only $27 of an average $40 cost for the call. It previously could receive $33 from the program.

Action serves St. Joseph city and the townships of St. Joseph, Lincoln, Royalton and Sodus through a contractual arrangement. The municipalities pay the firm an annual subsidy to offset costs of services for citizens within their boundaries.

Joseph Garbert II, chairman of the Southwest Michigan Community Ambulance Service board, said that the service will not refuse ambulance service to anyone even though it might lose some revenue as a result.

Garbert said the SMCAS board established the policy soon after the service was established by the cities of Niles and Buchanan, and the townships of Buchanan, Bertrand and Niles, and Howard township in Cass county.

Other volunteer units, such as Coloma, Baroda, Lake, Three Oaks, Chikaming, Galien, New Buffalo, Weesaw and Watervliet, receive support from their respective governmental units and said they would not participate in the protest.

A spokesman for the state association said the group was concentrating its protest in the major metropolitan areas of the state including, Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids.

Rod Palmer, president of the state group, was quoted by the Associated Press last week as saying the state expects the ambulance industry to raise its rates to non-welfare patients or pay out of its own pocket to compensate for losses in transporting Medicaid patients.

Parolee Charged In Slaying

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A 23-year-old Pontiac man recently paroled from prison has been charged with murder and assault with intent to commit murder, Oakland County prosecutors said Thursday. Officials said Carl Lee Ashley was paroled Dec. 8 from the Michigan Training Unit at Ionia.

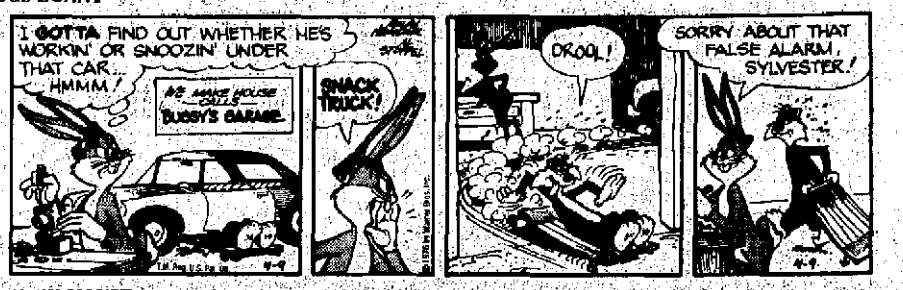

He was charged in the beating and armed robbery Sunday of a Pontiac Township drive-in theater manager and with the beating death of a Flint-area gas station attendant a week ago.

Ashley had been serving two sentences for armed robbery and unarmed robbery when he was paroled, officials said.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Slide Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued to slide lower today in the same bearish mood that has prevailed in the past three trading sessions.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down about a point and New York Stock Exchange issues declining in price held an almost 2-1 lead on those advancing.

The Dow's decline this week has been attributed to several factors, including a pessimistic market forecast by a highly regarded analyst and the opportunity for some investors to engage in selling for tax purposes.

Today, a report reached the market that Commerce Secretary Elliott Richardson said inflation may accelerate by summer.

Opening prices today included Merck Co. off ½ at 72½; U.S. Leasing, down ½ at 10; and American Telephone & Telegraph, off ¼ at 56¼.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 9.13 to 977.09.

Volume reached 20.86 million shares on the Big Board, compared with 20.19 million on Wednesday.

GM Names New Boss At Frigidaire

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has elected Emmett B. Lewis Jr. a vice president and general manager of GM's Frigidaire home appliance division effective May 1, the company announced Thursday.

Lewis, 60, currently vice president and general manager of the Diesel Division at GM of Canada Ltd., succeeds Harold W. Campbell, who is retiring.

Succeeding Lewis is A. Grant Warner, 49, who has been director of manufacturing at GM of Canada, the company said.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Utility Commons Instead Of Bonds

About a month ago I presented a guest column on utilities by E. Wayne Nordberg, partner in charge of research and investment counseling for the N.Y. Stock Exchange firm of Prescott, Ball & Turben. Mr. Nordberg favored utility commons as an investment medium over utility bonds, pointing to the substantial rise in dividend payout in recent years.

The column evoked considerable favorable response, accompanied, in many cases, by the plea: "O.K., we're convinced. But WHICH stocks?" Mr. Nordberg has kindly consented to present names:

The five companies that most meet the criteria (fuel supply and underlying natural resource assets, service area growth potential, conservative accounting and state regulation) are listed by Mr. Nordberg as: Montana Power, Utah Power & Light, Central Louisana Electric, Duke Power and Montana-Dakota Utilities.

In another listing of "highest quality" utilities, Mrs. Nordberg offers, in addition, Houston Lighting & Power, Kansas Power & Light, Louisville Gas & Electric, Public Service of Indiana and Wisconsin Electric Power. His group of "liberal income" utilities includes Baltimore Gas & Electric, Central Illinois Public Service, Interstate Power in addition to Montana-Dakota.

In reply to many readers' fears that the natural gas companies are "in trouble" I can only quote Mr. Nordberg:

"We have repeatedly recommended a group of diversified natural gas distributors for investors seeking rapid dividend growth and good current income." Five companies listed operate in the Southwest and Rocky Mountain areas. They are Southern Union Gas, Mountain Fuel Supply, Pioneer, Enserch (formerly Lone Star Gas) and Oklahoma Natural Gas.

Q. How does one use "return of capital" dividends received from utilities to determine the present cost price of his stock for capital gains purposes.?

A. It is not necessary to determine the present cost price unless (and until) you sell the stock. If, for example, you receive $2 a year in dividends on a stock, $1 of which is a "return of capital" and therefore exempt from current income taxes, you accumulate those $1 returns of capital until you sell the stock and then compute your cost price for capital gains purposes.

If you paid $40 for a share of stock and received dividends for six years, you would use the $6 total return of capital dividends to reduce your cost to $34. If you now sold the stock for $40 you would have a 6 point gain. If you sold it for $33, you would have a $1 (not $7) loss.

Q. What information can you give me on tax-exempt bonds due in the next 10 years?

A. If you sit down at the desk of any "municipal" bond trader in any firm which specializes in municipal bonds or in a large securities brokerage firm with a municipal bond department he can show you lists of bonds due anywhere from next month to 1989.

All you need do is take your pick of rates and yields (governed, of course, by the broker's advice of what's available in the amounts you want).

SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

Merger Suits Are Dismissed

DETROIT (AP) — Armada Corp. said Thursday the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has affirmed an earlier District Court decision that dismissed two class action lawsuits brought against the firm and the directors of Hoskins Manufacturing Co.

Armada said the lawsuits were brought by minority shareholders of Hoskins alleging violations of the federal securities law. The charges were made in connection with a tender offer in 1973 and merger in 1974 in which Armada acquired Hoskins.

A $220,000 'Lure'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state legislature has voted to spend $220,000 in an attempt to lure a solar energy research institute to Michigan. The money will go to the Department of Commerce which will prepare a proposal urging the federal government to locate the institute in the state. The federal Energy Research and Development Administration will make the choice on where to locate the facility, which also is being sought by other states, including Massachusetts and New Mexico. The institute will be used to conduct research in solar energy.

Conviction Of Rapist Is Upheld

The Michigan Court of Appeals has affirmed the convictions and life prison sentences of a former Sodus man convicted in Berrien Circuit court of rape and armed robbery.

Upheld were the guilty verdicts against Leroy Brady, 50, who in September, 1974, was sentenced to concurrent life imprisonment terms by Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes.

Brady was charged with raping a 50-year-old woman April 28, 1974, along the St. Joseph river off Diller road in Sodus township and then robbing her of $65 at gunpoint.

Brady in his appeal claimed he was denied effective assistance of counsel during the trial, that the prosecutor made misstatements of fact during his argument, and that Hughes erred in instructing the jury about a defendant's right not to take the stand. The appellate court held that neither Hughes nor the prosecutor erred, and "we cannot find that the defendant was denied effective assistance of counsel."

VW Official Says Plant In U.S. Vital

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Volkswagen must set up a U.S. production plant if it wants to save its American market, a member of the board of the West German auto maker said Thursday.

Walther Leisler Kiep, Lower Saxony state finance minister and member of VW's supervisory board, told Bonn's Foreign Press Association he was hopeful labor union representatives on the board would join in voting for the U.S. project.

The board meets on April 23, and Kiep said he expected a favorable decision to be quickly followed by management's choice of a plant location in the United States. But he declined to speculate where that might be, although Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland are interested.

In the face of declining U.S. sales, an American plant had become a "necessity" for Volkswagen. "The alternative would be for VW to abandon its U.S. market," Kiep told newsmen.

U.S. production, he said, would discourage VW dealers from making alliances with Japanese auto makers to compensate for turnover losses. A dual-brand dealership would ruin the purity of the current Volkswagen sales and service network in the United States, Kiep maintained.

Therefore, a favorable decision by VW's supervisory board would have "repercussions beyond the American market," he argued.

In Kiep's view, Volkswagen also stood to benefit from American production know-how, which is part of the reason for lower unit costs in the United States.

Kiep discounted speculation that a decision on the U.S. project might be postponed, saying, "I think a decision must be reached (on April 23)—one way or the other."

When questioned about a possible plant site, Kiep jokingly said that the number of U.S. governors who have not visited Wolfsburg to bid for the production facility was "relatively small." As finance minister of a state trying itself to attract new industry, Kiep said he marvelled at the power American governors displayed in offering all forms of tax and financial concessions to prospective investors.

Clark Reaffirms Strike Stand

BUCHANAN — Clark Equipment company today re-affirmed its position that a strike resulting from next Thursday's vote by Local 488, United Auto Workers union members would be illegal.

The company said, "Although (union president Lemuel) Barker continues his attempts to mislead both the public and the employe population with references to alleged promises which have not been kept, it is still obvious that the real issue is the discharge of a member of his inner circle — a union steward.

"It is unfortunate that a man with a record as poor as this employe (the one dismissed) held an office of responsibility within the union. We could not, however, ignore his actions of refusing to do his job because of that position."

While Barker claims the actions of the last few days result from a number of issues, it was not until the day following the employe's discharge that the union called for the vote held Wednesday and created all the other issues to camouflage the real reason, the company said.

On Wednesday, hourly workers at the Buchanan plant in balloting authorized a strike vote to be taken next Thursday, April 15.

Barker has said grievances over working conditions, safety and health were at issue. The union has charged that Clark has not bargained in good faith to settle the issues.

In a statement earlier this week, the company announced it would consider any strike "illegal and unjustifiable."

property sandblasted causing depreciation and additional maintenance cost to both real and personal property.

I know when the contracts are let for the new township complex, I would like to see a minimum of three bids on any phase of work publicized in detail with a 10% retainer. This would insure the taxpayers that the contractor would be liable to correct their own errors and not at taxpayers expense as apparently happened with the sanitary sewer project at Hickory Creek and the repaving of Washington Avenue near Hilltop.

In closing, I was told that nothing could be done now to alter the plans in any way but I was also told there would be another hearing and I encourage all opposition to turn out in force.

HE THINKS ARTICLE WAS BIASED

Editor,

Your article on Cass County sheriff candidate Terry LeMunyon in the April 3 issue of the Herald-Palladium concerned me.

After reading the article about Mr. LeMunyon, I could agree that perhaps his lifestyle is different than some other citizens. He has chosen to live without some modern conveniences and doesn't rely on an established business or industry for his income.

It is my feeling that your bold, one inch headline (bigger than any headline in the paper that day, I might add) about Mr. LeMunyon being "different" was an attempt to be cynical. It seemed to me that the candidate's prior experiences with the law were being greatly overworked. I don't see where pictures of his residence or a previous raid at his residence were pertinent or appropriate to an article about Mr. LeMunyon's candidacy for office. In short, I think the article showed bias against Mr. LeMunyon.

I do not know Mr. LeMunyon, his family, or any other Cass County candidates or officials. However, as a reader of your publication, I felt that the report of this story showed a lack of objectivity and fairness. Whether or not he is a qualified candidate for the office he seeks, I think it is your responsibility to be as objective as possible in reporting about someone who is "different" in any respect; objective in all reporting, for that matter.

I personally prefer to read an objective news story and then draw my own conclusions about it.

Walkout Hits Shop At Bendix

Approximately 200 to 300 machine shop workers at Bendix corporation's St. Joseph division have walked off the job since last night in an apparent wildcat strike.

Robert Ruffin, director of industrial relations at Bendix, Lake Shore drive, south of St. Joseph, said the machine shop workers walked off the job around 8 p.m. Many midnight and day shift machine shop workers did not report for work today.

Ruffin said the strike "...pretty much boils down to personal issues." He said it has always been the company's position "...to sit down and deal with issues as outlined in the collective bargaining agreement."

He said representatives of UAW Local 383 were meeting this morning in an effort to resolve the situation. Union representatives were unavailable for comment this morning.

Firemen Request Arbitration

NILES — The Niles township firemen's union has filed a request with the Michigan Employment Relations commission for arbitration to settle contract talks with the township.

John Papczynski, president of local 2428 of the International Association of Firefighters, said the request to the state agency was filed because the union contends the township board has failed to negotiate a new contract in good faith.

Papczynski said the board has not provided the union with budget figures needed by the local to negotiate economic provisions of the contract. He added that an unfair labor practices complaint may also be filed with the state agency over contract negotiations.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Slide Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued to slide lower today in the same bearish mood that has prevailed in the past three trading sessions.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down about a point and New York Stock Exchange issues declining in price held on almost 2-1 lead on those advancing.

The Dow's decline this week has been attributed to several factors, including a pessimistic market forecast by a highly regarded analyst and the opportunity for some investors to engage in selling for tax purposes.

Today, a report reached the market that Commerce Secretary Elliott Richardson said inflation may accelerate by summer.

Opening prices today included Merck Co. off ½ at 72½; U.S. Leasing, down ½ at 10; and American Telephone & Telegraph, off ¼ at 56⅛.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 9.13 to 977.09.

New York Stock Exchange issues declining in price held a 41 margin on those advancing.

Volume reached 20.86 million shares on the Big Board, compared with 20.19 million on Wednesday.

The NYSE composite index of all its listed common shares fell .53 to 53.97 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index declined .93 to 101.28.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Utility Commons Instead Of Bonds

About a month ago I presented a guest column on utilities by E. Wayne Nordberg, partner in charge of research and investment counseling for the N.Y. Stock Exchange firm of Prescott, Ball & Turben. Mr. Nordberg favored utility commons as an investment medium over utility bonds, pointing to the substantial rise in dividend payout in recent years.

The column evoked considerable favorable response, accompanied, in many cases, by the plea:: "O.K., we're convinced. But WHICH stocks?" Mr. Nordberg has kindly consented to present names:

The five companies that most meet the criteria (fuel supply and underlying natural resource assets, service area growth potential, conservative accounting and state regulation) are listed by Mr. Nordberg as: Montana Power, Utah Power & Light, Central Louisana Electric, Duke Power and Montana-Dakota Utilities.

In another listing of "highest quality" utilities, Mrs. Nordberg offers, in addition, Houston Lighting & Power, Kansas Power & Light, Louisville Gas & Electric, Public Service of Indiana and Wisconsin Electric Power. His group of "liberal income" utilities includes Baltimore Gas & Electric, Central Illinois Public Service, Interstate Power in addition to Montana-Dakota.

In reply to many readers' fears that the natural gas companies are "in trouble" I can only quote Mr. Nordberg:

"We have repeatedly recommended a group of diversified natural gas distributors for investors seeking rapid dividend growth and good current income." Five companies listed operate in the Southwest and Rocky Mountain areas. They are Southern Union Gas, Mountain Fuel Supply, Pioneer, Enserch (formerly Lone Star Gas) and Oklahoma Natural Gas.

Q. How does one use "return of capital" dividends received from utilities to determine the present cost price of his stock for capital gains purposes.?

A. It is not necessary to determine the present cost price unless (and until) you sell the stock. If, for example, you receive $2 a year in dividends on a stock, $1 of which is a "return of capital" and therefore exempt from current income taxes, you accumulate those $1 returns of capital until you sell the stock and then compute your cost price for capital gains purposes.

If you paid $40 for a share of stock and received dividends for six years, you would use the $6 total return of capital dividends to reduce your cost to $34. If you now sold the stock for $40 you would have a 6 point gain. If you sold it for $33, you would have a $1 (not $7) loss.

Q. What information can you give me on tax-exempt bonds due in the next 10 years?

A. If you sit down at the desk of any "municipal" bond trader in any firm which specializes in municipal bonds or in a large securities brokerage firm with a municipal bond department he can show you lists of bonds due anywhere from next month to 1986.

All you need do is take your pick of rates and yields (governed, of course, by the broker's advice of what's available in the amounts you want).

SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For information on retirement, and pre-retirement planning, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

Merger Suits Are Dismissed

DETROIT (AP) — Armada Corp. said Thursday the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has affirmed an earlier District Court decision that dismissed two class action lawsuits brought against the firm and the directors of Hoskins Manufacturing Co.

Armada said the lawsuits were brought by minority shareholders of Hoskins alleging violations of the federal securities law. The charges were made in connection with a tender offer in 1973 and merger in 1974 in which Armada acquired Hoskins.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state legislature has voted to spend $220,000 in an attempt to lure a solar energy research institute to Michigan. The money will go to the Department of Commerce which will prepare a proposal urging the federal government to locate the institute in the state. The federal Energy Research and Development Administration will make the choice on where to locate the facility, which also is being sought by other states, including Massachusetts and New Mexico. The institute will be used to conduct research in solar energy.

Hijackers, claiming to be Moslem rebels, released 67 plane passengers unharmed and took off in a jet for northern Borneo. They're on way to Libya now. (AP Wirephoto)

Conviction Of Rapist Is Upheld

The Michigan Court of Appeals has affirmed the convictions and life prison sentences of a former Sodus man convicted in Berrien Circuit court of rape and armed robbery.

Upheld were the guilty verdicts against Leroy Brady, 50, who in September, 1974, was sentenced to concurrent life imprisonment terms by Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes.

Brady was charged with raping a 50-year-old woman April 28, 1974, along the St. Joseph river off Diller road in Sodus township and then robbing her of $65 at gunpoint.

Brady in his appeal claimed he was denied effective assistance of counsel during the trial, that the prosecutor made misstatements of fact during his argument, and that Hughes erred in instructing the jury about a defendant's right not to take the stand. The appellate court held that neither Hughes nor the prosecutor erred, and "we cannot find that the defendant was denied effective assistance of counsel."

VW Official Says Plant In U.S. Vital

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Volkswagen must set up a U.S. production plant if it wants to save its American market, a member of the board of the West German auto maker said Thursday.

Walther Leisler Kiep, Lower Saxony state finance minister and member of VW's supervisory board, told Bonn's Foreign Press Association he was hopeful labor union representatives on the board would join in voting for the U.S. project.

The board meets on April 23, and Kiep said he expected a favorable decision to be quickly followed by management's choice of a plant location in the United States. But he declined to speculate where that might be, although Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland are interested.

In the face of declining U.S. sales, an American plant had become a "necessity" for Volkswagen. "The alternative would be for VW to abandon its U.S. market," Kiep told newsmen.

U.S. production, he said, would discourage VW dealers from making alliances with Japanese auto makers to compensate for turnover losses. A dual-brand dealership would ruin the purity of the current Volkswagen sales and service network in the United States, Kiep maintained.

Therefore, a favorable decision by VW's supervisory board would have "repercussions beyond the American market," he argued.

In Kiep's view, Volkswagen also stood to benefit from American production know-how, which is part of the reason for lower unit costs in the United States.

Kiep discounted speculation that a decision on the U.S. project might be postponed, saying, "I think a decision must be reached (on April 23)—one way or the other."

When questioned about a possible plant site, Kiep jokingly said that the number of U.S. governors who have not visited Wolfsburg to bid for the production facility was "relatively small." As finance minister of a state trying itself to attract new industry, Kiep said he marvelled at the power American governors displayed in offering all forms of tax and financial concessions to prospective investors.

Clark Reaffirms Strike Stand

BUCHANAN — Clark Equipment company today re-affirmed its position that a strike resulting from next Thursday's vote by Local 468, United Auto Workers union members would be illegal.

The company said, "Although (union president Lemuel) Barker continues his attempts to mislead both the public and the employe population with references to alleged promises which have not been kept, it is still obvious that the real issue is the discharge of a member of his inner circle — a union steward.

"It is unfortunate that a man with a record as poor as this employe (the one dismissed) held an office of responsibility within the union. We could not, however, ignore his actions of refusing to do his job because of that position."

While Barker claims the actions of the last few days result from a number of issues, it was not until the day following the employe's discharge that the union called for the vote held Wednesday and created all the other issues to camouflage the real reason, the company said.

On Wednesday, hourly workers at the Buchanan plant in balloting authorized a strike vote to be taken next Thursday, April 15.

Barker has said grievances over working conditions, safety and health were at issue. The union has charged that Clark has not bargained in good faith to settle the issues.

In a statement earlier this week, the company announced it would consider any strike "illegal and unjustifiable."

property sandblasted causing depreciation and additional maintenance cost to both real and personal property.

I know when the contracts are let for the new township complex, I would like to see a minimum of three bids on any phase of work publicized in detail with a 10% retainer. This would insure the taxpayers that the contractor would be liable to correct their own errors and not at taxpayers expense as apparently happened with the sanitary sewer project at Hickory Creek and the repaving of Washington Avenue near Hilltop.

In closing, I was told that nothing could be done now to alter the plans in any way but I was also told there would be another hearing and I encourage all opposition to turn out in force.

HE THINKS ARTICLE WAS BIASED

Editor,

Your article on Cass County sheriff candidate Terry LeMunyon in the April 3 issue of the Herald-Palladium concerned me.

After reading the article about Mr. LeMunyon, I could agree that perhaps his lifestyle is different than some other citizens. He has chosen to live without some modern conveniences and doesn't rely on an established business or industry for his income.

It is my feeling that your bold, one inch headline (bigger than any headline in the paper that day, I might add) about Mr. LeMunyon being "different" was an attempt to be cynical. It seemed to me that the candidate's prior experiences with the law were being greatly overworked. I don't see where pictures of his residence or a previous raid at his residence were pertinent or appropriate to an article about Mr. LeMunyon's candidacy for office. In short, I think the article showed bias against Mr. LeMunyon.

I do not know Mr. LeMunyon, his family, or any other Cass County candidates or officials. However, as a reader of your publication, I felt that the report of this story showed a lack of objectivity and fairness. Whether or not he is a qualified candidate for the office he seeks, I think it is your responsibility to be as objective as possible in reporting about someone who is "different" in any respect; objective in all reporting, for that matter.

I personally prefer to read an objective news story and then draw my own conclusions about it.

Walkout Hits Shop At Bendix

Approximately 200 to 300 machine shop workers at Bendix corporation's St. Joseph division have walked off the job since last night in an apparent wildcat strike.

Robert Ruffin, director of industrial relations at Bendix, Lake Shore drive, south of St. Joseph, said the machine shop workers walked off the job around 8 p.m. Many midnight and day shift machine shop workers did not report for work today.

Ruffin said the strike "...pretty much boils down to personal issues." He said it has always been the company's position "...to sit down and deal with issues as outlined in the collective bargaining agreement."

He said representatives of UAW Local 383 were meeting this morning in an effort to resolve the situation. Union representatives were unavailable for comment this morning.

Firemen Request Arbitration

NILES — The Niles township firemen's union has filed a request with the Michigan Employment Relations commission for arbitration to settle contract talks with the township.

John Papczynski, president of local 2428 of the International Association of Firefighters, said the request to the state agency was filed because the union contends the township board has failed to negotiate a new contract in good faith.

Papczynski said the board has not provided the union with budget figures needed by the local to negotiate economic provisions of the contract. He added that an unfair labor practices complaint may also be filed with the state agency over contract negotiations.

Contract talks, mediated by the state agency, have been underway since the first of the year, Papczynski said.

LEGAL NOTICES

116, Public Acts of 1954 As Amended.

From 8 o'clock a.m. until 8 o'clock p.m. on said day for the purpose of REVIEWING the REGISTRATION and REGISTERING SUCH OF THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS IN SAID TOWNSHIP, CITY or VILLAGE as SHALL PROPERLY apply therefor.

The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the precinct at the time of registration, and entitled under the Constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election, shall be entered in the registration book.

ELECTOR UNABLE TO MAKE PERSONAL APPLICATION, PROCEDURE

SEC. 504. Any elector who is unable to make personal application for registration because of physical disability or absence from the Township, City or Village in which his legal residence is located, may be registered prior to the close of registration before any election or primary election by securing from the Clerk of the Township, City or Village in which is located his legal residence, duplicate registration cards and executing in duplicate the registration affidavit before a notary public or other officer legally authorized to administer oaths and returning such registration cards to the Clerk of the Township, City or Village before the close of office hours on the last day of registration prior to any election or primary election. The notary public or other officer administering the oath shall sign his name on the line for the signature of the registration officer and designate his title.

UNREGISTERED PERSONS NOT ENTITLED TO VOTE

SEC. 491. The Inspectors of election at any election or primary election in this State, or in any District, County, Township, City or Village thereof, shall not receive the vote of any person who name is not registered in the registration book of the Township, Ward or Precinct in which he offers to vote. (As provided under Act 116, P. A. 1954.)

TRANSFER OF REGISTERATION, APPLICATION, TIME

SEC. 506. A registered elector may upon change of residence within the Township, City or Village cause his registration to be transferred to his new address by sending to the Clerk a signed request, stating his present address, the date he moved thereto, and the address from which he was last registered, or by applying in person for a transfer. The Clerk shall strike through the last address, ward and precinct number and record the new address, ward and precinct number on the original and duplicate registration cards, and shall place the original registration card in proper precinct file. Transfers shall not be made after the 30th day next preceding a regular or special election or primary election, unless the 30th day shall fall on a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday in which event registration transfers shall be accepted during the following day.

TRANSFER OF REGISTRATION ON ELECTION DAY

SEC. 507. Any registered elector who has removed from one election precinct of a Township, City or Village to another election precinct of the same Township, City or Village and had not recorded such removal with the local clerk shall execute a transfer of registration request, listing the new residence address thereon over his signature, with the election board in the precinct in which he is registered at the next ensuing primary or election. The inspector of election in charge of the registration records shall compare the signature thereon with the signature upon the applicant's registration record and, if the signatures correspond, then the inspector shall certify such fact by affixing his initials upon said request. The applicant for transfer, after having signed an application to vote as provided in Section 523 of this act, shall then be permitted to vote in such precinct for that primary or election only. The application for transfer shall be filed with the Township, City or Village Clerk who shall transfer such voter's registration in accordance with the application. When the name of any street in a Township, City or Village has been changed, it shall be the duty of the Township, City or Village Clerk to make the change to show the proper name of street in the registration records, and it shall not be necessary for the elector to change his registration with respect thereto in order to be eligible to vote.

No. 203... Is on, and you can be a winner. 10 acres to be rezoned industrial, located in the heart of activity in Lake Twp. Adequate 3 phase electric power, twp. water, I-94 and rail facilities. Call Totzke Real Estate at 429-3266 today.

SO THEY SAY

Opportunity knocks only once, this may very well be the time. Excellent location on Red Arrow Highway near Bridgman I-94 Interchange and only a short distance from the famous Warren Dunes State Park. You can operate most any type of business out of this 7 room house and still have your own living quarters. Or you can build new facilities and still keep your home because you have nearly 2 acres of land and a very large highway frontage to work with. We would appreciate the opportunity to show you this property. Please call for an appointment.
